

THE WOMAN'S KINGDOM.

MATTERS AND TOPICS OF INTEREST TO OUR FEMINE READERS WILL BE PRESENTED AND DEVOTED IN THIS COLUMN, WHICH IS IN CHARGE OF A CAPABLE LADY EDITOR.

HOME DUTY OUTRANKS OTHERS.

While even the most skeptical of men are forced to admit the good work being done by club women and the benefits arising from the greater interest taken by women in public affairs, the suggestion is made editorially in a popular women's periodical that there is danger that they will misinterpret the call to public service as absolving them from the duties of home life.

Especially, thinks the writer, is this true where a duty is due not only to husband and home, but also to aged and dependent relatives.

"Offering one's aged father and mother a home should not mean merely furnishing them with board, lodging and suitable clothing, for these necessities are obtainable in institutions and almshouses."

"It should imply the loving personal attention that conveys the charms of ideal domestic life. Habitually to turn the aged parent and the young child over to hired nurses or domestics, while the head of the home is busy with her own duties, is to fail lamentably in her duty."

There are, of course, cases of wholly unreasonable old mothers and fathers whose exactions in the way of attention pass all bounds, but the majority are not of this type, and one should remember that even as they are dependent to a pathetic degree for their peace of mind on loving attentions from their own, so may one some day be in need of affectionate care from one's own.

Household Wisdom.

Peroxide of hydrogen is recommended to remove ink stains from delicate fabrics without injuring their color.

A coat of varnish applied to linoleum every three months will cause it to last longer.

A lump of washing soda about two inches square dissolved in two gallons of water makes a good wash for silver.

Boil the solution, and while boiling hold the silver in it for two or three minutes, then rinse in hot soapsuds and wipe quickly.

The leather of chairs should be sponged with alcohol, and then varnished with one part alcohol to three parts white of egg.

Two ounces of whiskey shaken in a bottle with two tablespoonfuls of gum camphor are said to remove fruit stains. Hartshorn is also good.

If wallpaper has been soiled by leaning of heads against it, cover the spot with blotting paper and pass a hot iron over it.

The foundations of old linen collars may be used again in up-to-date turnover collars by applying a fresh turnover to them made of a strip of fine embroidery edged with a tiny frill of lace.

A dark, smooth skin on grape fruit usually has the most and sweetest juice.

Eat parsley and vinegar mixed after eating onions and you need not fear that you will advertise your fondness for the loud-smelling bulbs.

Do not use soap in cleansing marble tops and metals. It yellows them. Better results are had from washing with water softened with ammonia.

A homemade beverage is easily made by pouring two quarts of boiling water over four and a half pounds of sugar. Add one cupful of molasses and four ounces of tartaric acid. Both together for a few minutes, and when cold add one ounce of sassafras extract. Bottle cork tightly and keep in a cool place. Take one-third of a glass of the mead, fill the glass nearly full with water, add a quarter of a teaspoonful of carbonate of soda; stir and drink while it effervesces.

Unless one takes ice, lard will get so soft in summer that it does not make good pie crust. A good way is to buy beef suet and fry it out, then melt the lard and mix the two together—two-thirds lard and one-third suet. When this gets cold you will have the finest of lard that will not get soft and does not taste of the suet, and that makes much more flaky pie crust than lard alone.

Lamp wicks hardly ever need trimming and not often removing if they are turned up to the line of charring and then carefully wiped off till the solid part is reached. Occasionally a "point" or a stray fibre will call for the scissors.

A plain rice pudding to which is added a cup of nice raisins or half a pound of chopped dates makes an acceptable summer dessert.

If the asbestos of stoves or fire-places becomes discolored or blackened from the gas, the thing to do is to sprinkle the feathery fibre with common table salt, then light the gas and let it burn the same as usual. The sooty appearance of the asbestos departs like magic and the mineral soon resumes its natural whiteness again.

It happens, too, that the tiny apertures through which the gas flows becomes gummed and partially filled up; when such is the case, run a hatpin through the holes, or a round toothpick, and it will readily free them.

Alleged Midnight Raid on Sleeping Camp Aired in Court

SIX YOUNG BOYS CHARGED WITH THEFT OF SOME WHISKEY, A REVOLVER, WATCH AND OTHER ARTICLES—ALL DAY SESSION.

The youthful alleged highway robbers of the northern lakes appeared before Magistrate Moore Saturday morning, charged with the theft of campers' effects from A. Andrews and W. T. McKeen, at Big Island. This being an indictable case, the accused had his choice of a trial by magistrate or a judge and jury. They all chose to be tried by the magistrate.

G. W. Walker was the first called. The charge against him was that he stole a gold watch from the parties mentioned in the general charge, but he pleaded not guilty. The charge against Houlihan and Kineer were withdrawn. W. H. Walker was called and charged with stealing a revolver to which he pleaded not guilty.

A. Bates was the next elected to be tried by the magistrate, and pleaded not guilty to the theft of a hatchet. Hannibal was under age, so his father was sent for and the boy pleaded not guilty to the theft of a valise and other parcels from the camp.

The first witness called was Mr. McKeen. He said that he was camping on Big Island. He retired late one night and on awakening in the morning a valise, a hatchet and a bottle of whiskey were missing. He paddled over to where the accused were camping, and upon landing met Bates and Houlihan who denied knowing anything of the stolen property.

He said he had a few drinks in him but was sober. He came back to Lindsay Monday afternoon and went home to Toronto Tuesday morning.

Under the cross-examination by Mr. Weldon, he said he did not have five bottles of whiskey and eight bottles of ale and he did not know within two hours of what time he arrived at Big Island. Parsons was the worse of liquor.

Mr. Arthur Parsons was the next witness called for the prosecution. He said his watch and four dollars were stolen. He and his Toronto friends went over to the landing on Goose Lake where they met the prisoners and asked them for his property, but it was not forthcoming. He did not see the boys again until they arrived in Lindsay, where he met with Walker who gave him his revolver, but he did not know anything about his watch. When cross-examined by Mr. Jordan, Parsons admitted he went in for a swim on his way to the Point and was quite chilled when he landed. Someone, whom he thought was Walker, supplied him with blankets to warm him up. Walker asked for his blankets in the morning and he gave them to him. On arriving in Toronto he received a telegram that his watch was found, the same was produced in court, but did not know whether Walker took his watch or not. To Mr. Weldon he admitted having taken some liquor.

Mr. T. C. Matchett gave evidence to the effect that the watch was given him for the purpose of being expressed to Toronto. He recognized the telegram as one sent by him for G. Walker to Mr. Andrews, of Toronto.

Mr. A. Andrews testified that he met the six boys accused at the island. After Parsons came in from his swim he removed the watch and money from his pocket. When he awoke in the morning two of the boys accused had left.

Mr. Davidson, of the Great Northern Telegraph Co., recognized a telegram sent by Walker to Andrews.

The next evidence was given by Chief Vincent, which was the story told him by Walker before his arrest.

Mr. A. Bates was the first of the six to give his evidence, and stated that he was at Big Island at the time mentioned; there were six boys with four canoes. He saw Toronto men coming to the island and they were all drunk. They said they lost a suit case with four dollars' worth of whiskey and eight bottles of ale.

H. Walker testified that he spent the evening referred to with the rest of the boys. He did not know anything about the watch and thought the Toronto boys were all drunk, but did not think anything was stolen.

Hannibal then took the stand and declared he knew nothing of the valise that was stolen. He saw it the night before lying near his canoe. His party had four canoes amongst them.

Mrs. George Walker's evidence was then taken. She said that Mr. Walker was away camping at the time mentioned and she knew that the boys were accused of stealing some parcels, but her husband said nothing to her about the watch. She was putting the blankets out to air when she found the watch and did not know who owned it till her husband came home at noon on Monday and told her all about it.

Apparently contradictory evidence was quite prominent all through Geo. Walker's testimony. He said he told his wife all about the missing of the watch when he came home Monday night. On Tuesday when he went home at noon his wife asked him where the watch came from that she had found in the blankets. He said his wife was quite surprised about finding the watch. He did not know why he sent the telegram to Toronto asking Mr. Andrews to withdraw the charge.

The magistrate ordered him to be placed in jail for one week till his previous record was examined and then His Worship would pass sentence.

It was while the Chief was writing out the order for committal that Walker made his daring escape.

WEDDING BELLS

NICHOLLS—JUNKIN.

A very pretty wedding took place at five o'clock Wednesday afternoon, 5th August, at the home of Mrs. Joseph Junkin, when her daughter, Lillian, was united in marriage with Mr. Herbert Nicholls. The ceremony was performed upon the lawn, under the blue dome of heaven, by Rev. H. W. Foley, of Bobcaygeon circuit, in the presence of about 150 guests.

The bride was attended by Miss Retta Nicholls, of Bethel, while the groom was ably supported by Mr. Leslie Junkin. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. R. Junkin, while Miss A. Mann played the wedding march from Mendelssohn. The bride's gown was silk voile, trimmed with silk applique and chiffon overlace. Everybody knew she would make a beautiful bride, and she did indeed.

The bridesmaid's gown was of dotted Swiss muslin. This marriage brings into close union several of the best families of Verulam, the Junkins, Kellys, Nicholls, Lawsons, and Devitts. The 150 guests represent the wide connection of the families interested.

The gifts to the bride were many and valuable, showing the high esteem in which she is held by her many friends. The young couple will reside on Mr. Nicholls' farm, near Eden, and all join heartily in wishing them much joy and all manner of prosperity.—Bob. Independent.

THE DOMINION ELECTIONS.

(Special to Free Press, Lindsay.)

Toronto, Aug. 11.—Mr. R. L. Borden expects to visit Toronto in Sept., and will probably be accompanied by Premier McBride, Premier Roblin, Premier Hazen and possibly Mr. Haultain, and will be joined by Hon. W. J. Hanna in the absence of Sir James Whitney, who will take the platform in Ontario at the end of that month. Such are the plans for the Conservative Federal campaign in Ontario, as outlined by Mr. F. D. Monk, M.P., in an interview given The News at the King Edward today.

"I invited Mrs. Brown to spend a week with us, so that she could get a good, long rest."

"Well."

"And would you believe it, the lazy thing never once offered to help me with the housework."

Veteran Newspaper Man Passed Away

MR. T. D. S. MOORE, OF TORONTO GLOBE, DEAD—EDITED EVENING EDITION FOR YEARS.

One of the oldest Toronto newspaper men, Mr. T. D. S. Moore, passed away last week. He will be missed by his associate friends on The Evening Globe, which he edited for many years, and by a host of friends inside and outside of the journalistic field.

Although suffering from ill-health for several years, Mr. Moore had been regularly at his desk until a few weeks ago. He was sixty-five years of age. Educated at Hamilton and London, he learned printing on the London Advertiser, and joined the reporting staff. In 1875 he was sub-editor of the Toronto Liberal, and soon after joined The Globe staff, where he has always been held in the highest respect by his associates. His wife was the only daughter of the late Major Brown, R.A., and four children survive: Mrs. (Dr.) Revell, Woodstock; Mrs. John C. Little, this city; Everett S. B., of Simcoe, and Miss Gladys, at home.—News.
