MILLERSMITH

(Special to The Post.)

On Sunday last our supt., Mr. Jeff Ashmore, was presented with a handsome teachers' bible and hymn book. The following address was read: Dear Mr. Ashmore,—We, the scholars and teachers of Salem Sunday School, wish to express to you our appreciation of the work you are doing in our midst. We realize how often you must have been discouraged with us, but your earnestness and faithfulness have been an incentive to us, rousing us to better work in the Sunday school, and your life through the week has been an example to young men. We feel that you are laboring among us in our youth, and we will be always glad to see or hear of your broadening out in the fullness of Christian life and work. We ask you to accept this bible and hymn book as a slight token of the respect and esteem in which you are held by the school, and we trust that the same pleasant relations that have existed in the past may continue in the future. May heaven's richest blessings be yours through life. Signed on behalf of the school, Eva Kennedy, Wilmer Kennedy.

In replying, Mr. Ashmore thanked the school for the beautiful gifts, as in regard to his work, it was a pleasure and as a school he was proud of it. Its success was due to the union in work of teachers, scholars and the superintendent. The words of Tennyson are true in regard to true friendship, when he said:

Since we deserved the name of friends,
And thine effects so live in me,
So may mine live in thee,
And move thee on to nobler ends.

We feel that a major portion of our success can be attributed to your untiring zeal in this connection, but it is not our purpose to convey to you eulogy, as unnecessary as it is inexpressive, and we simply ask you to receive this gift from us as a small remembrance and accept our very best wishes for you and yours, that you may have a joyous Christmas season and a long and prosperous life.

IN MEMORIAM

Lines written in memory of Ida Maye Earle, wife of Wm. Earle, who departed this life on Mar 8th, 1912.

Oh, faded hopes and withered dreams,
How dreary life for future seems;
No hopes on earth for you now to show,
Since death has dealt its dreadful blow,

She trusted Christ when days were drear,
Trusted in Him when skies were clear,
And now she reaps her bright reward,
A mansion with the blessed Lord.

Yet how sad to think of parting,
From the one we loved so well,
All around seems dark and dreary
It's so lone, no tongue can tell.

In thy hearty home was sunshine
Lighted by thy presence there,
But to us it does seem lonely
When we see thy vacant chair.

A Husband now is left to mourn,
A mother from her children torn,
God's holy will it must be done,
Altho' it fills our heart with gloom.

Tho, we wish that we could see thee
Now
And speak to thee as of yore,
Yet back again to this world of pain,
We could wish thee never more.

But now our hopes with her are fled
For she is numbered with the dead,
We shall her face no more behold
Until we walk those streets of gold.

A Friend.
