His pamphlets, however, contained so much extravagant fanaticism and quackery that they retarded rather than furthered his schemes which met with an extraordinary amount of opposition, even from enlightened people.

Sir Walter Scott wrote that there was a madman proposing to light London with smoke. Awful consequences were predicted. The gas would poison the air and blow up the inhabitants; it was expensive, dangerous, offensive and unmanageable; the pipes conveying it would be hot and apt to produce conflagrations. Personal Gain in the Public Misery.

At last, through the efforts of Prosecutor Heney and Detective Burns the lid is completely off in San Francisco. There is a foot race among the guilty as to which shall confess first and buy immunity by information, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. The first indictments were in the nature of bluffs, it being now admitted that the evidence supporting them did not suffice for conviction, but they achieved their end. The frightened robbers, as ready to betray their fellow conspirators as the public, are hastening to the grand jury to tell their stories. If we are to have soundness and health in municipal government we must go higher up than the office holder. The buyers rather than the sellers are the fountain of corruption.
