RUSSIA CRUELLY EXPELLING JEWS PERSECUTION THROUGHOUT EMPIRE

Berlin, April 11.—(N. Y. Times.)—Expulsions of Jews from Russia are taking place on a scale unprecedented in extent and cruelty. The details received by the German Jewish Relief Association indicate that the number is increasing from day to day, and already reaches far into the thousands.

The entire Jewish population of the Russian Empire is in a state of the most intense terror. Almost every community outside the limited regions where Jews are permitted to dwell, is daily witness to wholesale evictions. Jews have lived for many years in the various provinces and also those residing in Kiev are being persecuted with special severity.

Kiev alone 1,200 families have been deprived of the right of further settlement.

Over a thousand six hundred families of Bohemia Jews have been driven from their homes during the last few days, and now find themselves in a desperate plight. The Emir of Bukhara, acting in co-operation with the Russian persecutors, has refused to permit them to re-enter the country.

In the so-called settlement districts, where Jews are supposed to be permitted the unqualified right of domicile, the expulsion regime is in full force. The authorities have harked back to the notorious Ignatieff "May Laws" of 1882 and 1891, and with unrelenting cruelty are driving out the Jewish population from the settlement districts and are compelling them to seek refuge in the unpopulated cities, where starvation and pestilence sooner or later compel them to flee the country.

Protests at the Russian Ministry of Interior, which formerly resulted in the abandonment of the particularly harsh expulsion methods, have now become entirely futile. There is no longer any doubt that the persecution is the most responsible authority.

While the expulsions are taking place the Jews are being robbed more and more of their educational rights. Recently the higher private schools were permitted to accept as students only Jewish students as they pleased, regardless of the limited percentage which is allowed to attend the schools. The Minister of Education, M. Schwartz, has now issued orders prohibiting private schools from receiving a higher percentage of Jewish scholars than the public schools. He also ordained that the Jewish students who spend their money on studying is no longer to be reckoned as "legal education."

Will Not Enforce the Dog Bylaw

Dog Owners in Peterboro Need Not Worry About Measure

Examiner: All this fuss that has been kicked up during the past few days over the dog bylaw, now appears to have been somewhat premature, judging by the action of the legal committee last night, when it was practically decided to allow the bylaw to stand, but to make no effort to enforce it, at least the clause compelling dogs to be kept on leash when in public places.

Ald. Phelan introduced the matter last night.

"What about this dog bylaw," he asked. "If there is any doubt as to its legality don't you think we had better rescind it?"

"The papers have been giving us some hot shots," commented Chairman Duffus.

"Several people have remarked to me," said Ald. Graham, "that the council couldn't compel a man to pay taxes and tie up his dog; one man said that he would fight it out."

"I don't think that the bylaw is any use the way it is now," said Ald. Phelan. "That is my candid opinion. I'll move that we take no action."

"We have to take action," came from Mayor Morrow.

"Let us test it anyway," advised Ald. Turner "if it is no good we can drop it then."

"Well, I don't propose to lead my dogs over town on a string," rejoined Ald. Morgan.

Ald. Phelan expressed the opinion that the clause requiring dogs to be on a leash was of no use and ought to be taken out. He was of the opinion that if the law requiring every dog to have a tag was carefully carried out there would be little trouble. He accordingly moved that the "leash" clause be rescinded.

"Let it stand as it is, but don't enforce it," remarked the mayor, and the matter was dropped at that point.

From all of which it does not appear as if the dog owners need worry very much about the bylaw.

Pushing Work On Trent Canal

Two More Sections Will be Commenced at Early Date

The two remaining sections of the Ontario-Rice Lake Trent Canal Division, are, in the course, of a short while, to be commenced. Tenders for the construction of these are advertised for in another column. When they are completed, it means that the entire Trent Canal waterway, from Lake Simcoe to Trenton, a distance of 168 miles, will be open, and navigation between Lake Simcoe and Montreal will be possible. A great deal of work is to be done, and both are large contracts. The sections are numbers 4 and 6. Number four section covers a distance of eighteen miles, from Campbellford to Chisholm's Rapids, and number six is Healy's Falls, and comprises about two miles.

HEALY FALLS SECTION

Healy Falls section is the intermediate ground between Randolph McDonald Co's contract and that of Brown and Aymer. Healy Falls has a drop of seventy feet and it will be necessary to build three locks and a very large dam. The locks will consist of a single and double flight one. On the No. 4 section from Campbellford to Chisholm's Rapids, there will be three single locks and one double flight one. There will also be three dams built on this part. The river here will require a large amount of dredging.

After Poachers On Pigeon Creek

(Special to The Post.)
 Bobcaygeon, April 11.—Mr. H. B. Parker, our energetic game warden, took a run down to Pigeon Creek in his gasoline launch on last Thursday evening, and anchored off a point to watch developments, and he had nothing to exhaust his patience for ere long he was rewarded by the bright sheen of the poachers' light, and then another loomed up with the bright red tongues of forked light wreathing heavenward from the dry pine roots in the light Jack, and a man in a slouch hat and gray clothes standing near the prow, poised the glittering spear, to dart it into the unsuspecting maskinonge, as it lay on the bottom. At this sight Henry turned on the power and his craft sped towards the beacon lights, but, alas! the sound of the launch on the still waters alarmed them, and out went the lights, and then, where was Moses? Just where the man in the slouch hat was, pulling for the shore the warden's motor boat came to a standstill, and a supreme silence reigned as the launch floated on the peaceful waters of Pigeon River, and the maskinonge glided along on their usual courses as the poachers wended their way to their homes, each unharmed.

Weather Twenty-Five Years Ago

Conditions Have Changed Somewhat Since that Date

Today's downfall of the "beautiful" was the dying kick of old king winter, and local prognosticators say we can now look forward to ideal weather conditions.

The cold weather prevailing during the past few days was a gentle reminder that there was something in the wind or in the air, and today's snowstorm is the winduh of unfavorable weather.

We have no reason to grumble on the quality of weather dished up during the past two montgs, which has bordered on the phenomenal.

There has been great changes in climatic conditions during the past few years, and in order to show just what the weather was like a quarter of a century ago, the following facts are published. They were furnished by our esteemed townsman, Mr. W. J. Morton.

Twenty-five years ago the coldest day in March was St. Patrick's day. It registered 17 below.

On March 19th it was 9 below.

March 20th spring opened with 8 below.

Twenty-six years ago on March 1st the thermometer went down to 27 degrees, and on March 15th there was good wheeling.

Twenty-seven years ago March opened mild, but it soon got stormy. Wiggins prophesized a storm on the 9th but it came with a vengeance on the 10th, 11th and 12th of March. Trains were blocked and the highways were almost impassable. The coldest period, was when spring began with 18 below, followed on the 22nd with 20, below.

CLERGYMAN IS AFTER FIELDING

Ottawa, April 11.—Rev. R. G. Peever, pastor of McLeod street Methodist Church, yesterday morning condemned Hon. W. S. Fielding for having conducted his tariff negotiations at Albany on Sunday.

It ill-beseemed, he said, a Minister of a Government which had passed the Lord's Day Act, to desecrate the day by conducting public business on it.

PITTSBURG MISSIONARY KILLED WHILE HE WAS LEAVING CHURCH

Said Farewell At Bobcaygeon

Pittsburg, Pa., April 11.—A sermon on "Martyrdom," in which Frank Skala, an editor and prominent mission worker, had declared himself willing to lay down his life for the Christian cause, was followed yesterday by his assassination, and the shooting down also of a fellow church leader, John Gay, who may die.

Arm in arm, the two missionaries were leaving the little Congregational Church in Wood's Run, a suburb, at the head of more than a hundred foreigners. A raggedly dressed and collarless man poked his way through the crowd, and when he was but a step behind the leaders, he pressed a revolver to Skala's head and fired twice. The bullets took effect in the jaw and temple.

Gay, who threw up his right hand to ward off the weapon, was hit first on the thumb and then a second bullet was buried in his head. He fell unconscious across the lifeless body of his colleague.

For a moment the assassin stood over his victims, flourishing his revolver, while the panic-stricken crowd fled to shelter behind posts and doorways. Then stamping his foot on the bodies, the murderer made tracks down the avenue to the railroad tracks and was soon lost to view. A large armed posse of police, detectives and church people, was soon in pursuit, but late last night had found no trace of him.

The slayer was Jim Radovitch, a character known to most of the mission before he had meekly read from juvenile leaflets in the Sunday school by Skala; previously he had sat in a back pew of the church during the regular sermon; and at the beginning of the services Skala had shaken his hand.

It is believed by some of the congregation that the sermon Skala preached with the emphatic declaration that "any moment God would want my life I am ready to lay my life down," stirred the probably insane man to test his Christian fidelity.

Skala was prominently locally as a mission worker; and associate editor of The Bohemian Christian Journal. He was a Presbyterian, but had filled the pulpit at the Congregational Mission House as a substitute yesterday, as he had often done before. He came here from Moravia, Austria, seven years ago and after a thorough education at Park College in Missouri, settled at Coropolis to work among the foreigners. He was 25 years old. He married one of his converts to Protestantism and besides her, he leaves a child.

Said Farewell At Bobcaygeon

Bobcaygeon, Ont., April 11th — About one hundred of our citizens met in the parish hall here last week at 6 p. m. to show their respect to Mr and Mrs. Joseph A. Bottom read an address which referred to the regret of our citizens at the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson from our midst, and Mrs. L. Cottingham presented Mr. Robinson with a gold watch and Mrs. Robinson with a dozen of silver spoons. Although Mr. Robinson was taken by surprise he made a neat reply. After an hour's program of a varied character, which everyone present enjoyed, fully, the participants repaired to their homes. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson left by the C.P.R. on Saturday morning the 9th inst. A large number of their friends were at the station to see them off, all of whom wished them prosperity in their new home in the west.
