TIME DURHAM HAD A COUNTY FAIR

(Bowmanville Statesman)

This is the time of year when agricultural societies hold their annual meetings and present financial statements and other important information to all and sundry who are interested in the welfare of the local fall fair, or agricultural exhibition.

The fall fair is a rural institution which in many cases in Southern Ontario, particularly, dates back to over 100 years in some counties. The original intention of these shows was to encourage farmers, by competition, to raise good purebred livestock and grow farm produce of a high calibre in which they would take a real pride in entering the various competitions set by the agricultural societies.

In early days, and in many cases they still exist, these fall fairs were confined to township affairs. This was due to transportation difficulties in bringing livestock to these shows in farm wagons or have the farmer's sons drive the cattle and other animals by foot along the concession roads to the neighbouring town where the fair was held. That was in the horse and buggy days, as we called that era. The writer of this article was born in town and can well remember on fair days getting up early and going to the old fair grounds (now Carlisle Avenue), and watching the arrival of the animals and fowl being put in place for judging and later admired and criticized by the crowds.

With the coming of the automobile, motor trucks and good roads, around the turn of the century, many of these conditions were changed, with cheap and questionable midway attractions coming on the scenes to sidetrack what was formerly looked upon as strictly agricultural shows. Horse races also grew in favor, along with third rate burlesque and vaudeville shows in front of the grandstands to please the fickle public and also detract their attention from the exhibits of a purely agricultural show.

To keep up with modern tendencies and the van of progress many contend that the smaller township fairs should amalgamate into one large county exhibition. We don't need to go farther than Durham County to start the wheel going to this end where four annual fairs are held. Port Hope, Orono and Blackstock hold fall fairs and Millbrook holds a spring show. Such a suggestion may stir up super loyalty to the old established institutions, to think of co-operating to hold a united fair in another community. But we think the time is long overdue to consider such a move and we would put our neck out further to start a discussion by suggesting Orono would be the logical place for holding a county exhibition for Durham County. It is centrally located, has a good race track, plenty of acreage with room to expand and the hall is in a fair state of preservation.

Now if any of our readers wish to fire snowballs at this idea let them fly by sending in their arguments, for it is too much to expect such a radical move would be unanimous.

BOLIVIA MOVES FORWARD

Bolivia — Authorities have informed the Roman Catholic Archbishop that, in future, all Catholics who attack Protestant communities will be prosecuted. At the same time the Archbishop has been requested to inform the Catholic organizations of the country to abstain from "every kind of manifestation of religious intolerance." —War Cry.

EXAMPLE

A TYPICAL employee of a well-established Canadian industry is a married man with two or three children. He has an income of about $305.00 per month. (In Stelco the average is $304 per month). He owns his home, and the mortgage, if any, is being paid off steadily. He has an automobile and his home is equipped with almost every kind of convenience.

As a father, this typical free, independent and self-respecting Canadian industrial employee is anxious to see his children do well, be honest, grow up as good citizens. And the father believes in setting a good example in his home, in his neighborhood and in his job.
