

Gloom and Despair

THE WAY TO VIGOR, HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

An Attack of La Grippe Left the Sufferer Weak, Nervous and Enfeebled—A Victim of Insomnia and Heart Trouble.

Naturally every sick person to whom help is promised, will ask, "has the remedy been successful? Whom has it helped?" We cannot better answer these questions than by publishing testimonials received from grateful people who are anxious that other sufferers may profit by their experience. One of these grateful ones is Mrs. Douglas Kilts, of Perry Station, Ont. Mrs. Kilts says: "Three years ago I had a very severe attack of la grippe, and the disease left me in an extremely worn out, nervous, and enfeebled condition. The nervousness was so severe as to have almost resulted in St. Vitus dance. Sleep forsook me. I had had attacks of heart trouble, and the headaches I endured were something terrible. I had no appetite, and was literally fading away; I was not able to work about the house and was so weak that I could scarcely lift a cup of tea. I was treated by a good doctor, but with no benefit. Almost in despair, I resorted to patent medicines, and tried several, one after another, only to be disappointed by each. I lingered in this condition until the winter of 1899, when a friend prevailed upon me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I began taking them. From the first the pills helped me and I could feel my strength gradually returning. I continued the use of the pills according to directions until I had taken eight boxes when I was again enjoying perfect health. My strength had entirely returned, my appetite was splendid, the heart trouble and nervousness had ceased, while the blessing of sleep, once denied, had again returned. I had gained over thirty pounds in weight, and was able to do all my housework with ease. In fact I had received a new lease of life. I believe my cure is permanent, as more than a year has since passed and I feel so strong and well that I venture to say there is not a healthier woman in this section; indeed I am enjoying better health than I have for twenty years, and this has been brought about by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I feel that I cannot say enough in their praise for I believe they saved my life. My son has also received the greatest benefit from the use of these pills in a case of spring fever."

THE ONLY TURQUOISE MINES.

They Are in Persia and the Native Prize Them Highly.

About thirty-five miles from Nishapur, in the Khorassan, are the celebrated turquoise mines of Persia, the only mines in the world producing this fashionable stone. They are situated in a mountainous region 5,000 or 6,000 feet above the sea level and employ perhaps 1,500 persons. The concession is about forty square miles in extent, including a few villages, the turquoise salt and other mines.

This tract is exploited by a local land and banker in partnership, who pay an annual rental of 14,000 to the state, or $14,000. The lessees work only three mines, the Raish, the Zaki, and the Ali Mirzai, and sublet twelve others. Underground mines are opened in the solid rocks by picks and blasting. There are also khaki, earth, mines or surface diggings in the debris of the mines, or in the detritus of the rocks, washed down by the rains extending a mile or so over the plain from the foot of the mountain. About 140 miners are employed at the three mines mentioned, receiving from two to three kranas per day. A kran equals ten cents. The Raish is the only mine in full operation; it produces the greater part of the world's supply of turquoise, having a weekly output of over $400.

Primitive in the extreme is the manner of working. Two men sitting at the opening of the shaft, their backs braced against the cave walls, turn an old wooden wheel with their feet. From the wheel depends a small sheepskin bag capable of holding perhaps a peck. A third man receives the full bag, empties and retaches it to the rope. The wheel is suddenly released and the bag drops a depth of forty feet, where other workmen on a narrow ledge repeat the process. The total depth of the mine is from eighty to ninety feet.

Even the poorest stones are prized by the Orientals, who wear them set in tin rings. Motley, green-spotted stones with but a thin coating of enamel sometimes cracked and showing the brown inside core will now be purchased by the Arabs. Defective flat gems are utilized by inscribing upon them words or mottoes in gold, in such a way as to hide the imperfections. Every species of stone finds a sale, the smallest being used in ornamental brass work for decorating pipes.

GRAINS OF GOLD.

Tale-bearers are just as bad as the tale-makers—Sheridan.

Other, is laughable to read some advertisements, but it's no wonder the tea round the tea check to Ribbon Belyon.

THREE O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING.

There is a time of morning
When the joyous, newborn day
And the opal tints of approaching dawn
As yet seem far away.
In the eastern sky is movement,
No glow, but impending change.
The house is filled with echoes;
Familiar rooms look strange.
Slip back the bolts and leave them
Scal out beneath the sky;
Stand alone in an unknown world
Of awful purity.
Stand alone with folded hands,
Wait for the gift of wings,
Wait to be lifted higher,
Nearer the heart of things!
The heavens are clear and moonlit
Though the moon is on the wane;
The wind that wailed throughout the night
Drops with a sigh of pain.
A vague alarm is creeping
Over the fields and lawn;
Time pauses, night is over,
And yet it is not dawn.
Ary down in the pasture
The cattle turn and moan;
All living things are troubled
With a sense of the unknown.
For they with eyes may see now,
And they who question know,
Make the most of the magic hour,
The east begins to glow!
The east is all in tumult,
The charmed hour is past,
For, breaking up the quiet skies,
The day appears at last.
—Olive Moleworth in Chambers' Journal.

PAYING FOR A MEAL.

It Was Worth a Shilling to Pick Those Bones.

Colonel Ebenezer Sprout, of Revolutionary fame, was born and bred in Middleboro, Mass. He was always fond of a joke and was quick to seize an opportunity to indulge his propensity, as the following incident, related by Dr. Hildreth, well illustrates. His father, also a Colonel Sprout, kept a tavern. One day while Ebenezer was at home on a furlough three private soldiers, on their return from the seat of war, called for a cold luncheon. Mrs. Sprout set on the table some bread and cheese with the remnants of the family dinner, which her son thought rather scanty fare for hungry soldiers. He felt a little vexed that the defenders of the country were not more bountifully supplied. The soldiers, after satisfying their appetites, asked him how much they should pay. Ebenezer said he would ask his mother. He found her in the kitchen. "Mother," he said, "how much is it worth to pick those bones?" "About a shilling, I guess," she answered. The young officer returned to the soldiers, and taking from the barroom till 8 shillings and smiling genially upon them, gave each man one and with good wishes sent them on their way. Mrs. Sprout soon after came in and asked Ebenezer what he had done with the money for the soldiers' dinner. "In apparent amazement he exclaimed: 'Money! Did I not ask you what it was worth to pick those bones, and you said a shilling? I thought it little enough, for the bones were pretty bare, and I handed the men the money from the till, and they are gone.' Mrs. Sprout could not find heart to reprove her favorite son for this misinterpretation of her words, and then she, too, loved a joke, and so, after an instant's glum look, she laughed and said it was all right—'Youth's Commission'.

General Tramps in Church.

A rich congregation does not need to go to the poorer part of a city to do mischief, for it can create, if it so please, a nursery of general tramps within its own borders. When a minister and his people have the reputation of a soft heart, and by that it often meant a soft head, the news spreads far and wide, and there is an immediate accession to the number of worshippers. Tradespeople of the lower class who wish to push their business and do not feel sufficiently confident about the goods they sell, young men who have lost their situations because they wouldn't do their work; families of women who would consider it beneath them to do anything for their own living and are adepts in what may be called general raiding; incapable men of business whose no bank would trust with fifty dollars, but who hope to get a thousand by quoting the Sermon on the Mount—all these gather and sit down within the sheltering walls of this Christian asylum.—'Jan MacLaren' in the Ladies' Home Journal.

A Positive Thing.

Christianity is nothing if not positive. The mere hatred of evil in a particular form is no evidence of piety. Men have hated the devil who had made little progress toward loving God. Jehu, the furious driver, in a burst of zeal swept his kingdom of Baal worshippers; but "Jehu took no heed to walk in the law of the Lord God of Israel with all his heart." It is little to the point to do what a man is against; it is vital to know what he is for.

The Perfect Proportion.

It is said to be perfectly proportioned if a man should weigh 38 pounds for every foot of his height.

"I think not. He has owned me seven years for eight years."

Imitations

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. The original is safe. Dodd's Kidney Pills have a reputation. Imitators have none or they wouldn't imitate. So they trade on the reputation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Do not be deceived. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

To Conquer Worry.

Consider what must be involved in the truth that God is infinite and that you are a part of His plan. Memorize some of the Scripture promises and recall them when the temptation to worry returns. Cultivate a spirit of gratitude for daily mercies. Realize worrying is an enemy which destroys your happiness. Realize that it can be cured by persistent effort. Attack it definitely, as something to be overcome. Realize that it has never done, and never can do, the least good. It wastes vitality and impairs the mental faculties. Help and comfort your neighbor. Forgive your enemies and conquer your aversions. The world is what we make it. Forward, then! Forward in the power of faith, forward in the power of truth, forward in the power of friendship, forward in the power of freedom, forward in the power of hope, forward in the power of God!

Happiness.

"I was recently party to a discussion," said a doctor, "where the question of the nature of happiness arose, and a certain wise head present was asked to define it. His reply was so satisfactory that I trust you will allow me to repeat it for the benefit of those interested. 'Happiness is a state of mind—more active than contentment, less pronounced and more abiding than joyfulness. Whose principle and permanent source is in a temperament disposed to make the best of what is, whose immediate occasion is in a consciousness which pleased with the present, is without acute regret or undue apprehension.'"

The Seven Sins.

Robbie—Uncle Jacob, Mr. Tarbox, said this morning that when he fell from the roof he had the seven senses knocked out of him. I thought there were only five senses. Uncle Jake—Dere is seben senses, honey, but ef dat man, or any uthad man had em all, dey's a mirrikle. Yaas dere's seben ob 'um—hearin', seein', feelin', tastin', is de five 'at some folks knows about. Den dere's 'oss sense, which some mules an' some white folks hain't got; an' den, lassly, dere's common sense, which is so uncommon 'at it nevah gets to be plenty, an' mighty few people has it—at least in my time.

Reality of Sin and Suffering.

If there is no sin, sorrow and pain in the world—so it is all an illusion—why did Jesus weep? If there were no pain in His death on the cross, why did He pray: "Father, if it be possible let this cup pass from Me." If there were no atonement needed, why did He die? He was a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief—how could He sorrow over imaginary afflictions and be acquainted with griefs which had no reality?

Inexpensive Silver Polish.

An inexpensive everyday polish for silverware is made by mixing half a teaspoonful of ammonia with all the whitening it will absorb, then adding enough of the water in which potatoes were boiled to make the consistency of bread.

Cannibals Like Roast Pork.

In the New Hebrides human life has been made safer by the introduction of pigs into the island. The cannibals are said to prefer roast pork to roast man.

Hetty Green on Girls.

A girl should be brought up so as to be able to make her own living whether or not she's going to inherit a fortune. But a woman's place is in the home, though some women do better in business than men. A girl ought to be especially about the man she marries, too, especially if she has money. She ought to marry until she's old enough to know what she's doing anyway.

Was a Fast Runner.

It has just been discovered that Caesar and Pompey fought 60 miles from their celebrated battle ground. This shows that Pompey ran faster and farther than has hitherto been supposed, says the Chicago Times-Herald, and we take pleasure in correcting the mistake.

He Objected to the Sailor Hat.

A funny story is told in Paris of a Kansas City girl who was studying art. It happened several years ago, but has not lost its interest even now in the Latin quarter. For some occult reason or inexplicable whim the masculine students disapproved of the sailor hats worn by the English and American girls and made themselves generally obnoxious by rude comments. One day the Kansas City girl was going to her little room from the atelier where she studied. In one hand she carried a portfolio, in the other a tightly rolled umbrella. After a time she was followed by a tall youth, whom she recognized as a poet and a leader in the warfare upon sailor hats. He followed her block after block, loudly expressing his disapproval of the hat she wore, until she became exasperated beyond endurance, especially as his objections took the form of paper and bread balls thrown at the offending cap. During the incident, but calmly, in front of a large class she asked sweetly, "Am I to understand that you desire me to remove my hat, monsieur?" The poet, long and loud of hair and lean of aspect, answered unhesitatingly, "At once, mademoiselle."

Queen Emma's Diamonds.

The ex-Queen Regent Emma of Holland can plume herself on having a more beautiful collection of diamonds than any other of the crowned women of Europe. The piece of highest value is a remarkable diamond of diamonds and sapphires, some of which are of extraordinary size and produce the grandest effect by the way in which they are arranged. The sapphires are placed on the front and increase in size toward the middle, where a sapphire of the size of a walnut forms the apex. Below this sapphire there are three stems bearing three diamonds of the size of hazelnuts. These diamonds rise like flowers from the midst of a crown of leaves.

Not less rich is a stream of 34 large brilliant and a necklace of three rows of splendid pearls, with hooks of diamonds from which hang pearls of extraordinary size. There are also various brooches ornamented with diamonds and the royal crown. One represents the lion of the Netherlands and another the initials of the royal couple. The effect is augmented by the great skill with which the stones are cut, enabling them to dart forth magnificent flashes of light.—Le Diamant.

She Oiled the Baby.

The absurd manner in which ignorant mothers misconstrue instructions given in reference to the care of their babies is well illustrated by the following story told by a lady out of her own experience. "While in one of our great New York hospitals some months ago I observed a very unhappy, helpless looking woman sitting in the waiting room with what seemed to be a bundle of soiled clothes in her lap. It was a 6-week-old baby! As I drew near she said: 'Oh, madam, my baby is dying.' I turned down the cover from the little one's face and involuntarily exclaimed: 'Oh, how awful!' The poor little infant's face and hands were literally frosted with dirt. I said: 'Have you bathed this baby this morning?' She answered triumphantly: 'Oh, no. I have not washed it much since it was born. I have just oiled it.' Some one had told her it was well to use sweet oil with a newborn babe, and she had done it."

A Busy Princess.

The prince consort, in writing congratulations to the princess royal on the birth of the queen's and his first grand daughter, said: "The little girl must be a darling. Little maidens are much prettier than boys. 'I advise her to model herself after her Aunt Beatrice. That excellent lady' (then 3 years old) 'has not a moment to spare. I have no time,' she says, when she is asked anything, 'I must write letters to my niece.'"

Without Distinction of Sex.

At a prayer meeting in London in which people of various sects took part one of the speakers thus tersely expressed himself: "What I mean to say, gentlemen, is this—if a man's heart is in the right place it don't matter at all what sex he belongs to."

A Small Pill, but Powerful.

They that judge of the powers of a pill by its size would consider Parmelee's Vegetable Pills to be lacking. It is a little wonder among pills. What it lacks in size it makes up in potency. The remedies which it carries are put up in these small doses, because they are so powerful that a small quantity is sufficient. The full strength of the extracts is secured in this form and do their work thoroughly.

An Economical Wife.

Wife—Karl, we ought not to spend so much for our summer trip this year, and I've thought of one way to cut down expenses. Husband—And what is that, my dear? "We won't ask the doctor this year if I need the trip; that will save $6."

A New System of Coaling.

A new way to coal locomotives is being introduced by a prominent railroad. All the engineer has to do is to run his engine on a trestle, and touch a button, and a tenderful of coal drops into his tender, and is weighed as it drops in.

Preserving Bath for Timber.

An Australian has patented a new treatment for preserving timber from decay. It consists in immersing the timber in a solution of arsenious acid and an alkali until thoroughly impregnated, after which a coating of sulphate of copper is applied.

A Pretty Good Liar Himself.

"I had a funny dream last night," said Mrs. Wattles the other morning to her liege lord. "I dreamed that I was dead and had made my way to heaven. Yes, you needn't laugh! That's exactly where I went. At the gate I was met by St. Peter, who examined my record and then told me to come in and get measured for a new pair of wings. They were all out of their old stock, he said, and their ready to wear order hadn't been filled quite promptly. 'But before you come in,' he said, 'you must step into this little room in the gate, and on the blackboard there you must make a chalk mark for every lie you have told. Unless you can do that you can't come in.' I was just starting forward when I saw you coming out of the door, dear."

Still Doing Service.

The Chicago Tribune calls attention to the fact that the food old story, dear to our grandfathers and their fathers before them, of the new footman who went around town with his mistress, making calls and leaving cards till these were "none left but the ace of spades and the ten of diamonds," is having its decennial run through the papers.

Poor Pay for Teachers.

In the private schools of China a teacher is paid about one cent a day for each pupil.

The Earmarks of an Exquisite Girl.

An exquisite young woman is she whose dress and hair and skin indicate the most scrupulous attention to the daily toilette. We have learned that bathing and rubbing and care for personal cleanliness, the nicety which distinguishes the lady, and adorns her for her station, are the handmaids not of health alone, but of beauty, and where is the young girl who despises beauty? For the business girl whose daily employment is close and confining, nothing can be better than that she emulate the dainty girl in her everyday care of her dress and appearance and in frequent cleansing of the skin by thorough bathing and vigorous friction, and by keeping herself and all her belongings as dainty as she possibly can.—Margaret E. Sangster, in the August Ladies' Home Journal.

Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup stands at the head of the list for all diseases of the throat and lungs. It acts like magic in breaking up a cold. A cough is soon subdued, tightness of the chest is relieved, even the worst case of consumption is relieved, while in recent cases it may be said never to fail. It is a medicine prepared from the active principles or virtues of several medicinal herbs, and can be depended upon for all pulmonary complaints.

An Element Instead of a Virtue.

Sincerity is no single virtue to be classed with others and ranked above and below them. It is rather an element running through character and life, as the sap runs through the tree, giving life and vigor to every branch and a tender beauty to every leaf and blossom. Let us cherish it as the deepest principle of our hearts and the most vital element of our lives.

Why So Many Young Men Fall.

"One trouble with many young men who start out in business is they try to do too many things at once," says Hetta Green, "The Richest Woman in America," in the June Ladies' Home Journal. "The result is that they don't know as much as they ought to about any one thing, and they naturally fail. The trouble with young men who work on salaries is that they're always afraid of doing more than they're paid for. They don't enter into their work with the right spirit. To get on and be appreciated a young man must do more than he's paid to do. When he does something that his employer has not thought of he shows that he is valuable. Men are always willing to pay good salaries to people who will think of things for them. The man who only carries out the thoughts and ideas of another is nothing more than a mere tool. Men who can be relied upon are always in demand. The scarcest thing in the world to-day is a thoroughly reliable man."

How to Clean Oil Paintings.

Artists sometimes use a raw potato for this purpose. Cut off the end of the potato and rub the painting very gently with the cut end. As fast as the potato becomes soiled cut off a thin slice and continue to use it until the whole surface is clean. Another method is to rub the soiled surface with the finger wet in warm water. If the dirt is very hard and old use oil instead of water. Let it rest for a few hours so that the dirt may be softened, then wash off with a sponge and tepid suds.—August Ladies' Home Journal.

English Puncture Locator.

It is related that an English inventor has perfected a puncture locator, whereby an ammoniac solution is forced into the tire. The result is a blue spot on the surface of the tire around the puncture which can be seen, and also a powerful smell which can be detected by the nostrils, so that the proper place for the patch can be located by both eye and nose.

Cannot Be Beat—Mr. D. Steinbach,

Zurich, writes: "I have used Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in my family for a number of years, and I can safely say that it can not be beat for cures of croup, fresh cuts and sprains. My little boy has had attacks of croup several times, and one dose of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was sufficient for a perfect cure. I take great pleasure in recommending it as a family medicine, and I would not be without a bottle in my house."

Chinese Are Patient Workers.

An example of patient industry is the sorting of hogs' bristles as it is carried on at Tien Tsai, China. Each bristle of the 600,000 kilograms exported from that place in 1893 had to be picked out, measured and placed in the bundle of hairs of corresponding length; and the different lengths by which the hairs are sorted are numerous.
