The young people report having had quite an enjoyable evening at the paring bee at J. Goodhand's last week. Quite a number of our residents have received copies of the Fenelon Falls show fair prize list for this year's fair and from a perusal of the same the outlook for this year's fair is very bright. We predict a splendid crowd from this district on the second day of the show.

LIVELY HAPPENINGS AT GOODERHAN VILLAGE

SPECIAL TRAIN ON I. B. & O. FOR LINDSAY CENTRAL FAIR.

The shower which came on Friday last was sorely needed, as the forest fires in this vicinity were threatening, and at 4 o'clock Friday it was necessary to light lamps in some places owing to the density of the smoke.

Dr. Frost, of Kinmount, called on patients here Friday and Saturday. Miss Mamie Skuce, of Wilberforce, is visiting in town.

Mr. H. B. Ruby and Miss Pearl is spending a few days with friends in Fenelon Falls.

A special train in connection with Lindsay fair will run over the I. B. & O. railway on Friday morning, Sept. 25, leaving Gooderham at 5.50 a.m., connecting with Haliburton train at the junction, returning on arrival of 8.15 p.m. train from Lindsay. A record crowd is expected.

The friends of Mr. Wilson, of Fenelon Falls, in this vicinity, were glad to hear of his nomination to oppose Col. Sam Hughes in this riding at the coming election, and we feel satisfied the doctor will obtain his share of the votes here.

The Fenelon Falls fair on the 6th and 7th October will take a number of people from this district. This fair is always a drawing card for our people, and this year the prospects for a crowd are better than ever.

Fruit, vegetables, or such groceries as sugar, coffee, tea, etc., should never be kept in the larder or store cupboard in the paper bags in which they are sent from the store. Paper has a deleterious effect on any foodstuffs containing much moisture of themselves—when allowed to come in contact with them, and for this reason they should be emptied out of the bags as soon as possible and stored in jars or tins.

—Mr. D. C. Boyce, of Dunsford, was in town Saturday.

Many Advantages of the Poultry Keeper

HAS A PRODUCT THAT IS SALEABLE ALL THE YEAR ROUND.

The poultry keeper, above all other business men, says the Farming World, has the advantage of having for sale a product which is saleable every day in the year in any part of the country. There is no town so small, no village so remote that poultry and eggs are not in demand at all times, and in many instances the more remote the town the better the prices. The poultry keeper has also the advantage of being able to fatten within a narrow range what price he will obtain for his produce. He knows that at certain times he will be able to get high prices and at other times prices are very likely to fall. He knows that year after year certain price curves will be found in the market quotations and these will not vary widely in any series of years. The price of beef, mutton, pork, wool, cotton, farm produce of any kind, is likely to swing through a wide arc in consecutive years, prices being made on demand or according to the quality produced. With the products of the poultry yard it is different. Prices go up and down almost as regularly as if they had been fixed to remain permanently, and the poultry keeper need not worry about supply and demand. He should give his whole attention to the economic phases of the work.

He should endeavor to feed so as to produce the greatest possible revenue from a given quantity of feed. He should endeavor to secure the largest number of eggs from each laying hen. It is characteristic of the business of producing eggs that a shortage in the summer or an overplus in the winter does not affect prices to any great degree. This is because the law of average applies. If one poultryman's hens lay well in winter the increased supply is not large enough to lower prices, while if one flock ceases to produce in early summer other flocks go right on producing the usual summer output. This gives the individual poultryman an opportunity to conduct his business so as to get the best results by producing the largest number of eggs at a time when the prices are highest. In the poultry keeping as in any other business, it is ability to see ahead which makes for success.

—Mr. D. C. Boyce, of Dunsford, was in town Saturday.

Rather Odd Conduct. (Madoc Review.)

Ben. Hobson, who hails from St. Ola, was given 30 days in jail at Sudbury one day last week for endeavoring to pass off as an Oddfellow, claiming that he was a member of Madoc Lodge, 179. The Sudbury lodge made inquiries as to whether he was a member here, and on being informed that he wasn't had him sent down. While here some time ago he tried to make some of the local members believe he was a member of the Order, but it wouldn't go.
