BLOOD FEUDS OF BORNEO

ONE REASON FOR COLLECTIONS OF HEADS.

Dyaks are Mild Mannered Savages, Who Take Heads as a Sign of Manhood.

Were some of our political officers in Borneo to write the histories of all the blood feuds with which they have dealt they would fill many and large volumes, for never a tribe but has its two or three, says a writer in Chamters' Journal. Some of these are of fairly modern origin, and their story, as told over the camp fire at night by the "old man" of the tribe, takes but a few minutes to relate, every head lost or gained being carefully ticked off on the fingers, the teller being conscious of a score of younger men squatting round, each of whom would consider the omission of his share in the matter as a personal insult.
