LED BY LT. JIM FAWCETT MILLBROOK PLATOON TOO SMART FOR CITY SLICKERS

A wooden Indian, Little Chief, mascot of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, is reported AWOL (absent without leave) from the unit's headquarters in Belleville. Mascot of this famous infantry unit since 1939, Little Chief disappeared Tuesday of last week, while companies of the regiment attended a drill competition in Belleville.

It seems that it is the sole ambition of each platoon to kidnap the "Indians" which they are permitted to do, providing they're smart enough, and carry them off home where they are kept close guard over to prevent any other platoon from acquiring them. The local boys, no doubt, pulled a smart trick in outsmarting their city brothers in capturing these two prizes. However, with men like Tommy Pinck among their ranks who had more than ordinary experience in this regard, having taken part in the Dieppe raid during the war, it is no wonder they took their city rivals for "a ride" as it were, and walked off, or should we say, ran off with the two prizes. The Indians will remain securely locked up in the local armouries and any platoon smart enough to wisk them away from the local platoon will surely have to be up before the bugle sounds in the morning.

It is believed Little Chief has been held by headquarters in Belleville for many years, and the local boys are to be congratulated on not only acquiring Little Chief, but his son also, a four-foot wooden image. Little Chief was born in Picton in 1939, 12 feet tall, made of steel, paint and creative hands, appropriated from the roof of a cannery factory being used as a barracks in 1939.

Little Chief went overseas with the "Hasty Pees" in 1940, but was lost in France during the early hectic war days. Meanwhile back in Canada, the 2nd battalion replaced the original with the present 9 foot wooden mascot, and sent it overseas to the 1st Battalion. Little Chief survived the Second World War with but a few scratches, returned home with the unit, and has since been posted to the regiment's headquarters in Belleville.

He attends all regimental functions, and it is the practice of unit companies to "acquire" possession of Little Chief every opportunity they have. C and D companies of the "Hasty Pees" succeeded in appropriating the mascot recently, but clever field tactics by No. 7 platoon of the companies landed Little Chief in Millbrook too. Little Chief has a four-foot wooden son, who went to Germany on occupational duties with a company of the unit in 1951. A replica of the mascot was sent to the Royal Sussex Regiment in England in 1954.

Commanding Officer of the "Plough Jockeys" is Lt.-Col. J. Fairman, ED, from Belleville, and Officer Commanding of C and D companies is Major H. Sowden of Millbrook.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER FRIDAY, MARCH 8th

Please do not forget the World Day of Prayer to be held in St. Andrew's United Church Hall on Friday, March 8th (tomorrow) at 3.00 p.m.

Seen on King Street During The Week

Three small boys coming into the Reporter Office with an 1875 Queen's head 25c piece; two Prince Edward Island one cent pieces 1871 with trees on reverse; an 1865 Newfoundland 20c piece; a King George and the dragon half penny 1857, all in fair condition, to find out what they were worth. Thanks boys, for the compliment, it thrills us to find that someone in Millbrook thinks we know something.

Local firemen rushing to a fire on King Street East Monday morning. At the time we hadn't heard where or what the fire was, but it's a safe wager it wasn't a roast in anyone's oven as no one in Millbrook could afford to burn a roast in these days of inflation. Of course we're judging others by ourselves.

Two or three small boys sitting on the sidewalk playing marbles. This is really one of the first signs of spring, all we need now to show the second sign is girls with skipping ropes. But they grow up so fast now days that the space between skipping rope age and young womanhood has all but vanished.

A little youngster nearly get hit by a car, in fact we're told so close that the bumper practically touched the child. Had the driver not been slowing up for the red light and been going like some who ignore it, there may have been a serious result.

GIBBS STARS IN GOAL. WINS SHIELD AWARD

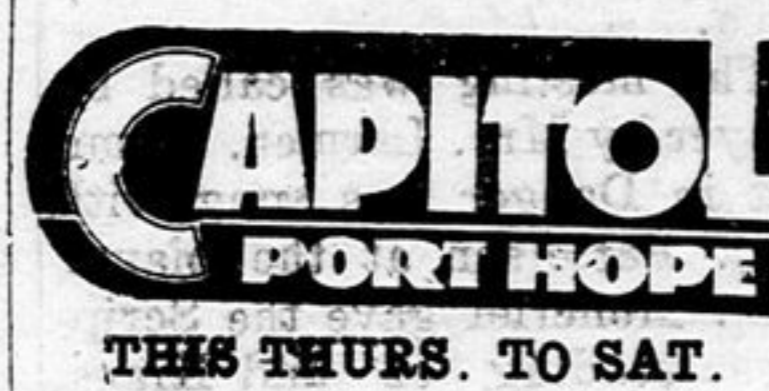

Millbrook Bantams and Pee Wees were in Port Hope last week where they took part in a hockey tournament. The Pee Wees won their first game from Orono 11 to 2, but in the second round lost out to Cobourg by a 5 to 1 score. The little fellows gave a good account of themselves, and were in charge of Vince Crough, their coach, who deserves much credit for the time he has given to the Pee Wee Club this winter.

The Bantams, with Larry Gibbs in goal, who also played for the Pee Wees, starred in all the Millbrook games and won the shield for being the best goalie in the Bantam division. In this series Millbrook won from Newcastle 3 to 1, and met Bowmanville in the finals, losing 3 to 0.

The Bantams were coached by Elmer Hogg, who did a fine job when you consider the larger towns have a bigger crop of players to choose from. The Bantam players are: Goal, Larry Gibbs, alternate R. Long; defence, Don Heise, Alan Fowler, Randy Kemp, Brad Medd, Roy Westlake; forwards, 1st line, Grant Larmer, Ralph Cordery, Bart Medd; 2nd line, Roger Armstrong, Russell Jewison, Tom Kennedy; 3rd line, Wayne Hogg, Barry Woods and Bruce Wright.

Watch the N.H.L. ten years from now, you may see some of these names among the stars a decade hence.

All ladies of the village are invited to join in the circle of prayer and make it complete around the whole world.

SOCIAL - PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Harold K. Cox of Toronto were visitors with Miss Mae Needham last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bev. Reid were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Olenick, Hamilton.

Rev. F. J. Burn, Mrs. Burn and daughter Eleanor, Gloria Smith and Bonnie Higgonson of Sharbot Lake, Miss C. Henderson and Douglas Hendren of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Barker of Toronto, were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith over the weekend.

Rev. Dr. W. E. Wright, Mrs. Wright and Miss Helena Wright of Peterborough were visitors at the Mause last Sabbath.

Mrs. J. Bryatt of Peterborough spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Thos. Harkness.

We are sorry to see that Mr. George Loohuizen has to go about on crutches. He fell on the ice while at work in Guelph which caused a bone splinter to get into the muscle of his knee causing him considerable pain and trouble and an operation. We hope he will make a quick recovery and be back at work again in the near future.

Miss Karen Lunn was the recipient of a year's subscription to the Reader's Digest. This was a gift by the Reader's Digest to the High School valedictorian for the school year 1955-6. The valedictorian each year is the senior student with the highest academic standing.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen, nee Betty Lunn, have moved into the new renovated apartment over the Peables' Hardware Store. Mr. Owen will be employed at the Olan Sawmill.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Annetta Blair, who passed away March 3rd, 1956.

Calm and peaceful she is sleeping.

Sweetest rest that follows pain, We who loved her sadly miss her.

But trust in God to meet again. —Mary, Colleen, Herb and granddaughters.
