CLAYTON WEESE

The many friends of Mr. Clayton C. Weese were shocked to hear of his death, which took place at Toronto General Hospital on Friday.

The deceased took ill in Peterboro about two months ago, and although his illness was of a serious nature, his death was entirely unexpected.

MRS. J. KING.

Mount Forest Representative: On Friday evening, Mrs. King, Ferguson-st. was stricken with paralysis, sinking shortly after seizure into an unconscious condition, which continued until Sunday evening, when she breathed her last. Deceased was the only daughter of the late James Brownson and mother of the well-known vocalist, Miss Gertrude King. She was borne in Oshawa about 65 year ago, but lived for many years in Lindsay, where she was married to the late John King, who predeceased her about 19 years ago. Thirty years ago the family came to Mt. Forest. Mr. Brownson also lived here with his daughter until his death, about a year after the death of her husband. Mother and daughter continued an unbroken residence here until Mrs. King was summoned by death, leaving her daughter with no nearer relatives than an uncle—her father's brother.

The late Mrs. King during her long residence in Mount Forest won the esteem of many friends as a loving mother, an industrious woman, and kind neighbor. She was devoted to the interests of her home and church and every moral cause; a faithful member of the Methodist church and officer and worker for years in its Ladies' Aid Society, a hearty sympathizer and worker on the temperance cause. She was a member of the Royal Templars and a beneficiary thereof. The esteem in which she was held, and the sympathy felt for her bereft daughter was manifested by the large attendance at the funeral, which took place Tuesday afternoon to the Mt. Forest cemetery.

The wedding took place in Mount Forest, on Wednesday, Dec. 28th, at 1.30 o'clock of Miss Annie Elizabeth Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Russell, of that town to David Neville Sharpe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe, of Lindsay. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. Coopee, of Mount Forest and the bride, who was unattended, was given away by her father in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

On their return from the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe will reside in Toronto for the winter and in the spring will remove to the west.

McCALLUM—RAY.

The marriage took place on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Dec. 14th at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. G. Ray, of Guernsey, of his eldest daughter, Hazel May, to John McCallum, of Guernsey. Rev. A. R. Maunders, of Lanigan officiated in the presence of about forty guests. The bride, who was given away by her father marched down stairs to the arch, which was made of white and pink roses, keeping time to the wedding march, which was played by Mrs. T. Allcott. The bride wore a white satin de china dress, trimmed with white silk knot ribbon and overlace, wearing a bridal veil and a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair. The bridesmaid, Clara M. Ray, the bride's sister was attired in a cream cashmere dress, trimmed with wide lace and overlace wearing lilies of the valley in her hair. The groom was attended by his brother, George McCallum. The bride received many beautiful presents. The groom's gift to the bride was a fur muff, to the bride's maid, a gold bracelet, and to the groomsmen a pair of gold cuff links. The guests put in a jolly time in the evening dancing and playing cards. Mr. and Mrs. McCallum are wished much happiness in the future by their friends.

JAMES—SHOCK.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the Methodist parsonage, Woodwood, when Miss Mildred May Mack, of Hamilton, and Mr. Roy James, of Oakwood, were united in marriage by Rev. W. Elliott. The bride was becomingly attired in blue tulle cloth suit and white silk vest. The bridesmaid, Miss Stella Savinac looked charming in a dress of blue panama cloth and white waist and was attended by her sister, Mrs. W. A. McCuaig, of Alandale, dressed in a beautiful black costume.

After the ceremony, the bride returned to the home of the groom, where a dainty repast was served. There was only the intimate friends and relatives of the bride and the

DOCTOR ORDERED "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

AFTER ALL ELSE HAD FAILED AND "FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED MRS. CADIEUX

Plantagenet, Ont., Jan. 31st, 1910.

About March 1st, 1909, I was taken deathly sick with Stomach Trouble, Backache and General Breakdown. I failed from 125 pounds down to 80 pounds, and was confined to bed for eight weeks, and was unable to eat or keep anything on my stomach.

The doctors said they could do nothing for me and as a last resort, one doctor told me to try "Fruit-a-tives"—if they would not cure me, nothing would. I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" at once, and inside of ten days I was able to leave my bed. My stomach got strong and I could eat and retain my food. I gained rapidly and soon had my usual good health back again and to-day I weigh as much as ever—125 pounds.

5,000 MILLION IS POST OFFICE RECORD

The Number of Postal Packets Dealt With in Great Britain Last Year—Interesting Figures

The report of the Postmaster-General of Great Britain for the year ending with March last has just been published. Over 5,000 millions of postal packets were dealt with during the year, including about 3,000 millions of letters, 974 millions of halfpenny packets, 866 millions of halfpenny packets, 206 millions of newspapers, and 118 millions of parcels. The number of letters per head of the population of the United Kingdom has increased since 1900 from 57 to 65. Undelivered packets were estimated at over 31 millions, and the amount of money found in addressed and unaddressed packets recorded in returned letter offices was nearly £650,000. Over 35 millions of old-age pension orders were paid, representing nearly £8,500,000. The number of telegrams passing over Post Office wires was nearly 87 millions.

ELEPHANT SAVES A THOUSAND LIVES

It Takes Pilgrims from a Submerged Island to a Place of Safety—A Story from India

How an elephant saved a thousand lives is told in the "Pioneer" by its Afra correspondent, who mentions the wild rumors afloat about the disaster at the bathing festivities at Sorong, in the Agra division, and continues:—

Thousands of pilgrims had camped on a strip of land which had never before been flooded within the memory of the oldest residents. There was a sudden rise in the tide of the Ganges, and the pilgrims were stranded on the spot where they were encamped, which had now become an island surrounded with deep water. The pilgrims who had the presence of mind to link arms and stand up, though immersed chest-deep in water, were saved but those who ran panic-stricken to regain terra firma fell into the deeper stream and were lost.

Rescue parties, headed by the Deputy collector of the locality and the police, arrived on the scene as soon as possible, and with the aid of boats and an elephant rescued the stranded pilgrims. The work done by the elephant, named Jung Bahadur, was wonderful. "I can confidently say that all the leading members of the hair-dressing profession will enter heart and soul into this scheme."

Mr. Unwin said that curls would play an important part in the dressing, and that the Greek style would be preserved. The vogue for curls is an undying one, and a soft, rather high chignon of curls, will form an excellent support for those who wear coronets on the great occasion, while a soft bandeau of hair above the curls will give a dignified effect.

General Booth in an Interview Says the Power of Vision is Gradually Decreasing

General Booth is reported, in the London "War Cry," to have said in an interview:—"Yes, the power of vision in the remaining eye is, I suppose, gradually decreasing, and yet I am able to see sufficiently to write what my friends assure me is really a very legible letter. For months now I have not been able to see the faces of my hearers, and this, of course, is in itself an additional strain upon me, but I am hoping every day that the condition of the eye will allow of that marvellous operation which I am expecting will give me back my sight and make me young again—anyway, so far as seeing is concerned."

STATE LOSES FORTUNE

Relatives Obtain Possession of a Legacy Refused by Archbishop of Paris

A curious case has just been decided by the Civil Court of the Seine (Paris), which has pronounced against the State and in favor of two natural heirs. Just two years ago the Vicomtesse de Rainneville, who was of Russian origin, died, leaving the Archbishop of Paris sole legatee of her fortune, amounting to a million francs. The Archbishop having refused to accept the fortune, and the lady's natural heirs having been disinherited by her will, it fell in the ordinary course of things to the State, and pending the final arrangements, a curator was appointed.

Such was the situation when the sister and nephew of the deceased came forward to claim the property. Their counsel argued that Madame de Rainneville having remained Russian at heart, and strongly disapproving of the policy of the Republic, it was preposterous that her money should go to the State. On the other hand, the Duke de Rainneville entertained the most violent aversion for the French Government and for most of the statesmen who were in office during the last years of her life, and in most of her letters submitted to the Court she expressed herself relative to the French Government and its members in the most violent terms.

DEAD AT MADRID

Is the Last Descendant of Christopher Columbus

The Duke of Veragua, the last descendant of Christopher Columbus, has died at Madrid, after a long illness, aged 72. He was formerly Minister of Public Works, and also held the post of Minister of Marine. He went to America in 1492 as the official representative of Spain at the celebrations in commemoration of the discovery of the country by his illustrious ancestor.

HONOR DELAYED

After Forty Years English Soldier Receives Medal

Pte. Farnell, who was discharged from the Rifle Brigade, England, in 1859, after 22 years' service, was entitled to a medal with two clasps for the Fenian raids of 1864 and 1870, but for some reason he never received it. Now, after an interval of 40 years, he has received it through the intervention of Mrs. Walter Salmond, honorary secretary of the Derbyshire branch of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society. Farnell, who is 71, is blind, and an inmate of Derby Workhouse Infirmary, where the medal has been formally presented to him.

"CUT AND COME AGAIN"

Amongst the amusing stories told by Mr. Inman, who made such a good fight with Stevenson for the billiard championship, is one concerning a notice which he saw displayed in the billiard-room of an hotel in Ceylon, when he was making a tour of the world. The notice read as follows:—"Gentlemen cutting the cloth will pay, for first cut, 100 rupees; second cut, 50 rupees; third cut, 20 rupees; any subsequent cut, 10 rupees." "Judging from the appearance of the cloth," says Mr. Inman, "I should think that table must have been a veritable gold mine to its proprietor, if he collected all the fines. Evidently his motto was 'Cut and come again!'"

$70,000,000 IN SAVINGS

The amount owing to depositors in trustees' savings banks at the end of November was £2,181,983, and to depositors in the National Savings banks close on £52,000,000.

BUSY HAIRDRESSERS

They are Trying to Create a Really New Fashion in Honor of the Coronation

The leading hairdressers of London are determined to produce a remarkable Coronation coiffure for next year, when it is hoped that a British design will lead the fashion.

The scheme was mooted a few days ago at an international hairdressing competition, and further elaborations of the idea will be made at various meetings which the Hairdressers' Guild will hold shortly.

Mr. Unwin, of Albert and Unwin, Regent Street, the president of the Hairdressers' Guild, gave full details of the proposed scheme. "As you are aware, the Hairdressers' Guild endeavor to promote and establish genuine English fashions," he said, "and we hope that in a few years' time the excellence of workmanship in London will be more fully recognized than at the present moment."

"Many of the leading hairdressers are combining to hold a second annual exhibition in London next year, when the Coronation coiffure will be shown."

"Naturally, the work of evolving such a dressing is an arduous one, and it will be some time before all the final designs will be settled. I can confidently say that all the leading members of the hair-dressing profession will enter heart and soul into this scheme."

A CRIPPEN MISTAKE

Cheiro, an Amazing Gentleman, Says the Doctor Did Not Avoid His Key Numbers

One of the greatest mistakes Crippen ever made in his life was in not avoiding his "key numbers." According to Cheiro, the amazing gentleman who cast enough a brick wall as far as most people, if not farther. Crippen's key numbers were fours and eights; so that, if he had only stuck to fives and nines he might have been a respected, honored, and unchanged citizen. It was his obvious duty to avoid the year he was born in, '62, and 2 and 8; likewise, he should have stayed away from that dinner with the Martinetti's on January 31st, for 3 and 1 make 4. He made his statement to Inspector Dew on July 8, and then, to make things worse, he lets Dew find the remains in the cellar on July 13th, for again 3 and 1 are 4. Then the foolish man called himself "Robinson," a name of eight letters, when he might just as well have travelled as Brown or Smith. Not only so, but he sells in the Montrose, again a name of eight letters; comes back in the Megantic, for trial, eight letters again; and, worst blunder of all, he allowed his key numbers to come together in the year he was hanged, being 48 years old when he was executed.

A BONELESS CHILD

The St. Asaph Board of Guardians has just discussed the case of a girl who is reported to have no bones. She is 15 years of age, but weighs only 30 lbs. and is only 35 inches in height. In place of bones she has "soft formations." She has never been able to walk, but her framework is such that she has been able to move about on crutches. She is the daughter of a laborer in poor circumstances.

FINE SKELETONS FROM STONE AGE

Important Discovery Made During Excavations in Old Country—Are of Priceless Value

A discovery of considerable antiquarian value has been made at Astwick, near Biggleswade, North Bedfordshire, England. Workmen employed by Mr. Marland, contractor of Ashton-under-Lyne, were laying a conduit near the bed of the old River Ivel, when they came across two human skeletons male and female. The skeletons were examined by Dr. Waddell, a well-known local antiquary, who pronounced them to belong to the stone age, and to be of almost priceless value.

From the evidences he gathered that the male was a chieftain, and he must have been a man of magnificent physique. The woman was laid at right angles to the man, with her feet resting against the side of his body, and apparently when her lord died she had been slain and buried with him, according to the custom of the time. Both skeletons are complete and in a good state of preservation, due to the nature of the soil. Dr. Waddell is quite convinced that the remains belong to the neolithic period, and considers the discovery to be of great importance to the world of science. It is proposed to communicate with the British Museum authorities with a view to the bones being transferred to the museum when their antiquity has been authenticated.

BLOODLESS OPERATIONS

Latest Triumph of Electrical Science Reported From Berlin

Surgical operations without bloodshed are the latest triumph of electrical science. The discoverer is Dr. F. Nagelschmidt of Berlin, who has just demonstrated it to the members of the electrotherapeutic section of the Royal Society of Medicine. The advantages claimed are that many operations can now be performed without blood being spilt, as the passage of this type of electricity through the diseased tissue coagulates all the albumen in the blood and tissues, and prevents the blood from flowing.

This will be particularly useful, the London, Eng., "Daily Mirror" points out, in the case of large cancers on the surface of the body, and particularly in the type called "en cuirasse." The current that the doctor uses is a very distinct modification of the ordinary high-frequency electricity. It is applied as follows:—"Two wires lead from the generator to two metal plates (electrodes). These are placed on each side of the part to be operated upon, and the flow of blood in the region between the two electrodes is stopped.

All blood and tissue contain a very large proportion of albumen—a substance similar to the white of egg—and this the current coagulates, so that the flow of the blood is arrested.

A LADY STRIKE AGITATOR

One of the most remarkable women in Europe is Mme. Sorgue, a Frenchwoman of independent means, who, during the last ten years, has taken part in some fifty strikes. She has assisted in strike agitations all over Europe purely for the love of the thing. Many times she has been arrested, and at Milan she was put in a cage for trial at the assizes. The Public Prosecutor demanded that she should be sent to solitary confinement for five years, but public agitation against this terrible sentence, which usually drove prisoners to madness or suicide, was so strong that Mme. Sorgue escaped with two months' imprisonment. She is regarded as a comrade by millions of workers throughout Europe, and her influence is such that England, according to her own confession, is the only country she has visited where she has not been shadowed by the police.
