

MONSOON
 THE MONSOON TEA CO.,
 25, King St. W., Toronto.
 Sole Importers of the finest Ceylon, India and Java Teas, and all kinds of
 Ceylon, India and Java
 Ceylon, India and Java
 Ceylon, India and Java

PATENTS
 PROTECTED IN CANADA
 Patent Attorney, 100 King St. W., Toronto.
 Write for free book on patents.

LAW
 Miller, Miller & Hall,
 100 King St. W., Toronto.
 Solicitors at Law.

Apples, Poultry, Eggs,
 The Dawson Commission Co., Limited
 100 King St. W., Toronto.

W. G. HARRIS,
 100 King St. W., Toronto.
 Brass, Copper, Lead.

"WE WANT YOU QUICK."
 Intelligent ladies and gentlemen can be supplied with the most reliable and profitable information by securing GOOD REPUTATION. Can give the address of a gentleman who has just secured a large order for his business. Write for details.

FOR TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS,
DUNN'S BAKING POWDER
 THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND LARGEST SALE IN CANADA.

G. DUTHIE & SONS
 State, Sheet Metal, The General Roofers
 Sheet Metal, Coppers, Tinners, Plumbers, Gas Fitters, and all kinds of work in connection with the above. Telephone 1988. Address: 41 Widmer St., Toronto.

CANADA PERMANENT LOAN & SAVINGS COMPANY
 Subscribed Capital $1,000,000
 Paid-up Capital $250,000
 Reserve Fund $250,000
 HEAD OFFICE—TORONTO, 20, TORONTO BRANCH OFFICES—WINDSOR, MAN., AND VANCOUVER, B. C.

ONE OF THE BEST BALDNESS CURE LETTER.
 LONDON, Ont., October 20th, 1897.

berine
 CURES DANDRUFF IN ONE WEEK.
 PREVENTS BREAKING AND FALLING OUT.

SEWING MACHINES.
 OLD AND RELIABLE
 Established 1872

MONEY MAKER
 Prices only $15, $20, $30.

ELMAN BROS., Georgetown, Ont.

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

Shoes
 like the brighter; use SAPOLIO grow old. Try a cake...

"OH, WAD SOME POWER THE GIFTIE GIE US, TAE SEE OORSELS AS ITERS SEE US."

VOL. IV. NO. 51. $1 per Annum. OTTAWA, ONT., THURSDAY, DEC. 9, 1897. CHAS. W. RICHARDS, Publisher & Prop.

THE NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

THE VERY LATEST FROM ALL THE WORLD OVER.

Interesting Items About Our Own Country, Great Britain, the United States, and All Parts of the Globe, Condensed and Assorted for Easy Reading.

CANADA.
 Sir William Van Horne announces that the C.P.R. will build an independent line to Rossland.

Lady Aberdeen has consented to deliver an address under the auspices of the Ottawa St. Patrick's Society, on the 17th of March next.

Clearances at Winnipeg during November amount to $13,550, compared with $12,500 for the corresponding period last year.

Fire at Carletonville made a clean sweep of one side of Main street, destroying about a dozen buildings. The loss will be about $200,000.

The Grand trunk railway has received five hundred freight cars of sixty thousand pounds capacity each, for general use on the system.

The Provincial Board of Health has notified the Mayor of Montreal that all Public school pupils must be vaccinated as a precaution against small-pox.

The owners of the Canadian, which was run down by the United States cruiser, Ventic, intend to ask the United States Government for ten thousand dollars damages.

The sum of a $10,000,000 convention held to be guilty of a grave infraction of the health law in not holding their pupils for isolation after a nun was taken down with small-pox.

Mr. Frank J. Watson, divisional freight agent of the Great Trunk railway at Stratford, Ont., has been appointed to succeed Mr. Harris as district freight agent in Montreal.

Messrs. T. Garret & Son of Vancouver, B.C., have secured a Canadian apples and pears to the West Indies via Halifax, the shipment consisting of 200 boxes of fruit.

Mr. E. E. Sheppard, Trade Commissioner for South America, is not to be here any more. He is returning to his native country as a result of a tariff on an average of fifty per cent.

Sir William Van Horne has received a gift of magnificent china vases and plaques from the Emperor of Japan as a token of appreciation of the courtesy extended by him to the Japanese. It is reported that the gift is valued at $25,771.

It is stated that negotiations have been entered into at the instigation of Great Britain for a new commercial treaty with Germany.

James Wray, an Australian sculler living in England, challenges Gaudaur for the championship, but wants the race rowed on the Tyne.

In the honor list of Cambridge University just published, Dr. Hamilton Wright, of Montreal, gets a scholarship of the value of fifty pounds.

President McKinley will recommend a grant for the relief of sufferers in Cuba.

Justice Field has informally retired from the United States Supreme Court bench.

The United States mint during November coined $3,544,000 gold and $2,158,000 silver.

The Public Libraries of New York and Brooklyn are to be consolidated. The new building will be erected in Bryant Park at a cost of $2,500,000.

It is stated at a meeting of the New York Board of Health, that one death in every seven in New York was the result of tubercular consumption.

President McKinley has tendered William R. Day, now first assistant Secretary of State, the position of Attorney-General to succeed Joseph McKenna.

President McKinley is considering the best method of placing before the charitable citizens of the United States an appeal for food to relieve the destitute in Cuba.

At Cambridge, Mass., Lorenzo W. Barnes, a wood chopper, of Maynard, was sentenced to be hanged on March 18, 1898, for the murder of John Dean, a farmer.

Lieut. Clay, an officer of the Guards, who is being held in London for fifty-five thousand dollars on notes cashed by Lord William Nevill, says that his friend's signature was obtained by fraud.

YOUTH'S DUTY TO AGED PEOPLE.

AN ELOQUENT AND FORCEFUL PLEA FOR FILIAL AFFECTION.

Rev. Dr. Talnage considers the Respect Due to Age - He First Discovers Upon Parents' Attachment, and the Obligation Upon the Young to be Kind to Parents.

On Sunday morning, Rev. Dr. Talnage chose as his text: Genesis, xiv. 28. "I will go and see him before I die."

Jacob had long since passed the hundred year milestone. In those times people were distinguished for longevity. In the centuries after persons lived to great age. Galen, the most celebrated physician of his time, took so little of his own medicine that he lived to 140 years. A man of undoubted veracity on the witness stand in England swore that he remembered an event 150 years before. Lord Bacon speaks of a countess who had out three sets of teeth and died at 100 years. Joseph Crile, of Pennsylvania lived 140 years. In 1857 a book was printed containing the names of 11 persons who lived 150 years.

Among the grand old people of whom we have record, was Jacob, the shepherd of the text. But he had a lead lot of boys. They were jealous and ambitious and every way unprincipled. Joseph, however, seemed to be an exception, but he had been gone many years, and the probability was that he was dead. As sometimes now in a house, you will find kept at the table a vacant chair, a place, a knife, a fork, for some deceased member of the place, so Jacob kept in his heart a place for his beloved Joseph. There sits the old man, the flock of 100 years in their flight having alighted long enough to leave the marks of their clay on forehead, nose, cheek and temple. His long beard snows down over his chest. His eyes are somewhat dim, and he can see farther when they are closed than when they are open, for he can see far back into the times when beautiful Rachel, his wife, was living, and his children shook the oriental abode with their merriment.

The centenarian is sitting dreaming over the past when he hears a wagon rumbling to the front door. He gets up and goes to the door to see who has arrived, and his long beard and hair come in and announce to him that Joseph, instead of being dead, is living in an Egyptian palace, with all the investiture of prime minister.

In that bright and happy moment, the spirit of all the world! The news was too sudden and too glad for the old man, and his cheeks whiter, and he has a dazed look and an air of being bewildered. He would have dropped had not the sons caught him and led him to a lounge and put cold water on his face and fanned him with a little breeze. The old man mumbles something about his son Joseph, do you? But after they had fully recognized him, and he had been affirmed, the tears begin their winding way down the crossroads of the wrinkles, and the sunken lips of the old man quiver, and he says: "Joseph is yet alive. I will go and see him before I die."

He did not take the old man a great while to get ready to go. He put on the best clothes that the shepherd's wardrobe could afford. He got into the wagon, and though the aged head bent low, and the old man's feet did not get along fast enough for this old man, and when the wagon with the old man and Joseph's chariot came to the door, and Joseph got out of the chariot and got in to the wagon and threw his arms around his father's neck, it was an anticlimax to the old man's joy and parental love, which leaves us much in doubt whether he had better laugh or cry, that we will not take into account. He said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a strong and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

What a pious and unfeeling thing it is, that parental attachment, which is so often so strong, and so often so blind, that it makes us forget Joseph! The hot suns of many summers blazed on the heath; the River Nile had overflowed and receded, overflowed and receded again; and again; the seed had been sown and the harvest reaped; stars rose and set; years of plenty and years of famine had passed on the face of the earth, and the old man's heart was still as true as ever, and he said to himself: "I will go and see him before I die."

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

YOU MAY NOW PRINT UPON THE FACE OF POSTAL CARDS.

Picture may be lithographed there - The space may be utilized for Advertising if desired - See Circular No. 100 - Address - A. S. Galt, Ottawa, Ont.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Postmaster-General Mulock is about to remove the restriction which at present prevents the user of a postcard from utilizing the front of a postcard by having anything written or printed on it except the address to the person for whom it is intended. Mr. Mulock's intention is to permit pictures, vignettes, or other advertising matter to be printed on the face of the card, so long as sufficient clear space is left to allow the address being written or printed, so that it can be easily read in the office where it is posted. The face of the card may be converted into a work of art without impairing its usefulness, and advertisers will no doubt avail themselves of the privilege. The cards will be issued in sheets if so desired for convenience in printing. Advertisers should have their designs prepared for printing in accordance with the regulations of the Post Office Department. The idea is certainly a capital one.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards. The Postmaster-General is very judicious in his view of the matter, and the postal revenue which is taking place each month and which has increased since the postal reform, will also be increased by the issue of these cards.

and may result in much good to the country in the way of advertising some of its natural features, as well as its public and other buildings. The Post