Poultry Matters Were Discussed

Scholarly Address by Miss Yates on Winter Egg Production

Despite the many counter attractions last evening a good sized audience assembled in the town hall to listen to the address of Miss Yates, of McDonald Institute, and Mr. Gilbert, of the Ottawa Experimental Farm.

Mr. D. C. Trew, the local poultry expert, occupied the chair during the evening, and in his usual affable manner introduced the different speakers.

MISS YATES' ADDRESS.

The address of Miss Yates on Winter Egg Production was a splendid effort. This talented lady imparted information to those present regarding the production of eggs during the winter season in a manner which cannot help but result in a vast amount of good. Many valuable suggestions and hints were imparted regarding the care necessary to be bestowed on poultry during the winter in order to make them productive. The points the speaker adduced and the advice given proved a revelation to the poultry fanciers present, and a vast amount of good is certain to result.

MR. GILBERT'S TALK.

Mr. Gilbert, of the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, an old friend of the local association, also gave some sound, practical advice regarding poultry topics.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speakers for their instructive talks.

Organize Mission Study Classes

Those in Connection With Missionary Institute Very Successful

The mission study classes in connection with the missionary institute were very largely attended. The delegates and young people of Lindsay manifested a great interest in the sessions. There will be an effort made to establish classes in connection with the young people's organizations of the various churches. Following are the classes and teachers: Strangers within our gates—Miss Sifton, Toronto.

Korea—Dr. J. M. Waters, Presbyterian missionary to India.

South America—Dr. J. G. Brown, Toronto.

Why and how of foreign missions—Rev. H. J. Keith, Peterboro.

These classes were the special feature of the institute, and the interest displayed in them was encouraging to the young people in charge.

Brutalities of Hindoo Natives

Rev. R. A. Haslam, and Dr. G. B. Archer paid a visit to the native state of Mandi, in the Punjab, North India, and their report shows among other things, revolting cruelties: "The insurrection of Mandi City was at its height when we arrived. All along the route we met all classes on their way to the state capital to air their grievances. These sturdy, simple straightforward hill-men should make strong Christians if won to Christ. We marched in the early morning a stage a day. In the afternoon or evening we took up our position on some shop verandah in a prominent place and held quiet talks, and have rarely had better audiences. Some had heard a little before, but as a Brahman said, 'When you only come here once in two years, how can we be expected to lay hold of and live by the fundamental truths?' Well might he ask."

"In Mandi City was a gathering estimated at from seven to sixteen thousand people. A durbar had been held the day before and the commissioner was expected, so that we had large and representative audiences. As one heard of the treatment accorded to prisoners by the common people—although the insurgents on the whole practised restraint—one was glad that India was not at the mercy of a non-Christian rule. Pundits, in the Rajah's service, who had been put in chains, were taken out in the boiling sun at noon to dig holes with spade and shovel and to fill them up again, until, in the foam of perspiration, they were offered a concoction of shabat mixed with red pepper to quench their thirst. High-caste Brahmas thrown into a small room, had their food of chapatties prepared and cast at them, by Mohammedans as though they were dogs. One prisoner, relieved of his chains by a government official and three police, was found to have both his arms fractured and to have been left in that state for some days without treatment. Such were some of the punishments accorded to East Indians. The cause of the people seems to be just, but their methods of redress will probably call upon the leader of the revolting party the government's severe reprimand."

Saved From Horrible Death

Janetville Citizen Rolled Off Trak as Train Approached

What might have been a very serious accident and which was rather a miracle occurred last Thursday. Mr. Jas. Fanning, sr., was walking along the railroad north of here and fell, hurting his chest and face. Mr. Fanning who is quite old, tried in vain to get up, but could not. He heard the train whistling and lay down and rolled himself off just in time to clear himself of a terrible death, of being run over by the train. The train hands notified the men at the station. He was taken home and medical aid summoned. Last report says he is improving, and doing as well as can be expected.

The Joke that Was Returned

A joke that did good, but unexpected service, was played years ago by a Montreal newspaper man on his father, a minister in Chicago. The scribe while home on a visit, found his father's purse, containing a single one dollar bill. The lone bill brought an inspiration, and he wrote on the margin the words: "The last of many thousands, spent on wine and women." Not long afterwards his father called him into his study. The minister's manner was very impressive. "See this, my boy," he said, handing him the bill with the inscription, "study it carefully. This is a sad warning given to us all by some wretch who fell lower and lower until he reached the end of his fortune. God only knows if after spending that dollar he did not end his fatal career by a self-inflicted death. Take this to heart."

At first the joker was inclined to tell the truth about the inscription, but as the man proceeded in a voice of great emotion he felt that the explanation would be hard to make. He let the matter rest, with his father in possession of a beautiful case in point. The result was that the minister got up next Sunday and with the dollar bill in his hand, he preached on this text one of the most powerful sermons ever delivered. In fact, so great was the success of it, that every now and then he makes the dollar bill the subject of exhortation to young men.

Actors Engaged In a Scrap

A Good Deal of Tempest About the "The Sunshine and Tempest" Company

The Napanee Express of this week publishes an account of an "unpleasantness" that occurred there just prior to the presentation of the play "Tempest and Sunshine" among the actors presenting the play. The Express says:

"The Tempest and Sunshine Company, which appeared in the Brisco Opera House on Monday evening had a lively time upon the Opera House stage just before the performance. Mr. Carl Uhl, one of the members of the company got into an altercation with the manager and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brandon, accusing them of insulting his wife. Mrs. Brandon slapped Uhl's face. Brandon punched him, and afterwards hit Uhl over the head with a curtain pole. Even at this Uhl had the best of the game, and a couple of other members of the company started in to help Brandon, and a general mix-up occurred. The next morning the matter was aired in police court when Brandon had Uhl up for using insulting language. The charge was not sustained by the evidence and Brandon had to pay the costs.

An incident somewhat similar to that is said to have occurred among the same actors at the outer depot here when they were leaving for the west.—Peterboro Review.

Two Woman Were Assaulted

Brutal Affair in Peterboro County Friday Morning

Norwood, Jan. 28.—A sensational assault took place about three miles from here shortly before noon to-day when an unknown man, a tramp, entered the home of the Misses McPherson. Both women are now suffering to such an extent from the injuries received at the hands of the thug that they are lying seriously ill and Drs. Pettigrew, Sutton and Ford have been called in to attend them. One is in a dying condition. A report was received here that the assailant had been taken prisoner and was in the lock-up there.

The Misses McPherson are old women, probably seventy years of age, and resided alone. They have lived about three miles from this village practically all their lives. It appears from the news of the affair that has been received here that the brute entered the home apparently with the intention of robbing the house. From the fact that the women were so badly beaten up it would seem that they had made an effort to defend their property.

On learning of the affair searching parties for the wretch were sent out in all directions.

REPORTED DEAD.

Havelock, Jan. 28.—The young man who made such a dastardly attack on the Misses McPherson, near Norwood this morning, is in custody here. He was followed from Norwood by two farmers, and when near Havelock the latter called to some section men working on the track for assistance. The assailant fired at his pursuers, but his shot went wide and no one was hurt. He was chased right into Havelock and there placed in the lock-up by the village constable, Mr. Fred Bennett.

The prisoner is a young man. He gave his name as Robert Henderson, and his home as Toronto. He had but little money on him, but he had letters addressed to himself at the above city.

His motive in such an act was evidently that of robbery. An unconfirmed report is in circulation here, to the effect that one of the women is dead.

Salary for the High Constable

Wentworth County Council Dealing With Important Matters

In connection with the resignation of Chief Vincent as High Constable of the county, which was received by the county council and held over until the June session, the following despatch from Hamilton will be read with interest:

Hamilton, Jan 28.—The matter of reorganizing the county police system was brought before the county council this afternoon, and as a result of recommendations that were made by Crown Attorney Washington and Sheriff Middleton, the council has decided to take up the question in the morning, and go fully into it. Mr. Washington said the police committee and he had talked over the matter, and he thought it would be well for the county to engage a high constable who should be paid a salary sufficient to enable him to devote his whole time to police matters. The present system did not allow fees to constables unless they made an arrest, and then they were very small fees. The result was that the administration of justice in the back townships was practically a farce, as men could not be expected to quit their work for nothing. J. J. Foran, who lost a mare over three years ago, was asked to speak and he told of the difficulty he had in getting the county police to work. He recovered his mare in Toronto after three years' ceaseless search, and stated that he believed if it had not been for the county police system he would have got her in two weeks.

Councillor Lawson drew attention to the fact that East and West Flamboro owed the county about 2600 each in taxes on account of some road repairs, and this matter will be gone into on Tuesday morning next.

Borne to the Tomb
The funeral of the late Eliza Carroll was held Friday afternoon from the residence of her son, Mr. Jos. Carroll, William-st., and was largely attended by friends and relatives. The services were conducted at the home by the deceased's pastor, Rev. Canon Marsh, after which the remains were conveyed to Riverside cemetery and placed in the vault. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Alex. Skinner, J. Hore, G. Mills, Thos. Connolly, Jos. Brown and L. McSilver coin, and the bogus can be easily bent with the fingers.

Bogus Coins
A number of lead quarters are now in circulation in Port Hope. They are Canadian with King's head and United States of the ordinary issue. The bad pieces are easily detected. Between the fingers they feel slippery or greasy as compared with the silver coin, and the bogus can be easily bent with the fingers.
