SLEIGHING PARTY HAD ITS TROUBLES HORSES AND SLEIGH PARTED COMPANY

It is not every sleighing party that can have an exciting adventure in these modern matter of fact times, but here is about what happened the other evening to a load of young people who visited a nearby village.

After a very pleasant ride out and a splendid time at the village, the party boarded the sleigh for the return trip in excellent spirits. Blithely they drove on, until suddenly the speed slackened, there was a shout from the driver, and the horses dashed away into the darkness, leaving the conveyance becalmed. At once there was a howl of dismay, and a couple of the young men threw aside their coats and pursued the flying steeds, urged on by their rising wrath at the prospects of a long walk in the snow in search of new motive power. When the excitement had subsided to a degree, and the cooler ones were calculating the great distance that surely must be covered before the horses could be caught, judging from their whirlwind start, one of the party happened to look down upon the road beside the sleigh. Ghost of Banquo, could it be true? With a gasp at what was seen, the attention of others was drawn to the object. There in a crumpled attitude appeared the outlines of a human being. Had the driver been kicked by the horses? No, it was his coat, laid aside to enhance his speed.

Far down the road appeared a lantern, and in a few minutes the team once more hove in sight, in charge of the driver and escorted by the duet of scouts aforesaid. It seems the beasts had quarrelled over the proper side on which to pass a telegraph pole and had become entangled.

The cause of the accident was the breaking of the clevis bolt, whatever that is, so an ingenious bystander robbed a useless old clothes wringer of its crank and made it do the trick. As Shakespeare says, "Bother the necessity for invention."

The timely appearance of the horses and the continuance of the journey was a relief, still there wasn't one of the party who didn't like the adventure.

Visited the Camps

Mr. John Carew accompanied with some Lindsay friends and Mr. A. E. Bottum, made a flying visit to his Camps on Wednesday. They went to Harvey, Cavendish and Deer Bay covering fully sixty miles, and found that the camps were making satisfactory progress. Immense dumps of timber have been heaped up, and much of it is remarkably good stuff. —Bobcaygeon Independent.

NEGLECTED CEMETERIES IN RURAL ONTARIO

One of the saddest sights in rural Ontario, says the Ridgetown Dominion, is in the neglected cemeteries to be found here and there along the roadside.

It does sadden one to see, amid a rank weed growth, the overturned tombstones which in many cases mark the last resting place of those who assisted in laying the foundations of a nation. But this is one of the natural results of people not being rooted to the soil. Canada was peopled by men in whom the spirit of adventure and the desire to explore new places was strongly developed. That spirit, and that desire, were transmitted to the offspring of the pioneers, and as a consequence, there has been a steady movement westward ever since the work of colonization began. Sons of those who first settled in Markham and Scarborough afterwards blazed the trail of civilization through the "Queen's Bush" in Middlesex and Huron. The children of those who founded the homes of Wellington moved on into Bruce and Grey, and from Grey and Bruce the tide has flowed on over the Great Lakes to Manitoba, to Saskatchewan and to Alberta. The consequence is that many of the older cemeteries in Ontario are wholly tenanted by those whose descendants are far away. A number of cases there are in which none of those now living in a neighborhood can tell the name of a single occupant of lonely hillside burial grounds, to which bodies are no longer being carried, where some of the first of the country's dead found a resting place. Even in the case of cemeteries still in use, there are many instances in which a majority of the graves were prepared by families which have not a single representative now living in the neighborhood. Under such circumstances a measure of neglect is inevitable even in cemeteries in which interments are still being made. To neglect is unavoidable in the case of the older cemeteries in which additional burials are no longer taking place.

Some people shudder at cremation, but cremation has the great advantage of being a sanitary method of disposing of the dead, and it would also remove the reproach which a neglected cemetery conveys.—Farmers' Sun.

RHEUMATISM KEPT HIM IN BED

Suffered Torments Until "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him

McMILLAN'S CORNER, ONT., SEPT. 30th, 1910
"Your remedy, 'Fruit-a-tives' is a perfect panacea for Rheumatism. For years, I suffered distressing pain from Sciatica or Spinal Rheumatism, being laid up several times a year for days at a time. I went to different doctors who told me there was no use doing anything—it would pass away. They gave me mustard plasters and other remedies that did no good. Plasters took no effect on me—except to blister me and make raw spots. I took many advertised remedies without benefit, but fortunately, about two years ago, I got 'Fruit-a-tives' and they cured me.
Since then, I take 'Fruit-a-tives' occasionally and keep free of pain. I am satisfied 'Fruit-a-tives' cured me of Rheumatism and they will cure anyone who takes them as directed. If this letter would be of value to you, publish it."
JOHN B. McDONALD.
Indeed, this letter is of value to us and to the thousands of sufferers from Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago and Neuralgia. It points the way to a certain cure. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50 trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"FRECKLES"

Blood that tells and love that makes the world go round are two great forces which brook no gainsaying, and to witness their triumph is the delight in store for the reader of "Freckles."

With red hair, freckled face, one hand gone, and his parentage a blank, "Freckles" strays into an Indiana lumber camp in search of work. McLean, the boss, befriends the nameless waif and stations him as guard of the valuable "Lumberlost" timber limit. Here, sheltered by Duncan, the head teamster, and his wife, he becomes hardened to his work, and a friend of all the wild life about him.

Hearing of Freckles' discoveries among the feathered folk of the Lumberlost, the "Bird Woman" a camera student, comes to the neighborhood, bringing with her a beautiful young girl. The latter, on her first meeting with Freckles, is christened "The Angel," and a strong attachment grows up between the two.

After various struggles with the unprincipled timber thieves, Black Jack and Wessner—struggles in which the Bird Woman and the Angel come to Freckles' rescue, and right finally prevails—the lumbermen come to open up the timber limit and his duties are over.

Soon afterwards he is terribly injured in snatching the Angel from the path of a falling forest giant. He is hurried to Chicago. Surgeons do their utmost, but despair of saving him unless he be given some hope in life. He receives this stimulus in the avowal of the Angel's love and the further discovery of his own honorable parentage and relationship to Lord O'More. Life to Freckles has now become unalloyed bliss and nothing but rosy vistas unfold themselves before him.

NEW CUNARDER IS A MONSTER

Glasgow, March 6.—During the past few months the work of building the new Cunarder liner Aquitania has proceeded so rapidly that her builders, the firm of John Brown & Co., of Clydebank, expect to have her ready for launching in about four weeks. Owing to the extraordinary size of the vessel the Clyde river is being deepened and widened opposite the shipyard, in anticipation of the launching.

It is many years ago since there was the same amount of interest attached to the building of a new liner for transatlantic service as is shown in the Aquitania. This interest is due almost wholly to the extreme size of the vessel. In her present condition on the slips at Clydebank she presents a wonderful spectacle, appearing something like an eleven-story skyscraper in course of construction.

The Aquitania will have a gross tonnage of 50,000 tons, or 5,000 tons greater than the Olympic, the largest ship now afloat. The Aquitania and the Hamburg-American liner Imperator, now building at Stettin, will have the same gross tonnage, though in other measurements the Cunarder will eclipse the German vessel. The dimensions of the Aquitania are 855 feet length and 95 feet beam, while those of the Imperator are 710 feet length and 90 feet beam.

Ever since the contract for the Aquitania was awarded to the Clydebank builders in December, 1910, it has been generally known that the new vessel was to be the largest ever built; but it has not been generally realized how much larger the ship was to be than any of the huge liners which have excited wonder in the past by their great proportions. As already stated the new vessel will have a much greater tonnage than the White Star liners Olympic, and her sister ship, the ill-fated Titanic. Those record breakers of but a few first class staterooms are to be 50 per cent. larger than the customary size.

With so much space available features are possible that have never before been introduced. There will be a choice of dining rooms, a restaurant, grill, tea room, tea garden, rathskeller, palm gardens, women's salons in different decorative periods, swimming pool, Turkish baths, gymnasium and tennis courts. An entirely new feature will be a completely equipped theatre. It is said that a theatrical company with a repertoire of plays will be provided for the vessel by a New York manager.

The Aquitania will be as complete in her safety devices as in her luxurious equipment. The number of her lifeboats and rafts will meet all the requirements of the new regulations of the British board of trade, while the number of her watertight compartments will be greater than those of any vessel afloat. An automatic device on the bridge will control the great steel doors separating the compartments, making it possible for a single hand to close them all in case of danger. Furthermore, the system will include an electrical indicator by which the officer on the bridge cannot fail to detect any defect in the working of the safety devices. Still another set of safety devices will guard against fire in every part of the ship. In addition, the vessel will be equipped with a powerful wireless system which will enable her to keep in constant communication with the land during the entire passage across the Atlantic.

The following address was read by Mr. Angus Gillies.

Mrs. W. J. Owens.

Our Very Dear Friend,—We feel that we would not be doing ourselves credit if we allowed one so universally esteemed as yourself to go from our midst without telling you how much we appreciate you and your unselfish and unstinted service of the Master during your life in our community.

Wherever you have rendered assistance in the Epworth League, in missionary work, and especially in the choir, your services have been most helpful and greatly appreciated. As organizer you have been both faithful and eminently successful. Both your worth and your work has given you a permanent place in our high regard and won our lasting gratitude.

While deploring our loss in your removal from our choir, and neighborhood, we are glad that one so worthy as we know your esteemed husband to be has won you for his bride. We are confident that you will ever hold his heart and grace his home, and earnestly pray that God's best earthly and heavenly gifts may crown your married life.

While we expect still to number you among us, though with an added name, and seen perhaps less frequently, we take this opportunity of presenting you with this cabinet of silver as a token of our love and good wishes. Signed on behalf of Eden trustees, choir and congregation, Wm. Manning, A. E. Tamlin, R. W. Cullis, A. Gillies.

Mrs. Moynes, though completely taken by surprise, spoke very briefly, expressing her appreciation for the handsome gift. Speeches were also made by Rev. Mr. Howard, the groom and others, after which music and lunch finished

COUNTY POLICE COURT CASE DISMISSED HERBERT PERRIN MAKES STATEMENT

In connection with the county police court case which was dismissed this morning, in which Herbert Perrin, of the township of Fenelon, was falsely charged with fraudulently detaining a young girl from Peterboro, that gentleman made the following statement of the facts to the Post today.

It has been proven that said girl came to the home of Mr. Perrin on the date in question without his knowledge and was found unwell as a result of certain treatment alleged to have been meted out to her. Mrs. Perrin took good care of her, and her father coming at noon, Monday, demanded that she go home with him that night. The daughter absolutely refused to go herself without any persuasion on the part of any one. The father consented before he left to engage a room in the Y. W. C. A. at Peterboro and thus protect his daughter from any ill treatment, assuring Mr. and Mrs. Perrin that he knew his daughter would be well taken care of and looked after, and also with the understanding that she would write if she was well enough. She would remain there until she had a rest.

Mr. Perrin says he was this morning prepared, with witnesses to prove his innocence of the charge preferred against him, but County Police Magistrate Moore decided that there was no case. Mr. and Mrs. Perrin were simply permitting the girl to partake of the hospitality and privileges of their home.

DISASTROUS FIRE VISITS SUNDERLAND BRICK BLOCK ENTIRELY DESTROYED

(Special to The Post.) Sunderland, March 7.—The town of Sunderland was visited by a disastrous fire, which broke out about midnight Wednesday. The brick block owned by T. Pangman, and occupied by Aziz Bros., general merchants, and W. Miller, grocer, was entirely destroyed. Very little of the stock was saved. The family upstairs was reached with great difficulty, being taken to safety through the windows. The block at the north, including several stores and postoffice, narrowly escaped. To the south the Presbyterian church was on fire several times, but by the heroic efforts of the townsmen this landmark was saved, though damaged in roof and tower. Zero weather and a strong wind made the danger serious. The loss will be about $25,000, with some insurance.

STOPPED CURLING TO MARRY COUPLE

Bobcaygeon Independent.—Mr. Delbert Junkin who was two years at the Star Cheese Factory South Verulam, is engaged for the Cheese Factory during the season. Mr. Junkin was in Lindsay on Wednesday and together with Miss Elizabeth Freeman, daughter of Hamlet Freeman of Bobcaygeon they visited the Rev. Mr. Shorey who is an expert curler. Mr. Shorey is almost as expert as a brother minister who is a great curler. He was at the rink in a game when he was informed by phone that he was wanted at home. Getting some one to take his place in the game, he hurried home. He was back to the curling in about fifteen minutes, having done up a life job for a couple in right good style and sent them off rejoicing.

Honor held that he had no jurisdiction in the cases of votes attacked, except those of non-residents. Of these there were three, two being dismissed and one allowed. In one instance a woman was said to have voted twice, having property in two wards, but the judge ruled that he had no jurisdiction, as her name was on the list in both places. It was also held that the vote illegally cast could not be deducted from either side. The vote stood 256 for and 164 against, leaving ten more than the necessary three-fifths. Had there been ten illegal votes, his Honor said, he would have declared no valid election, but as there was but one vote the bylaw was declared duly carried.

Mr. A. Weir, of Sarnia appeared for the applicants for the recount, Mr. Porter for the town, and Messrs. H. E. Irwin, K. C., Toronto, and Mr. Le Seuer, Sarnia, for the supporters of the bylaw. On Friday next Judge MacWatt will hold another sitting here to investigate a charge made by the Town Council that votes cast on the local option bylaw were tampered with after they had been counted on election day, and before the recount took place on January 31st.
