

THE TORTURES OF NERVOUSNESS

The Sufferer Feels That Unless Relief Comes Insanity Will Follow.

There is no torture more intolerable than nervousness. A nervous person is in a state of constant irritation by day and sleeplessness by night. The sufferer starts at every noise, is shaky and depressed. Often although in a completely exhausted state is unable to sit or lie still, or trouble of this kind absolutely the best thing in the world is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The nerves are jaded and jangled because they are being starved by poor watery blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new rich blood which feeds and soothes the irritated nerves. There is absolutely no doubt about this; thousands can testify of the blood-making, nerve-restoring qualities of these Pills, among them is Mrs. Thos. Harpell, Wallace Bridge, N. S., who says:—"Some years ago I took sick and the doctor pronounced the trouble nervous prostration. To describe the tortures of it is impossible. God and myself only know what I endured. The doctor gave me medicine but it did not seem to help me. Then he ordered me away for a change, but I was afraid to go, as I always seemed to fear some impending calamity, and was afraid to spend the night alone, as I used to think each night that I would die before morning. I tried different kinds of medicines but with no better results, and finally decided I would go to my parents to see if the change would benefit me. I went to their doctor but with no better results. My mother urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and get me a box, of course I did not expect a box would help me, but I continued taking them and in about a month began to feel better. From that on there was an improvement in my condition every day, and in the course of about three months I was again enjoying the great blessing of perfect health. I gained about twenty pounds in weight and my friends could hardly believe I was the same person. I believe I would have been in my grave long ago if it had not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are good for any disease due to bad blood or weak nerves. That is why they cure such troubles as anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, paralysis, and the ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by medicine dealers at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 or may be had by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EMBARRASSING.

A colored woman of Alexandria, Virginia, was on trial before a magistrate of that town charged with inhuman treatment of her offspring. Evidence was clear that the woman had severely beaten the youngster, aged some nine years, who was in court to exhibit his battered condition. Before imposing sentence, his honor asked the woman whether she had anything to say. "Kin I ask yo' honah a question?" inquired the prisoner. The judge nodded affirmatively. "Well, then, yo' honah, I'd like to ask yo' whether yo' was ever the parent of a puffy-wuthless cullud chile."

THE GREY NUNS & ZAM-BUK

Leading Institutions Use This Balm
Most of the leading institutions throughout Canada have adopted Zam-Buk as a standard preparation without equal for skin diseases and injuries, burns, blood poison, etc. From the St. Patrick's Asylum, Ottawa, comes the following appreciation of its merits:—"Gentlemen,—In the orphanage department of the Asylum, we have found Zam-Buk very good for healing cuts, sores, and skin injuries generally, and shall continue to use it for such. Yours sincerely, (Signed) GREY NUNS."

When a mother rubs on to the delicate skin of children a salve to heal some cut, bruise, burn, eruption or skin disease, she needs to be as careful as if she were giving the child an internal remedy. Zam-Buk is pure—free from all animal fat and all mineral matter, and may be applied even to the skin of young babies. Zam-Buk heals sores, cures eczema, skin eruptions, ulcers, ringworm, itch, barber's rash, blood poisoning, bad leg, salt rheum, abrasions, abscesses, cuts, burns, scalds, and all skin injuries and diseases. Of all stores and druggists at 50 cents, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 3 boxes for $1.25

THE WAY OF IT.

"The caddish fellow you dislike so much insists that he is descended from noble stock. From the ancient kings of Ireland, I believe." "How is he descended from them?" "I don't know, unless it was with a dull, sickening thud."

Mother Graves Worm Exterminator does not require the help of any purgative medicine to complete the cure. Give it a trial and be convinced.

WOMEN, BUT USEFUL.
For mat, you must confess, looks is hardly neat; when it comes to usefulness it gets there with both feet.

GREAT LETTER WRITER

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE GERMAN EMPEROR.

Astonishing How He Finds so Much Time to Write His Many Private Letters.

William II. probably writes more letters than any other living monarch. From the early morning, when he goes over his mail and the State despatches, making copious marginal notes in pencil, until he retires for the night he is constantly jotting down his thoughts, writing or dictating letters, or annotating new books. He frequently is seen at receptions or military reviews making a note on his shirt cuff. He abhors fountain pens and swears by the old-fashioned quill of our grandfathers.

The Kaiser's handwriting is large, bold and flourishing, and in accordance with his habit of dashing down his thoughts as they come into his head, often extremely illegible. A well-known Berlin artist, with whom the Emperor was for years in active correspondence, gives of him as a correspondent. He says:—"It is really astonishing how the Emperor, despite the amount of work he has to get through, finds so much time to carry on his extensive private correspondence. It is very rare that he ever breaks off a letter he has once begun, nor is he content, like the Emperor Francis Joseph, for instance, to have his letters written by a private secretary according to his instructions, but writes personally every line that has not an official character. "I have seen letters of the Emperor on topics of history or art, twelve to eighteen pages long. It is well known that the monarch, to save time, always makes his notes in shortened form, leaving out the vowels thus: 'Higdr Adlr' for 'die-gender Adler,' etc. In letters, however, he always tries to abandon this practice, chiefly because he wishes to be quite clear, but sometimes in his haste he abbreviates all the same. The Emperor even addresses his letters himself nearly always, and absolutely in full; the addressee never wants a title. "One might say that, apart from family correspondence and short notes to the generals of his suite, the majority of the Kaiser's letters are addressed to professors and architects, artists, sculptors, or musicians. This is not surprising in view of all the predominant interest His Majesty takes in

ALL AESTHETIC QUESTIONS.

In these letters the Kaiser is wont to express in short, pregnant words his views on some topic of present-day interest. As often as not his views, especially in architectural questions, are illustrated with marginal sketches of a highly technical character, revealing at every point the writer's intimate knowledge of the subject. "Apart from letters, the Emperor frequently sends some artist friend of his a book which he has marked with marginal notes, and this is especially the case with works on naval topics. His versatility is simply marvellous. I have seen sketches done by the Emperor, the sheet simply covered in all directions with ships' parts, designs for the mechanism of automobiles, and plans for the interiors and exteriors (facades, etc.) of buildings. "If ever the Emperor's letters are collected and published they will give a far better picture of him than any personal characterization could do, for his thirst for knowledge revealed therein is only equalled by the number of fruitful suggestions he himself makes.

MANY A MONUMENTAL WORK

In Germany owes its construction to him in reality, although honor and fame were accorded to the artist who carried out the idea. "When the Kaiser is travelling he uses the telegraph a great deal, often sending the Empress long accounts of his adventures in that way. Such private letters naturally never go through the post, but are given to the Foreign Office courier in Germany (a lieutenant of the Chasseurs de the Guard), to be conveyed to the capital with the diplomatic correspondence.

The Emperor is very fond of picture postcards, and when he was staying at Highlife last year there were numerous recipients of such marks of Imperial consideration among Berlin society. In his study Prince Balow has a number of picture postcards which his Imperial master sent him from Italy upon which the Emperor has scribbled in pencil such characteristic remarks as: "Glorious view"; "Splendid weather," etc. The Kaiser's notepaper, which is white, is surmounted by a neat gold crown with the Imperial arms, and is strikingly large in shape, of a stout texture

Potatoes, after being soaked in acids and pressed hard, are now being used for the manufacture of billiard-balls.

Figgs—"You have seen Jones's wife. What is she like? Should you call her pretty?" Fogg—"I might if I were talking to Jones."

Mistress (to new maid)—"Above all things, I expect you to be reticent." Maid—"Yes, ma'am, certainly." "Curiously." But what is there to be reticent about?"

"I want to buy a dog that will look terribly fierce and won't bite anybody," said the lady to the dog dealer. "You'd better get a bulldog," said the dealer. "No, ma'am, I want one, mum," was the reply. "Freddy," said the woman, "I have spelt the word with two 'f's.' You must get me one of them." "Yes, ma'am," said Freddy, "which one?"

FROM ERIN'S GREEN ISLE

NEWS BY MAIL FROM IRELAND'S SHORES.

Happenings in the Emerald Isle of Interest to Irishmen.

John Watson, Master of the famous Meath Foxhounds, has tendered his resignation of that office. Mr. S. J. Hutchinson, of Belfast, has been recently elected a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society. A little child died recently in Belfast from phosphorus poisoning, caused by sucking lucifer matches. After 48 years' service under the Trim Guardians, Dr. David Trotter has been granted a pension of $525 per year. The number of indictable offences last year in this country was 9,418, compared with 9,455 in 1906 and 9,728 in 1905.

The police recently captured a party of potmen makers round a still in full working order, on a lonely mountain in Inishowen. It is rumored in Waterford that an American syndicate has undertaken to re-start the Bonmahon Copper Mines in the near future. Mrs. Reilly, High Street, Newry, ordered to the Union Infirmary, died in a few moments after receiving word that she must go. A young man named Noone, of Carrick-on-Shannon, became violently insane as the result of injuries received in a boating feud.

A well-known figure in engineering circles has passed away at Belfast in the person of Mr. Joseph Lewis, of Sandycroft, Bloomfield. Sligo Corporation is again in a bad way, owing $21,575 to its County Council. The Sligo County Council are now suing for its recovery. Human remains were recently discovered on the Antrim road in Belfast—a reminder of the cholera scourge many years ago. A plot of grazing land, containing about 14 acres, has just been sold by public auction for a sum of $6,200 in the vicinity of Macroom, County Cork.

Miss Daisy McPhillips, of Brownstown, County Kilkenny, still in her teens, has recently passed with distinction the First Division Senior Oxford examination. The Limerick bus service, started over a year ago, ceased running on Aug. 29. Notice has been published in the local newspapers that the company has gone into liquidation. The tenants on the Coolroe estate, C. Wexford, who were reinstated to their former holdings a few months ago, are making good progress with the work of building their houses. After serving seven years in the Irish Guards, a County Wexford man, destitute and incapacitated, and with a wife and two children to support, is getting sixpence a day as a pension.

LONGEST POSTAL DELIVERY.

How One Man Carries His Majesty's Mail 2,000 Miles.

The longest, loneliest, and most hazardous postal delivery in the world lies within the bounds of the British Empire, in the far north of Canada. During the winter months—that is to say, between October and May—the postal authorities will not take bulky packets, even if paid for at letter rate, to places in the Yukon district beyond the railway which terminates at White Horse; but postcards, letters, and single copies—no one packet to weigh over an ounce—of newspapers are regularly carried over all the frost-bound expanse that extends from the town of Edmonton, on the Saskatchewan River, to Fort McPherson, on the Mackenzie. The man in charge of the mail has to travel 1,954 dreary miles in each direction. He is a picked man, named Cornwall, who has had a long experience as a fur trader and intrepid adventurer in sub-Arctic regions. The first 100 miles is covered by horses, the rest of the long way by dog-train. From Edmonton to Athabasca Landing, on the Athabasca River, consists simply of 100 miles of wagon-road, which Cornwall covers in three or four days if the roads are good. At Athabasca Landing, with provisions, dog food, and the precious sacks of mail, the one man and the little team of "huskies" begin the long journey north. The first stop is at Fort M'Murray, which is somewhat more than half-way down between Athabasca Landing and Fort Chipewyan, on Lake Athabasca. The rapids at Fort M'Murray are no hindrance to the winter mail-carrier, for his route is over a landscape of unbroken white. Giving the people within the trading-post of Chipewyan their share of His Majesty's mail, and leaving Lake Athabasca behind, the postman pushes on due north, following the Slave River to Fort Smith, where in summer almost sixteen miles of boiling waterfalls make navigation a burden. But all is silent here now, the one sound in the still air being the call of the driver hurrying his dogs ever northward, for Fort Resolution must be gained, the Great Slave Lake crossed, and those eagerly-looked-for letters delivered to the successive clusters of shut-in people waiting for them within fort walls all down the course of the mighty Mackenzie.

DO THE HARD WORK FIRST.

If you have hard or unpleasant work to do, do it at once. By putting it off, you do it twice. Anticipation is often worse than the actual thing. When the job is finished, contemplation becomes a pleasure. The undone task, weighing on your mind, oppresses you mentally, and holds you back. The well-finished one raises you up and helps you forward. Moreover, you will find that the unpleasant jobs are usually the important ones. Perhaps it is just because they are hard and sometimes left undone that their importance is realized. If success does not reward you as you think you merit, don't sit down and rail against fate. Just look round and see if you have been neglecting the unpleasant tasks. There, in most instances, you will find your point of weakness. You may not attach much importance at the moment to those things from which you shrink, but you never know how neglect will affect the current of your after-life.

WAS SO RUN DOWN LIFE NOT WORTH LIVING
A Few Bottles of Peruna Restored Me to Health

Mrs. John Henderson, 2 Overdale Ave., Montreal, Can., writes: "I was much distressed with neuralgia and was so run down that life was not worth living. I tried a great many remedies, but all to no effect. "I met a friend of mine, and told her of my ailment. She advised me to try her remedy, Peruna. "Although I had no faith in Peruna, I took her advice, and am pleased to state that the neuralgia has entirely left me, and have gained so in health that I feel just like my old self again. "I am enjoying the best of health. We have on file many thousand testimonials like the above. We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements Dr. Hartman is receiving.

a boon which is greatly appreciated by the lonely settlers. Along his trying journey Cornwall faces for days at a time the blizzards and ice-winds from the cold north. For the greater part of the distance he has to depend for subsistence on game of his own shooting. The dogs feed on tallow and fish, the weight of which is carefully calculated at the initial point of departure.

A STARTLING PROPHECY.

May Transfer Vital Organs of Lower Animals to Man.

According to Professor Simon Flexner, of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York, medical science soon is to solve the problem of transferring sound vital organs from the lower animals to man. This prophecy was made in a paper by Professor Flexner, read by Dr. Ludwig Heikson before the physiological section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. "The technical surgical operations involved in this kind of experimentation, on account of the necessity of maintaining unimpaired the circulation of the blood, is great, but not impossible of achievement, and no effort should be spared to reach this goal," says Professor Flexner. "The functions of transplanted organs are maintained by the method of preservation of the circulation. Hence, it now becomes possible to place sensitive and important viscera under new experimental conditions, which may aim to resemble or produce those believed to give rise to common pathological states in man and to observe the effects over a long period of time.

It is a matter of no small significance that arteries can be transplanted successfully from dog to cat and vice versa, and from man to dog, and that keeping extricated arteries under sterile conditions at refrigerator temperature for twenty or thirty days or even longer, does not interfere with the results of transplantation. "There is something extremely subtle in the conditions underlying successful transplantation within one race, since it may be determined by such minor factors as environment and mere quality of food. A tumor which grows in Danish white mice may fail utterly to grow in Berlin white mice, and one which grows in Berlin white mice and unable to grow in Norwegian mice, may lose its capacity to grow in Berlin mice transported to Christiania and kept there for a period before inoculation."

Attacks of cholera and dysentery come quickly, there seldom being any warning of the visit. Remedial action must be taken just as quickly if the patient is to be spared great suffering and permanent injury to the lining membranes of the bowels. The readiest preparation for the purpose is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It can be got at small cost at any drug store or general dealer's, and it will afford relief before a doctor can be called.

RUSSIAN EGGS.

France has always been a great producer of poultry and eggs, but lately millions of eggs have been imported from other countries, especially for consumption in Paris. Of these importations by far the largest proportion comes from Russia. In 1907 about 9,000,000 pounds of Russian eggs were eaten in Paris. Austria-Hungary in the same year furnished only about 1,200,000 pounds, and other countries less. Among these Egypt contributed 250,000 pounds.

7. Singer First Cost is the Whole Cost

Of course you can buy a sewing machine for less money than you would pay for a Singer—all the world knows that. But consider this: When a Singer is bought and paid for, it is paid for—it lasts a lifetime. A cheap machine is never paid for. Every cent expended for repairs must be added to the original cost—it's an endless system of instalments. These instalments, added to the first cost of the machine, soon exceed the cost of a Singer, and after each successive repair (if you can get another part) the cheap machine grows more and more second-hand—one step nearer the junk heap. The time lost, the trouble and the worry outweigh many times over the difference in the cost between the "cheap" machine and the Singer. There are two kinds of machines—good and bad—and the good kind is the Singer.
