NATURE WILL CURE YOU Of Kidney Disease, Aided by Father Morriscy's No. 7.

Kidney trouble is one of the most distressing ailments of mankind, and leads to backache and rheumatism. This is because of the importance of the work done by the kidneys,-work which must proceed normally to insure good health A very large proportion of civilized people have some form of kidney trouble, sometimes without knowing that their malady is of that nature. Many obscure pains can often be traced to diseased These organs are the filters of the body Their function is to strain out of the blood and eliminate through the bladder the worn out tissue and other impurities gathered by the blood in its course.

When the kidneys become congested and sluggish, these impurities, including the irritating and poisonous uric acid, are not entirely removed from the blood. The result is that the uric acid is deposited in the joints and tissues, causing the agonies of rheumatism and frequently affecting the liver and other organs.

Father Morriscy, the famous priestphysician of Bartibogue, N.B., after much research compounded a remedy which worked hand in hand with Nature. His doctrine, justified by thousands of cures, was that the need is not a patchwork relief, but a treatment that will enable the forces of Nature, working through the kidneys, to accomplish their intend-

THAT AMENDMENT TO LIQUOR ACT

Owen Sound, March 10 .- The liquor interests of Owen Sound have received a staggering blow in the announcement that a section has been included in the amendment to the Liquor Li cense Act by which Owen Sound and other municipalities which have carried local option under the straight majority vote before the three-fifths vote was established, will have to take a three-fifths vote in order to repeal the measure.

The hotel people contemplated putting on a repeal campaign for the coming January election, but this amendment will make their case a hopeless one. It will also have its effect in securing the stability of the measure in municipalities such Owen Sound, where since the by-law has been in force there has been a most persistent violation of the by-

One can scarcely realize the irritation that such explanations naturally cause rural school trustees, who are working overtime endeavoring to get qualified teachers. I fancy I see the honorable member for West Hastings giving this explanation, particularly to the trustees of a section where the assessment is over that this province can no longer, $40,000, and where though they ad- from either an educational or ethical still spend money in advertising a students, whom chill penury drive second time before the inspector is, from our public schools to the work allowed, by a superlatively foolish regulation of the Department, to has no obligation whatever and owes labor of all kinds, next, we are a nomadic race, and then the honorable member for West Hastings, not seemhas given any sane explanation of the difficulty, consoles the trustees in the rural section with the information that there is a great surplus of teachers over in England, and that we may import them. This, Sir, is comforting advice to parents, especially of the poorer class, whose sons and daughters are practically debarred from taking up the teaching profession owing to the centralization policy of the Government and the wiping out of our model schools. say, Sir, to debar our own young men and women from entering the teaching profession, and then to suggest to the trustees that they import teachers from England, is adding insult to injury; and I repeat were it not for the serious condition of affairs such explanations would be very interesting burlesque.

Then, Sir, there is that guileless youth, that extremely innocent young man, the honorable member for South Renfrew, who comes forward with an explanation. How extremely guileless he is! "I will show the Honorable Leader of the Opposition," says he, "what is the cause of the scarcity of teachers in the rural districts." and holding up in his hand a report of a speech by the President of Toronto University, which apparently says that 25 per cent. of the university graduates go west, he gives this as a complete explanation for the scarcity of teachers in the townships. How innocent, how extremely innoceme the nonorable member is! He is under the impression that young men and women immediately upon being graduated from Toronto University go forth into the townships to teach in our rural schools. He is has turned things upside down, and he will have university graduates go out to the townships to teach public schools, and doubtless he will have our model and normal trained teachers go and lecture in the university. On second thought, however, I am inclined to think the honorable gentleman is trying to qualify for a position in the Education Department. and is endeavoring to display his fitness for such a place by seeking to show that he knows absolutely nothing about educational affairs. He is shrewd enough, Sir, to know that if he is to be in line, an absolute condition precedent to his receiving an appointment is, that he should show utter ignorance of educational affairs generally, and particularly of any question bearing upon the welfare of our rural schools. Technical Education.

Many a time and oft have I discussed this question on the floor of this House and elsewhere. For reasons already stated I do not purpose to occupy the attention of the House but for a moment on this question. On the main merits of the case there can be no justification whatever for this Government's delay in adopting a full and sweeping system of technical and industrial education, that will cover at least all manufacturing centres in this province. Nothing Sir, would add more to the success of this province as a manufacturing centre than to have well trained, skilled mechanics in all our workshops. this province spends on an average per annum $1.38 on every public and seprente school pupil. $4.66 on every Northern Ontario Advocated --- high school and collegiate institute student, $112 on every model and Industrial Education -- Scarcity normal student, $126 on every university student. Sir, I do not complain of these expenditures; my voice, I hope, will never be raised against this or any other Government making as liberal a grant as possible for education generally; but what, Sir, is this province doing, or what has it ever done for the large class of young people who are forced to leave , school at an early age, say from thirteen to fifteen years? Can the province afford any longer to take the position that it owes them no duty. and has no responsibility whatever with reference to them? This question has both a financial and an etnical side. Once again I sav. Sir, shop and such like places, that grant a permit to any person to teach | them nothing whatever. All along the line substantial aid is given to First then, there is a scarcity of the high school student and university student, and none to the lad whose parents possibly cannot afford to send him to school-even to the ing to have satisfied himself that he high school stage. In other words we help the sons of the wealthier and decline to give any assistance what ever to the poorer lad. Germany perhaps, furnishes an lustration of the splendid result arising from a well considered and fully developed technical and industrial system of education. Here, our continuation classes are conducted purely along the old scholastic lines there, the continuation class is practically an industrial continuation class. Beginning with the continuation class, the state never loses sight of the practical side of life. The question of technical and industrial education is so closely allied with that of trade and commerce that one can readily understand why the empire as a whole pays so much attention to this matter.

In Germany the schools are, roughly speaking, supported as follows: 23 per cent. of the cost is paid by tuition fees; 49 per cent. by grants and donations by municipalities, employers of labor, and from other philanthropic sources; while the empire as a whole contributes about 28 per cent.. It is a matter of common knowledge that in every village, every town and city. in this province a larger number o the more ambitious of our young men and women have for years been endeavoring to get some general knowl edge of the scientific principles that underlie their life vocations through schools of correspondence. These young men and women have been forced to leave our public and separate schools at an early age, and having commenced life's battle, realize the necessity for a better equipment and the result is that they sign contracts with these outside schools evidently trying to get in line with and in nine cases out of ten they find the Premier's explanation, that he it practically impossible by means of such correspondence schools to get any great benefit, and they drop the course and pay their large fees with very unsubstantial returns. It has been stated that from the Province of Ontario in this way there is sent out every year approximately $1,000,000 to these correspondence schools, situated south of the line. If this estimate is at all approximately true, and I think it is, and it is supported by teachers interested in industrial training, it shows an absolute demand on the part of these young men and women for technical industrial training. Assuming, Sir, for the sake of argument, that the amount of money thus sent out annually is even only $500,000, and placing the support of the industrial schools upon the same basis as now exists in Germany. namely, that the students should pay 23 per cent. it will be readily seen that there is now going forth from the provinces an amount of money that will justify the annual expenditure in all of $2,000,000. The tremendous amount of money practically wasted by these ambitious young men and women all over the province is another strong argument in favor of immediate action on the part of this Government. There should have been no delay. We, on this side of the House contended last year that this Government should have pointed a commission composed competent educationists, to not only ascertain the facts within the province, but also to by way of inter-> such like bodies, to have conducted a spoken. regular educational propaganda in favor of a general system of industrial education.

Honorable gentlemen speak of the wonderful saving to the people of the province in connection with school books. The honorable member for Monck says that during the currency of the agreement the people of this province will save $360,000; the honputs it at $750,000; the honorable member for West Toronto raises the limit, and makes it a clear million. How beautifully, and indefinitely it grows with each calculation! Not town, and every other city in the Province of Ontario, every one knows what a tremendous advantage has Eaton Company is drawn so as to I am quite certain that the older

Eaton Co., Limited, as the retail dealer can. What is the result of such an agreement, and what else could be the result? None other than to induce people all over the Province of Ontario to write direct to this large departmental store for their books. Then, Sir, for example the books go back wrapped in a "bargain day" advertisement of, say, millinery, readymade clothing, or whatever the line may be, with the result that the orders pour in through the mail order department for purchases along these lines, and thus the whole retail trade of the province is hit by this cunningly devised agreement. The agreement places every hearthstone in the whole province directly tributary to the Eaton departmental store, and invites everybody in the province to send in orders by mail for all classes

Then.Sir.as to the cost of the Road ers: the publisher is furnished with the copyright; the province pays a committee to prepare the manuscript and make the selections for the Readers; all plates and electros are paid for by the province; the type is actually set up, and then all this is handed over to the Eaton Company, and they are asked to run the Readers off. And the people are deceived and humbugged with the statement understanding the Honorable that 49c. is the whole cost of the Provincial Treasurer's view point; in Readers.

Now, Sir, I take up the question, which the Honorable the Provincial into this debate, technically justify the discussion of reciprocity by this House on the ground that it affects education, and all the laws and reguon the order paper at Ottawa a resoschools or our normal schools, or some other such question. I fancy, Sir, if some Liberal member at Otta wa, from Ontario, were to attempt to of the treasury benches here, but the member for West Toronto would join them in a pretty violent de nunciation of any such Ottawa politician, and would raise a tremendous cry about the fact that the provincial field was being invaded. I regret, Sir, the growing tendency in this House among Conservatives in their desire to have a fling at the Government at Ottawa. What must the necessary result of such a practice be, if Conservatives of this House unnecessarily go out of their way to find fault with the Liberals at Ottawa, and similarly the Liberals here were to do the same with reference to Conservative members at Ottawa? The necessary result will be to lower the tone of debate in this House, and to lower the dignity and standing of this Legislature. Anyone can readily see that the public under such circumstances would be justified in concluding, and could come to no other conclusion, than that the members of this Legislature were mere henchmen or shouters for the politicians at Ottawa, and thus this Legislature would hold, in public opinion, a decidedly views, Sir, of the rights and duties of a Provincial Legislature. We act, Bir, by the same sovereign right that politicians at Ottawa do; we derive our powers and responsibilities from the same source, and we ought not in any way to lower or degrade our position. My position is this, Sir, that while every member of this House as a citizen of this Dominion has an absolute right to discuss any question that affects the Dominion, it is doubtful procedure for us, I care not what the procedent may be, as a Legislature to deal with the question of Trade and Commerce, which by the British North America Act is assigned to the Dominion Parliament. However, Sir, leaving this aspect of the question aside; as a matter of pure party politics, I welcome the discussion of this subject upon the floor of this House, though

The honorable gentleman, in the extreme position he has taken, turns down the whole record of the Conservative party on the question of trade relations. Let me, Sir, briefly summarize the attempts made to secure fairer trade relations with the Union to the South of us. The treaty was abrogated in 1866. Confederation was consummated in 1867. In 1869 Sir John Rose, who was then Finance Minister, was sent to Washington by the Conservative Government, and with Sir E. Thornton, the British Ambassador, made an ineffectual attempt to obtain a renewal of the Reciprocity Treaty. In 1871, the late Sir John A. Macdonald and his British colleagues who negotiated the Washington treaty, endeavored to secure a renewal of the Reciprocity Treaty, but ineffectually. In 1872, the United States National Board of Trade petitioned Congress for renewal of reciprocity, and the inferior position. I have no such then Conservative Government at Ottawa declared its readiness to accept the same. In 1874, the Hon. George Brown was sent by the then Liberal Government to Washington, and in company with Sir E. Thornton, British Ambassador, actually secured an agreement to a treaty, which was not, however, subsequently ratified by the United States Senate. In 1879, the Customs Tariff prepared by the then Conservative Government at Ottawa inaugurating the National Policy made a standing offer for Free Trade or reduced rates on a long list of United States products if the United States would act similarly with reference to Canadian products. The Hon. Mr. Tilley, Minister of Finance, on March 14th, 1879 (see Hansard | 1879, vol. 1, p. 415) refers to "a resolution that will be laid on the table containing a proposition to this effect that as to articles named which are I doubt the wisdom of it. I am afraid, Sir, that the Honorable the Provincial Treasurer has given his party a load that they will never attempt to lift when he says, that not only would reciprocity, if adopted, not be a good thing, but when he goes out of his way at great length to quote figures and argue that the Reciprocity Treaty of 1854 to 1866 was very injurious to the old provinces of Canada.
