ferred to his (Mr. McWatters') lameness as a reason why he should not be elected. Mr. McWatters said he had given the town the best that was in him for several years, and he felt he was entitled to step up. He asked for the support of the citizens and assured them that he would give good service.

R. M. BEAL wanted to know what Mr. Begg wished him to say about the Bond-st. pavement. Mr. Begg was a year behind on the Sussex-st. drain. It was last year's council that made the blunder and the council this year were obliged to finish the work, and made a good job of it. The Bond-st. pavement was next referred to. The reason he favored paving that street, was that it was the only street ready for second contract. It was an avenue leading from the west and the people thereon signed a unanimous petition. When this street was paved it was understood it was to go to head of street. There is a difference of opinion on this. The Chairman of the Board of Works started the contract on the intersection of Bond and Adelaide-sts. Mayor Beal said he was satisfied to pay his frontage; also across the intersection 10 feet wide from end to end. He would give his cheque for $300, or let it run for 20 years with rest of pavement, although he felt he should not be expected to do it. The arrangements regarding the second contract with Foley & Gleeson was referred to. Arrangements have been completed whereby the contractor gives the town a percentage of the bonds, and the town will make a pot, besides getting a good job done. The contractors agreed to give every working man in town a chance to get a job on the work if they wanted it. Mr. Begg had criticized the council for not getting a cheaper pavement. Mr. Begg had attended all the public meetings when paving was discussed, and was not very anxious for cheap pavement then. He fought to have a friend of his get the contract for laying asphalt block, similar to that on William-st. north, at $2.75 per yard, while the council selected asphaltic concrete at $2.10 per yard. The base on the William-st. road was not nearly so good as that laid under the asphaltic concrete roadways. A great deal had been heard, His Worship said, about the poor workingman. Some were very solicitous about his welfare. He could shift for himself 365 days in the year, but they needed him badly one day only.

JAS. B. BEGG denied that he had advocated the paving contract of a friend in the asphaltic pavement tender. The block on William-st. was a good job and if this year's work lasts as long he will be the first to praise it. The contract price for asphalt block was $2.50 a yard, not $2.75 as Mr. Beal stated.

B. L. McLEAN, in a well-phrased address said it would be a pity for anyone to come in between Messrs. Jackson and McWatters. He was disappointed in the spirit with which the criticism was received. The town's rate last year was 30 1/2 mills, based on 1912 assessment. The 1913 assessment was raised to about $300,000. At a 30 mill rate that gave council about $9,000. They should have done as well under those conditions as the council of previous years. He had favored raising the assessment, believing the town could automatically lower the rate. This was not done this year, although it was not out that it would. The in-

NEW CARTAGE SCHEDULE

Railways Put Increased Rates Into Force on Jan. 1, 1914.

MONTREAL, Dec. 30.—The railways issued their new cartage schedule yesterday to take effect Jan. 1. They have established a rate in Montreal of four cents per 100 pounds, which is an increase over the present rate of one cent. Owing to the higher cost of cartage in Montreal and the shippers agreeing to pay the cost in all cases, Montreal shippers pay a higher rate than at any other eastern point.

The rates for the other centres are: Toronto, 3-1-4 cents; Hamilton, 3 cents; and the following points also 3 cents: Bothwell, Bradford, Glace Bay, Guelph, Hamilton, Kingston, London, Ottawa, Sarnia, St. Catharines, St. Hyacinthe, St. Thomas, Thamesville, Valleyfield, Walkerville, and Windsor.

The minimum in all cases is 20 cents. A feature of interest to the shippers is the addition to the list of exceptions to the flat tariff of the following freight: Baskets, empty packages, furniture, (excepting brass and iron bedsteads).

KENT CAN GROW CORN!

Children's Contest Shows Marvellous Yield Per Acre.

CHATHAM, Dec. 30.—Yesterday the announcement was made that in this northern climate of Kent 142 bushels of shelled corn to the acre have been grown by D. A. Another boy, John Wilson, had a yield of over 135 bushels, and a little girl, Edna Wills, secured 135 bushels per acre.

The above mentioned boys and girls were members of a corn-growing contest in Harwich Township that was organized by R. H. Abraham of the Department of Education. The object in having the contest was mainly to test the Wisconsin No. 7 corn, to try to find out if it was suitable corn to recommend for Kent County. Pure Wisconsin No. 7 seed was secured and distributed to two hundred boys and girls who planted one-eighth of an acre in plots isolated from other crops.
