Exciting Escape Near Long Cut Man on His Way to Lindsay Breaks Through Treacherous Ice.

Evening Post of March 31.
What came very nearly being a fatal accident occurred the other day to two young men who were coming up from a point on Sturgeon Lake to town. They were Messrs. Thom Flynn and Fenelon and Geo. Casely. Both are well known around Lindsay.

As they were going along the ice in the bay, when just about opposite the site of O'Leary's bathhouse, the treacherous staff gave way and precipitated Mr. Casely into the cold water. Luckily, he was carrying a long pole for some purpose or other, and this caught across the hole and enabled him to keep from going altogether under the ice.

His partner, Mr. Flynn, ran and got another pole, and by the united fort of the two men he was enabled to get to safety. While it was a very close call, the victim suffered no after effects except a good wetting.

"Liquid Assets."

The recent financial panic in the United States, and the tightness of money in Canada, have brought out some very important information. At one time only shrewd bankers understood the meaning of "Liquid Assets." To-day, every business man knows, or should know, what is meant by it. When trading is optimistic, any piece of paper with "I Promise to Pay" written on it is considered a fair exchange for commodities, any hole in the ground becomes a gold mine; farms are laid out in town lots; cloth is churned into garments and these find ready buyers who do not stop to investigate their intrinsic value. The buyers of all these odd things are the possible profits. But one day the awakening comes, and why? Confidence abated—gold. The mine must show a pay streak. The town must have a reality. The clothing in the store must have value intrinsic value. Canadian bankers having saved the situation by having legal tender on hand. All reliable cloths use the same precaution by having in stock "liquid assets"—that is, a known and reliable make of clothing. At a time when public confidence is shaken, indifferent merchandise (bought because it looked as well as currency, or because the maker marked it high in price and sold it at 20 per cent. discount) will not be accepted by the public for legal tender. It is at such times that the prestige of reliable goods gets full justice. The buying public will not accept their legal tender clothing that somebody chooses to say is worth so much. They will have nothing but what they know to be a standard of intrinsic value. That is "liquid assets" in a clothing store.

COMMUNICATIONS THE GOOD ROADS QUESTION.

(To the Editor of The Post)

Sir,—That was a well-timed and instructive address that the Board of Trade were the means of getting for us last week, and it is sincerely to be hoped, that it will not be void of effect. I listened to it with great interest, as did everyone who was privileged to be present. Mr. Campbell evidently knows what is good for both towns and country, in the shape of roads, and surely the seed sown that night, some of it at least, fell in good ground. As I understood him to say, we need a road with a cement bottom, and a vitrified brick top or a rough cement top, the cost of which for a 24-ft. roadway, would be about $5.50 per linear foot. I don't think anyone but will admit that Lindsay needs to start at these sort of roads, and that soon. The question is, how is it going to be financed, and who is going to undertake the job. Answering the latter query first, it appears to me, that some one citizen will have to take that question up, and make it the question of questions with him, in fact have "good roads" on the brain to such an extent that he will get the other members of Council to have it likewise, or give in to him to keep him quiet until the first start is made. I feel satisfied that once a start is made there will be no let-up until practically the whole town is paved.

Having found some man, the next query is, how are we going to finance it? Mr. Campbell thought the best way would be to do a stretch of one or two streets, and issue debentures, and falling that, do a block a year and pay for it out of current taxes. As a taxpayer, I would favor the latter plan. We could, with a mill, do about 600 feet. Mr. Campbell's suggestion that we start at the G. T. R. station is a good one. It is a good starting point, and in three years we would be up to Kent-st. at that time the people would see the advantage of having such roads, and would be anxious to have them go on at a faster rate—either a two or a three mile rate, on some sort of local improvement rate. To begin with, I would be in favor of doing Williams-st. out of the general taxes, because I feel satisfied that the value of the property would increase at least 50 per cent. by the time Kent-st. was reached, and if they did not pay local taxes, their general tax would increase in proportion to the assessment increased. This year's Council was not elected on this question, although that would not necessarily hinder them from taking it up, but if they did not take it up, they could prepare the way, by seeing that all services for water and drainage, were put in this year, so that the ground would be in proper shape to begin next year.

Dr. Vrooman asked a very pertinent question the other night, about digging up the roads. If we started on the plan, all sewers and pipes should be run along the boulevard section, so that the permanent road-way, would be disturbed as little as possible. Another point, when we started, it should be with the idea of doing every main thoroughfare, and every cent of useless expenditure on other roads should be cut out, and the money spent where it would do most good—not for votes, but for roads. Hoping our citizens will not let the matter drop, and for a motto would subscribe myself, EXCELSIOR.

The Curlers of Fenelon Falls Made Merry at Annual Banquet—Plans for the Future.

The local curlers wound up the best season in the history of their club with a grand banquet at the McArthur house on Monday evening, which was attended by nearly every member of the club. The proceedings commenced at about nine o'clock, when the president, Mr. J. L. Arnold, took the seat of honor, and the assembly proceeded to dispose of one of the best bills-of-fare that has been provided in the village for a long time. After the various good things had been safely stowed away, a couple of hours were very enjoyably spent in discussing the events of the past season and prospects for the future. The Bobcaygeon-Stanton cup was formally presented, and Mr. Stanton's substantial interest in the promotion of the game by the donation of the cup was highly commended, as was also that of Mr. Brandon in donating a cup for the local rink competition, and this cup was presented to Mr. W. H. Robson, the skip of the winning rink.

Though the gathering was of purely social nature, the discussion of some of the games played naturally led to mention of the trouble caused each winter by the heaving of the rink bottom, and the consequent impossibility of maintaining a level sheet of ice. Two remedies were suggested, one of which was to move the rink to some location where a solid bottom could be secured, and the other, which appears more feasible, was to put a board floor in the rink where it now stands. The members were unanimous in the opinion that something would have to be done in the matter before next winter, and a committee was appointed to consult with the shareholders and report at a meeting on April 3rd.

Scientific Information For the Consumer

Frequently, many persons are presented with little problems, the elucidation of which would be of great value to, and which we believe, will be greatly appreciated by the many purchasers of various kinds of commodities required as medicines for stock as well as human beings. The most conspicuous of which, in a general way, and one often puzzling to the purchasing public, is why should there be a difference in the price of many commonly used drugs, also why it is that there is so noticeable a difference in the action of these, (presumably the same) drugs.

We will occasionally devote our space to the giving of such information, thereby placing the unsuspecting buyer in a position to intelligently purchase pure drugs and at prices that are consistent with prime quality.

United in Bonds of Matrimony

Griffis-Annis.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, March 25th, at the Baptist parsonage, when John R. Griffis, of the C. P. R. survey, Parry Sound, and Miss Ida Annis were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. R. Welch. The bride was assisted by her cousin, Miss Clara English, while Mr. Phil Griffis supported the groom. After the ceremony a dainty supper was served at the home of the groups' parents. Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present. They left on the G. T. R. train to visit friends in Toronto and Orillia, after which they will proceed to their future home in Parry Sound. The presents to the bride were numerous. Noticeable among them was an oak rocker from the Baptist Sunday school, in which the bride was a teacher.

Woodman's Roll Stolen by Mate

Thief Left Camp—Sighted Near Gellert He Took to the Woods.

Evening Post of March 26
All the money in existence, it seems, is not in Lindsay. Last night a workman in Hodgson's camp, about five miles this side of Haliburton, had about $110 saved up from his wages. A fellow laborer learned of the large sum he had kept, and set out to make the work his own. He obtained possession of it in some way, and immediately left the camp and made tracks for civilization, where he could enjoy his spoil.

In the meantime the owner discovered his loss and set about to regain his savings. It was known that the culprit had headed down the railroad in the direction of Fenelon Falls and Lindsay, so a hunter took the down train this morning in the hope of overtaking their man. Near Gellert he was sighted, and the pursuers chased him into the woods. When the train pulled out he was still at large, though the others were hard on his tracks.

At Fenelon Falls Constable Jones was at the station to intercept the man, but of course he was not on the train.

Will Postpone Opening Until 17th.

Messrs. Lang and Maher, the new clothing firm who were announced to open on the 4th of April, find the improvements and repairs required to their new premises are more extensive than anticipated, and they will not be able to be in shape before the 17th inst., when they will have have things in proper shape.

What to Do to Stop Payment of Cheque

(Special to The Star)
Kingston, March 27.—A case of much interest to bankers and their customers was tried by Judge Madden at the Division Court. A customer sued his banker for negligence in paying a check for $50, the payment of which he claims was ordered stopped before the cheque had been cashed. The judge in a written judgment finds on the question of fact that the notice was not proved to be in time. He also finds as a matter of law in the case that such a notice to be effectual should be given to the manager of the bank, and in writing. In the case verbal notice was given by the customer to the ledgerkeeper, and was entered by him in the customer's account.

Railway Notes.

A party of nine surveyors are in town, employed in taking levels on the G. T. R. lines, preliminary to straightening it and lessening the grade, and probably laying a double track. The survey commenced at Midland, and is now within three miles of Orillia.

The new issue of $5,000,000 of 4 per cent. guaranteed stock of the Grand Trunk railway has been floated in London at 92 1/2 and at this figure was over-subscribed for the amount of $500,000. It will be net about 4 1/2 per cent. The proceeds will be devoted to double trackings, improvements of rolling stock, betterments, etc.

The Barrie Gazette says: "The two next G. T. R. officials to retire, according to railway rumors, are Superintendent Tiffin, of the Northern division and Conductor Charles Mitchell of the Midland division. Both have served the company for over 40 years. Conductor Mitchell is secretary of the Order of Railway Conductors. They retire under the new pension law."

An order has been issued by Mr. D. McNicol, vice-president of the C. P. R., calling the attention of trainmen to the instructions regarding swearing and the use of obscene language on trains. An anti-swearing campaign was started by Mr. George Wright, of Halifax, who wrote both to Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and the Minister of Railways, suggesting that notices be placed on the cars of the C. P. R. and I. C. R., forbidding the use of language, whose unwholesomeness is likely to create a feeling of disgust among persons who are at all susceptible as to the proprieties of speech. Mr. McNicol, in reply to this, says that employees of the C. P. R. are not only instructed to refrain from swearing or using obscene language, but had been ordered to see that language of an offensive or annoying character is not used by passengers.

Easter Eggs Cheaper This Year.

The egg market has been suffering a steady slump during the past few weeks. The heavy importations of American new laid eggs caused a break in the high prices ruling some time ago. Since then there has been a gradual decline until lately the market has tumbled several of several cents. This has been due in a great measure to the unusually heavy receipts lately of Canadian eggs. Shipments of American eggs are now practically nil. Advice from different sections of the country state that the hens are even laying more freely and the trade are looking forward to very liberal supplies. In view of the present and anticipated heavy offerings, it is a pretty safe forecast that Easter eggs will be within the reach of everyone. The consumptive demand cannot cope with the present and lower prices are assured.

Annent the egg situation, recent despatches from American points declare that banks will not on egg certificates ten cents a dozen on egg certificates. As high as fifteen cents has been obtained before. This action on the part of the bank will check speculative buying and tend to depress prices. Dealers here state that the price of eggs will be much lower throughout the present year.

A Possible Reason.

Yes, my son, mushrooms nearly always grow in wet places. Son—Is that why they are so like umbrellas?
