COLTSFOOTE EXPECTORANT

MOTORING IN THE AIR.

Remarkable Machine Invented by Frenchman and His Son.

Successful experiments with a new type of flying machine worked by a two-horse-power motor have been made at Lisseux, France, by the inventor, M. Lemaire, and his son. The inventors have been working in secret on the machine for some years.

Their apparatus consists of two helices, two and a half yards in diameter, which turn in different directions. The body is made of steel tube one and a half inches in diameter, bound with wire. The helices and the aerial planes are made of linen stretched across fine steel stays. The motor is fixed horizontally in order to lessen the vibration.

The experiments, which have been very successful, were directed by means of an arrangement which prevented the apparatus from rising more than three and a half yards above the ground, and it operates in a circle of thirty yards in circumference.

MINING IN ROSSLAND.

The Rossland Miner says: "Le Roi 2 has just declared an interim dividend of two shillings a share on its issued capital stock, amounting to $80,000. The virgin ground," says the Miner, "owned by the company, and particularly the 'Annie,' is believed to carry at least one of the Le Roi lodes, and is valuable. There is," it adds, "a lot of unexplored ground which is thought to be rich, and when exploited should yield good results." Commenting on the above, a prominent local mining man points out that the Annie Mine and White Bear Nine adjoin, and are surrounded by the California Giant and Nevada on one side, with the Le Roi I and Black Box on the other, the latter now being the property of Le Roi. He expresses the opinion that this locality contains rich ore, and will yet produce some startling mining sensations. The richest ever taken out has been from this section.

GRANDMOTHER OF A WELL-KNOWN MINER.

Ninety-nine years and eight months, feeling very weak one morning, sent for her doctor and asked him if he thought she would attain the age of one hundred. "Well, madam," he replied, "you may depend upon my doing my best." "Oh, do," replied the old lady; "I should so like to reach 100."

Do Not Delay.—When through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Parmelec's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to expel the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

"Will you grant me one last favor before I go?" asked the rejected suitor. "Yes, George, I will," she said, dropping her eyelashes and getting her lips into shape. "What is the favor I can grant you?" "Only a little song at the piano, please. I am afraid there is a dog outside waiting for me, and I want you to scare him away."

A FIRE SPREADS IN DRY GRASS, so does an inflammation in the eye grow down into the lung. Deal promptly with a cold as with a fire. Burns and coughs, for asthma, pleurisy, etc.

If, as the newspaper reports would have us believe, all brides are beautiful, where do all the homely married women come from?

Is there anything more annoying than having your corn stepped upon? Is there anything more delightful than getting rid of it? Holloway's Corn Cure will do it. Try it and be convinced.

It generally makes a man mad to have people compliment him upon his success, and then add that they cannot understand it.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR "THE D & L MENTHOL PASTE," although some unscrupulous dealers may use this. Recommended by doctors, hospital, army and navy, for asthma, pleurisy, etc.

TRAVELLING IN SPAIN

Does fit Doesn't shrink

A LADY WRITES A MOST INTERESTING DESCRIPTION.

Leisurely Railway Travelling — The Burial Place of Spanish Kings.

A vivid picture of the drawbacks of travelling in Spain is given by Mrs. Atce. Tweedie in the pages of the "Queen." She says: "It was a cold wintry evening. I took off my jewellery, hid my watch, and said good-bye to a charming Spanish home and its kind inmates, and left Madrid by the Sud express for the Escorial, the tomb of the Kings of Spain. The distance is exactly thirty-two miles, and this express train from Madrid with its sleeping cars and restaurants, took one hour and twenty minutes for the journey. What a desolate waste scrubby rocks looked even more weird than usual in the moonlight, and the few dark shrubs cast still darker shadows on the granite.

The train stopped at Escorial. "Eight minutes' halt," and I was the wily passenger to get in or out. In fact, the beggars and several louts seemed surprised to see anyone on such a wintery evening, and I was on my feet in less than ten minutes. The exit door was locked, and a bunch of keys had to be found to let me out. There stood the hotel bus, as my Senator-host had kindly wired to the hotel for a fire in my room, so as to let the people know a lady was arriving late.

The bus drew up at the door of the hospelry. The landlord arrived from a long room where men were drinking. He goes on:

LACK OF ENERGY

A Common Trouble Among Growing Boys—A New Blood Supply is Needed.—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make New Blood.

There are thousands of young men just approaching manhood who have no energy, who tire out at the least exertion, and who feel by the time they have done their day's work as though the day was a week long. In some of these cases there is a further sign of warning in the pimples and disfigurement. These are certain signs that the blood is out of order, and unless it is promptly enriched, a complete breakdown, or perhaps consumption may be the result. All these young men should take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually make rich, red blood, clear the skin of pimples and eruptions, and bring health, strength and energy. Here is a bit of proof. Adolphus Holland, St. Jerome, Que., is a young man of 19 years, who says: "For more than a year I suffered from general weakness, and I gradually grew so weak that I was forced to abandon my work as a clerk. My appetite failed me, I had occasional violent headaches, and I began to suffer from indigestion. I was failing so rapidly that I began to fear that consumption was fastening itself upon me. I did not gain under his care, but I was a very discouraged state when a friend from Montreal came to see me. He frankly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did so and inside of three weeks I began to improve, my appetite grew, and I seemed to have a feeling of new courage. I continued the pills until I had taken ten boxes and I am now enjoying the best of health I ever had. My cure surprised many of my friends who began to regard me as incurable, and I strongly advise other young men who are weak to follow my example and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial." There is no mystery about the cures these pills actually make. They make rich, red blood, which braces and strengthens every organ and every nerve in the body. That is why these pills cure all common ailments like anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia, St. Vitus's dance, headache, and backaches and growing girls. You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine or from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

TOURIST KILLED ON ALPS.

The Climbing Season Ends With a Terrible Accident.

The close of the Alpine season has been marked by the most terrible accident found dead, roped together, on the Plan-Neve Glacier, at the foot of the Paschen Peak, a mountain nearly 9,000 feet high.

The unfortunate tourists, whose names are not yet known, arrived on a recent Saturday afternoon at Les Plans, above Bex. From their conversation it was gathered that they came over from Lausanne for the week-end, and that they were students. The hotelkeeper tried to persuade them not to climb the peak, but they laughed at his fears, and one said: "Do you think we are rich Englishmen?" Another remarked that he had climbed the Swiss mountains for years without guides.

They left the hotel about 9 o'clock on Sunday morning, and nothing more is known of their movements. When they set out the guides warned them to be careful, as much fresh snow had fallen, and many places were exceedingly dangerous.

When their bodies were found by two Swiss rangers they were almost unrecognizable. Nearly every bone in their bodies was broken, and the blood that had lost was frozen to their clothing. From the traces they found in the snow the woodcutters surmise that two of the climbers were experienced and the other two novices. The rope is believed to have broken at an awkward turning, after two of the novices had slipped, and dragged the others with them.

They must have fallen a great distance. Three of the bodies lay a few yards apart. The fourth lay about 50 yards away.

Rorie

CHAPTER III.—(Continued)

"Just half an hour—or at best exactly half an hour since I was posted at the Lyndhurst Road station, you are only just home from your journey."

"Within this hour,"

"And you have not even breakfasted?"

"My honored mother still awaits me."

"And this is your twenty-first day, and you came here first day, and almost uninvited, the head dropped on his shoulder and the sweet childish lips quivered to be kissed."

"Rorie, how I love you!"

"Have I?"

The gray eyes were looking in brown ones admiringly, and the smile was getting a trifle desolate as a flash of recollection came. "I did not think you minded, Rorie, innocently, and when a comes home from a long journey, it is a warm welcome."

"And I am glad to see you,"

"Vixen, giving him both her hands in a gracious frankness; but you know how I have been hating you."

"Why, Vixen?"

"For being always away. I thought you had forgotten us all, that you cared a jot for any of us."

"I had not forgotten any of you. I did care—very much—for you."

This, though vague, was consolation. The brown became rosy, and the smile was getting a trifle desolate. "I did not think you minded, Rorie, innocently, and when a comes home from a long journey, it is a warm welcome."

"And I am glad to see you,"

"Vixen, giving him both her hands in a gracious frankness; but you know how I have been hating you."

"Why, Vixen?"

"For being always away. I thought you had forgotten us all, that you cared a jot for any of us."

"I had not forgotten any of you. I did care—very much—for you."

THE HUNGRY INDIVIDUAL entered the restaurant and ordered a lamb-chop. After a long delay the waiter returned, with a chop of microscopic proportions. "I say," called the customer, "I ordered a chop." "Yes, sir; there it is," Ah, so it is," replied the diner, peering at it closely. "I thought it was a crack in the plate."
