Trent Canal Completed Aug. 1914 $360,000 for the Northern Stretch

Peterboro Review.—The immediate success and completion of the Trent Valley Canal project is now assured. The estimates brought down the other day provide $1,000,000 for the Trent Canal. This does not mean any revote. Upon Mr. Burnham inquiring of the Minister how much was intended for the completion of the northern end, he said not less than $400,000. The rest of the canal is under contract, and unless something unforeseen happens, the Canal from Lake Simcoe down to Lake Ontario will be opened and in working order in August, 1914.

Western grain into Peterborough, and also a vast expansion of the milling industry in Peterborough.

Western wheat and oats are necessary for the mills here. The matter of freight rates and insufficient transportation will be avoided, and we may expect to see industries like the Quaker Oats Company doubling, and even tripling in size. Considerable energy has been displayed by the members along the route of the canal, and credit must be given them for consistently pressing for an immediate completion.

Two years will suffice for the completion of the northern end, so that in two years from this time the canal will be an accomplished fact, and in running order, and we may expect to see a vast amount of imports of

The banquet in Orillia which Mr. Burnham and Mr. Buller attended was an event of considerable importance, and the high hopes entertained on that occasion of the completion of the canal from what the Ministers said in his speech have been fully justified. In addition to grain, it will be possible with the use of electric power, to bring in pulp wood and establish paper mills along the Trent route, also mineral ore, in fact when the canal is opened Peterborough will have all the advantages of being a city on the great waterway of the Dominion. It is understood to be the intention of the Borden Government to deepen and increase in size the Trent Canal.

ACUTE PAINS IN THE BACK

Caused by Lumbago, a Form of Muscular Rheumatism

Lumbago is sudden in its attacks and is so intensely painful that the sufferer is often unable to move, even to turn in bed or rise from a chair. The trouble chiefly occurs among working men, among whom it numbers thousands of victims. As the attacks come on quite frequently and are so torturing, this disease means much loss of time and money as well as the endurance of much suffering. No victim needs to be told that liniments, plasters and outward treatment will not cure the disease. This kind of treatment is merely a waste of time and money. The trouble is really a species of muscular rheumatism and is due to poor blood and can only be cured through the blood. It is for this reason that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are so successful in curing this trouble, and those who are afflicted by it lose no time in giving the Pills a trial. If the treatment is persisted in the disease will be driven from the system, and the cure made permanent. In substantiation Mrs. Alfred Derby, Etyville, Ont., says: "A few years ago I was attacked by excruciating pains in the back, which the doctor called lumbago. I was not able to do a bit of work about the house and suffered dreadfully every time I moved about. I took the doctor's medicine all winter, and used liniments without getting any relief. In a thoroughly discouraged condition I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using six boxes I was better and able to do all my own work, and have not been afflicted with the trouble since. I now always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to those ailing."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY

I'll venture to say that every boy and girl up to twenty does know that next Friday is the fourteenth of February, St. Valentine's Day.

Centuries ago the day was a pagan festival and held annually somewhere about the middle of February as a sort of welcome to the spring and the returning sun. The custom of sending tender anonymous little missives to one's true love on that day originated, one hardly knows how or why. Why the good bishops of that name there were two of them—should be associated with Cupid is a mystery. St. Valentine suffered martyrdom because of his displeasing the Emperor by converting hundreds of pagan Romans to Christianity, on Feb. 14th, 270. When he was canonized his name was given to that date, and it was made a festival to offset the festive influence of the Roman Lupercalia, which was held on the 15th of February, in honor of Pan and Juno. One of the features of the celebration was the drawing of the names of young girls from a box by the Roman youths, each of whom considered the girl whose name he had drawn his valentine for the remainder of the year. He presented her with a gift.

1698, he says, "On the eve of St. Valentine's day the young folks in England and Scotland celebrate the festival according to a very ancient custom. An equal number of maids and bachelors get together, each writes his or some feigned name upon separate billets which they roll up and draw by way of lots, the maids taking the men's billets and the men the maids; so that each of the young men lights upon a girl that he calls his valentine and each of the girls upon a young man whom she calls hers. By this means each has two valentines, but the young men sticks faster to the valentine he has drawn than the valentine to whom he has fallen. Fortune having thus divided the Company into so many couples, the valentines give balls and treats to their mistresses, wear their billets several days upon their bosoms or sleeves and this little sport often ends in love."

In the reign of Charles II of England, according to the diary of Samuel Pepys, both married and single entered into the sport. In 1667 Feb. 14th, Pepys made the following entry: "This morning came up to my wife's bedside (I being up dressing myself) little Will Mercer to be her valentine, and brought her name written upon blue paper with gold letters done by himself, very pretty, and we were both well pleased. But I am also this year my wife's valentine, and she having drawn me, which I was not sorry for, it easing me of something more than I must have given to others. It was thought that the drawing of two single people predicted their ultimate marriage. Attention was called to the fact that on this day even the birds choose their mates. The first person one met on one's morning walk was to be one's mate.

In the days of Chesterfield and Macaulay in England gentlemen composed their own valentines, and the beaux of the day vied with one another in this accomplishment. For the illiterate there were the ready-made variety. But the gallant of that day would as soon have thought of sending ready made verses as the gallant of our own would think of wearing ready made clothes.

Most of the old valentine customs have passed away in England. Ireland celebrates the day with a breakdown dance. At the present time in this country the valentine vogue is seeing a revival.

In my own young days some twenty odd years ago the valentines were elaborate affairs, and the swains who admired us at a distance took this occasion to point out their hearts' longings. I have, tied up with blue ribbon, a missive—tender and true—from a "boy" who has long since "crossed the bourne." A pair of gold earrings in a letter on pale blue scalloped edged paper is another evidence of a love lorn swain, whose identity I have never been able to guess. "The earrings," he assured me, "were solid gold," like his love—pure and unadulterated—and would last throughout the ages. Valentine's Day is the one day in the year when the world steps aside to give the right of way to the sighing lover and his sweet innamorata, when he pours out the sentiments that consume his heart.

The windows of the shops that deal in Cupid's wares present their striking wares. There are beautiful frilly, lace-edged affairs with hearts entwined with sweet forget-me-nots, and pierced with Cupid's darts. There are boxes of candy that some swains send and flowers with sentiments all their own. There is the valentine post card which enjoys its full share of popularity and it is within the reach of every one's pocket book. The valentine custom is one that we would hate to see die. The world is grasping and mercenary enough, Lord only knows. Let's preserve as much of its sentiment and romance as possible. Here's to the good St. Valentine, may his memory ever stay fresh and green, and may we never cease to celebrate it in the same old way.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.
