PLAN TO PROMOTE MIXED FARMING IN WEST AS MUNICIPAL VENTURE

Ingenious Suggestion Made by Regina Man, That Meets with Approbation, And if Carried Out Bids Fair to Revolutionize the West.

(Regina Leader.)

Much interest has been excited in Mr. Robert Sinton's scheme for making mixed farming possible, and the scheme deserves careful consideration and frank discussion. For the time at any rate, it holds the field. Farmers have been urged to prosecute mixed farming, it has been pressed upon them from any quarters, but till Mr. Sinton spoke nobody explained the means by which they were to carry out these benevolent behests. The present system is wasteful and extravagant. Admitted; but how can it be made otherwise? A farmer in a wheat-raising district, fully settled up, has no means of feeding during summer cattle and horses to sufficient numbers to consume the straw and what may be called the refuse grain, which are the by-products of the wheat-raising industry. So impossible has it been to utilize straw that the farmer has hardly grasped the idea that it may be of any value whatever. It is not so in the manufacturing industries. There, by-products often make the difference between profit and loss. It is not so in an industry closely connected with farming, the dead meat trade. An abattoir owner in Winnipeg gave evidence recently before the best commission that all or nearly all his profit came from the offal, skins, hoots and horns, and many other illustrations could be found of the value of by-products. The general idea of farmers has not been anxious to go into mixed farming, but it is unfair to them to set that down to their intolerance or stupidity. The farmer is a pretty shrewd business man, and keen to seize an opportunity, but hitherto no opportunity has offered. Even if he realized that he was treating his farm like a mine, taking all out of it and putting nothing back, he had not the means of changing his practice. Mr. Sinton suggests a remedy.

The essential part of the scheme is that an association of farmers living in a wheat-raising district, should obtain a lease of a tract of land in a ranching district, which they would let their herds range during the summer months. These herds would be brought to the farms in winter and fed on straw, which under the present system goes up in smoke, the fodder being supplemented by a grain ration. Here is a few words, we have the essentials of Mr. Sinton's proposals, but towards the working out of the details he has made some interesting suggestions. He takes into account the proposed reorganization of the local improvement districts, which are expected to be of uniform size, nine townships in the form of a square. One of these squares would be of convenient size for a grazing ground. Taking the

The Shadow Of the Tomb

Miss Mabel Bryant Succumbed to an Attack of Pneumonia.

Evening Post of March 14

Many of our townspeople sympathize deeply with Mr. Thos. Bryant, drayman, of the south ward, owing to the recent death of his daughter, Miss Mabel Bryant, of the staff of the T. Eaton Co., Toronto, the result of an attack of pneumonia following la grippe.

Interment took place Monday last at Riverside cemetery from her father's residence on Melbourne-st., and was largely attended. The flowers were exquisite and included a large floral bouquet from the T. Eaton lunch department staff, of which Miss Bryant had long been a popular member.

United in Bonds of Matrimony

Prouse—Routley.

On Wednesday, March 11th, the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Routley, Brougham, was the scene of a happy event, when their eldest daughter, Sarah A., was united in holy matrimony to Mr. Arthur J. Prouse, of Brooklin. The day was most beautiful and the sleighing good, and about 80 guests gathered for the occasion, representing Oshawa, Whitby, Pickering, Orono, Brooklin, Claremont, Blackstock, Tyrone and Pontypool.

The ceremony took place at 3 o'clock in the parlor of the home, and was impressively performed by the Rev. R. A. Delve, of Blackstock, uncle of the bride. The wedding march was efficiently rendered by Miss Millie Hill, of Tyrone. The bride was attired in white silk, trimmed with all-over lace and insertion, and was given away her father. She was attended by her sister, Flora, who wore white embroidered lawn, with trimming of valenciennes lace and insertion. The groom was assisted through the trying ordeal by his brother, Wm. E. Prouse, of Toronto.

After the ceremony, a fine wedding dinner was served, and ample justice was done to it by all. The number and variety of the presents testified to the high esteem in which the young couple were held in the community. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold locket, set with diamonds, and to the bridesmaid an opal brooch. The bride's going-away dress was of blue venetian cloth, with fawn coat and hat to match.

At 5 p.m. the party were driven to Claremont, where, amid showers of rice, etc., they entrained for Peterboro and other points to enjoy their honeymoon. Their future home will be near Glenora.

All join in wishing the young couple a long and prosperous sail on the calm sea of matrimonial bliss.

Will Give Foot More of Water

New Government Dam at Bobcaygeon Is Progressing Rapidly.

Evening Post of March 14

The following to say concerning the progress of work on the new dam there, in the contract for which Mr. F. R. Wilford, of this town, is interested;

The new dam at Little Bob is showing up in formidable proportions, and it is evident that when completed will be a thoroughly good job, cutting off a very heavy leakage, and increasing the head of water probably a foot. On the north side the wing is to run into the bank of rock for a considerable distance, as all shelly rock is being taken out so as to start from solid base rock in which an eighteen inch groove is blasted that will form a key for the cement.

On the south side the wing dam extends a long distance south and their angles to the southwest for a long distance. The broken seamy rock in which the groove is blasted, a cement core will be raised to the upper water level the front of the core being banked with clay and faced with rubble, and the back filled with earth and sodded. Several large leaks have been cut across fully indicating the waste of water that is going on.

The contractors, Messrs. McCoy & Wilford, have had about 30 men at work most of the winter, the number at present being 22. Eight teams have been steadily drawing gravel for the concrete, and an immense mound of the material is on the south side ready for the mixer as soon as the weather becomes suitable. The inspecting of the material by the Government is being done by Mr. J. T. Robinson.

A considerable quantity of dynamite is being used and it is being thawed in a metal box of tubs, each tub being surrounded with hot water. The dynamite can be taken out from either side, and in this way it is warmed without danger of explosion. The work is progressing, and there is every indication that the contractors will complete the undertaking by the fall.

Descendants of Wolfe and Montcalm Will Meet at Historic Quebec

While it has been announced that His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, will be present, and that a fleet from Great Britain, the United States and France, will also take part in the Quebec ter-centenary celebration, the unique scope of the great sham battle has not heretofore been given to the public.

This will be taken part in by 20,000 Canadian troops, and those in charge of the ter-centenary arrangements expect that this mimic battle on the Plains of Abraham will be led in person by a descendant of General Wolfe and by the present Marquis de Montcalm. This, of course, will be the great spectacular feature of the celebration. It is now announced that a considerable number of the British nobility will be present, the names of Lord Dorchester and Lord Lovatt, etc., having been mentioned in this connection.

A Point Overlooked.

Kennedy—Sparling.

A quiet, but very pretty wedding, attended only by the immediate relatives, was solemnized by Rev. L. Phelps, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Sparling, Colborne-st. on Wednesday, March 11. When Miss Myrtle May Sparling was united in marriage to Towery Watson Kennedy, of Emily. The bride, who was attended by Miss Ruby Kennedy, sister of the groom, looked most charming in a very chaste white silk dress and bridal veil. Mr. R. Gray was the groomsmen. The bride was given away by her father and Miss Eva

Japan for Peace Asserts Takahira

Japanese Ambassador Makes Friendly Speech at Banquet in His Honor.

New York, March 12.—With declarations that there are now between the United States and Japan no questions of any magnitude likely to remain unsettled much longer, and that any questions arising in the future will be brought to satisfactory conclusion by the spirit of friendship existing between the two countries, Baron Kogoro, Takahira, Japanese ambassador, called forth prolonged cheers last night at the banquet at the Hotel Astor, tendered in his honor by the Japan Society of New York.

Ambassador Takahira's address was notable from the fact that it touched upon Japan's enlarged influence on a small portion of the Asiatic continent to her treaty with Great Britain, "our honored ally," which was concluded purely and simply to secure the peace and therefore the prosperity of the Far East, and to the question of immigration regarding which he stated that "while we have to maintain our rights in all respects, there are now between the United States and Japan no questions of any magnitude likely to remain unsettled much longer."

Pleasant Surprise For New Citizens

Mr. and Mrs. Graham, of Fleetwood, Given Silver Service.

Evening Post of March 13

Last evening the members of the Fleetwood Methodist choir drove in to town and sprang a pleasant surprise on Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Graham (nee Mabel Bates), late of that village, who until recently were faithful and valued members of said choir, but lately decided to launch out on life's voyage together, and have made Lindsay their home for the future.

The choir took this occasion to show a proof of the esteem in which they held Mr. and Mrs. Graham, and their regret at their departure, by presenting them with a nicely-worked address and beautiful solid silver tea service.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham were taken completely by surprise, but it is needless to say, appreciated the good feeling felt towards them and enjoyed the company of their old friends again during a pleasant evening in their new home.
