Drowning Case at Coboconk

Further Particulars of the Sad Event Mr. T. Hawkins Has an Exciting Ex-

(Special to The Post.) Coboconk, Feb. 19 .- Lilian Bradford, daughter of Mr. Harry Bradford, was drowned on Thursday. The little girl was accustomed to go to the river for water and in doing this more, until two hours after her body was found some distance down the

Her absence was not immediately observed, and consequently no search was made for a time. The river here is frozen for a few yards from shore and possibly the thin ice near the open water proved treacherous footing for her.

Jos, Wakelin and Mr. R. A. Callan, who were in a boat searching for the child, recovered her body which was floating beneath a thin covering of ice.

The Port Hope Guide says : "Dr G. A. Dickinson, Medical Health Offeer and Chief Bond visited the high school to-day, this being the first step in the compulsory vaccination which comes into effect on Tuesday. The majority of the pupils were able to produce certificates of successful vaccination, and those who had not the certificates had their arms examined. Throughout the whole school only two pupils had not been vaccinted, a boy and a girl, and the former had promised to undergo the operattion. The young lady does not like the idea of having her arm scratched and if it is not done by Tuesday she will be refused admission to the school and then it will be up to Alderman Curtis to do the rest."

Mr. Hawkins was driving near the Grand Trunk freight sheds when his horse became frightened at the yard engine and made a dash for liberty.

Mr. Hawkins held on to the lines, but in turning the corner at Russell. st. the cutter was overturned and he was forced to let go. The cutter then righted itself, and the horse sped on. At the corner of Albert and Russel-sts, some schoolboys managed to stop the horse. The driver was uninjured, as he had landed in the soft snow. Considerable damage was done to the outfit.

During the year we were favored with a visit from Mr. Jas. Oborne, general superintendant of division of the C. P. R., who gave us a very interesting talk on "Transportation, and its relation to industries." were also favored with a visit from Mr. A. W. Campbell, Deputy Minister of Public Works, who spoke to us on the ever important subject of "Good Roads." It is needless to say that both meetings were well attended and enjoyed by those present. We were promised a visit from the Hon. Literary Meeting Adam Beck, but the elections inter-fered, and it had to be postponed. We fully expect Mr. Beck to pay us s visit in the near future. The board can also congratulate itself on having started the winter fair, for though the merchants directly interested did not respond at the first meeting held to talk it over, suddenly wakened up to its advantages and the members of the board treated them very liberally both in time and money.
