THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1893.

ONE of the old landmarks of the township of Cavan passed away last week in the person of Jas. Williamson, who was conveyed to his last resting place by a very large number of friends, on Tuesday. The funeral which was conducted by the Orange brethren was an impressive ceremony, reminding all who were in attendance of the uncertainty of life and the sure approach of death.

THE Reformers of North Bruce have selected Mr. John Pierson of Saugeen, an ex-warden of the county, to contest the riding lately vacated by the death of Mr. Porter, M.P.P. Mr. Pierson is perhaps the strongest man that could have been chosen, and with Mr. D. McNaughten, reeve of Bruce township, upholding the standard of the Patrons of Industry, a life-long Reformer, the old warhorse of the riding, Mr. John George should have a good chance for election should he be chosen to be the Conservative candidate.

Scrubner's Magazine for October is of special interest to Canadian readers and notably to this locality. It gives a graphic account of that lively march in the north-west by our mounted police and Canadian soldiers, the hardships they endured and the success achieved. "Scott's voyage in the lighthouse yacht," written in 1814 will be read with delight by the many admirers of the great novelist and poet, while "the man of letters as a man of business" furnishes many hints in the line of making the humdrum of business worry disappear behind the bar of entertaining literature. Altogether it is a capital edition.

GOLDWIN SMITH.

The late departure from Canada of Mr. Goldwin Smith to England is an event that will be looked upon as a serious loss to our province in as "good riddance," according to the spectacles through which the people of this country look. As a scholar and historian, none we think, will hesitate to accord him that pinnacle of distinction which his acknowledged abilities warrant. Having for the past twenty years made his home more or less permanently with us, and having with the utmost disinterestedness connected himself with every project that had for its aim the political education and religious weal of the Dominion, we may well say, "he will be missed." Like wandering Willie he has not adhered through thick and thin to the political proclivities of his early days and for that reason has brought down upon his head the severest censure of the party "dyed in the wool" class, and pitiful to read and listen to are the yelps from some of the unappreciative wirepullers whose steps they are unworthy or unwilling to duly estimate. Prof. Goldwin Smith may have been unable to see eye to eye with those who now control the business at the capital, and we have no hesitancy in disagreeing with him on his latest political hobby, yet we think he should have that credit and respect which his distinguished culture unquestionably deserves. The last product of his historical pen is a history of the United States of America, the advance notes of which indicate that the subject is handled in that careful and cosmopolitan spirit, that the flight of time will only add to its demand by those who read history divested from party politics. His review of the separation of the colonies from the motherland and the declaration of Independence, as also the facts relating to the north and south war will be particularly interesting reading to Canadian and British subjects. The book will be worthy of a place on the shelves of every library.

THE HOOPER CASE.

The Latest Developments—Port Hope in a State of Excitement.

Port Hope, Oct. 10.—The plot thickens in the J. Reginald Hooper mystery. This town is in a ferment to-day over a report that the woman Hooper is charged with having killed was not his wife at all. I have spent the day investigating this report and have come to the conclusion that whether the deceased was his wife or not, he was previously married to another woman. It would appear that 13 years ago Hooper was living at Montreal and worked in a printing office. He sent word to his family that he was married, and shortly after his mother left here to pay him a visit. She returned a week later and stated that her son was married to a woman whose Christian name was Mary. Some months afterwards Hooper came home with a young girl who was introduced as his wife. That woman died last month at Terrebonne. Her name was Georgina. Rev. A. T. Green, a superannuated Methodist minister residing here lived next door to the Hoopers at that time and remembered the incident. His daughter thought it strange at the time that the names were different, and was told that Hooper had obtained a legal separation from his first wife.

It became known during the afternoon that Hooper would be brought up from Cobourg jail to attend the adjourned inquest. From the moment this fact was known the streets were lined with people, all anxious to get a look at the prisoner. Shortly before 7 o'clock a rig dashed up the main street containing the prisoner and two stout constables. The crowds of people did not get a chance to see him, however, as he was rushed into the Y.M.C.A. building and upstairs to where the coroner, the jury, his lawyer, Mr. H. A. Ward, Q. C. of Terrebonne, awaited him. Hooper did not appear to be in any sense insane. He took a quick glance about the room and immediately began shaking hands with numerous acquaintances.

At the last moment Detective Carpenter handed a warrant to the coroner and demanded his prisoner. Hooper was about to be taken back to Cobourg jail, but Carpenter played his trump card just in time to secure his prisoner and left at midnight for Montreal on the fast express. The coroner's jury here are indignant.
