VALENTIA

Mrs. Bedford and daughter, called on friends in this neighborhood last Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Powles attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Truman, of Palestine last Wednesday. This wet weather is causing some alarm as the farmers are not entirely through seeding yet, and those having silos realize how fast time is passing away. The manure has to be drawn on the corn ground yet which is to undergo a thorough cultivation. The oats, barley and peas have to be sown and the 24th is here. The farmers cannot do anything and the hay and oats are going.

PLEASANT POINT

(Special to The Post.) The rainy and disagreeable weather of this last few days has greatly impeded the farmers with their work. As a result the spring sowing will be late in finishing as the land is now very wet. However, one or two of our less extensive land owners have finished up their sowing. We are very sorry to announce that Mr. John Hay, sr., is very ill at present. His son, Dr. John Hay, of Grand Rapids, Mich., has come home to look into his trouble and we hope that he, along with the attending physician may be able to help the sufferer. Mr. Joseph Flynn, of here has returned home after spending the winter in Buffalo. While in the States he had a fine position on the railroad, but preferred the free and open country life and has returned to follow up his old agricultural pursuits. Turner spent Tuesday in Lindsay. Our baseball boys intend going to Cannington to play on May 24th.

FARMERS AND THE COST OF LIVING

"Farmers are accountable for the high cost of living!" That is an old cry in our cities. The average city dweller seems to be under the impression that we farmers are rolling in wealth. The city editors who know nothing about farming, are telling us that we are not producing enough, that did we make our farms live up to one-half their possibilities, food would cost only half what it does now and the cost of living problem would be solved satisfactorily—to the city people at least. fi Cannot this line of reasoning be applied to city industries as well? For instance, the cost of woollen clothing has gone up considerably in recent years. Is it not, if the first premise is correct, quite reasonable to say that the high cost of woollen clothing is due to the fact that our manufacturers are not producing as the capacity of their factories would warrant. In this latter case, our city brethren recognize without any trouble that the woollen manufacturers are producing just enough of their goods to make the highest profits. If they produced goods in excessive quantities, prices would be reduced, profits would go down and the concern would have to close its doors.

The case as it applies to farming is exactly the same. If we farmers as a whole are to produce in sufficient quantities to satisfy our city friends prices would go down to such a level that our business would be even less profitable than it is now. If city people want us to produce more they must pay more for the goods that we produce, for we, like all other classes of the community, have to live and our production of goods is determined by the money we can make out of it. The high cost of living must be accounted for in another manner than under production of farm produce. The underlying causes of high prices Farm and Dairy is explaining in the series of articles being run on page 4 each week. Did we farmers and the working men in our cities have a proper understanding of the economic conditions under which we live we would not be so bitter towards each other, but would work together to guard our common interests against the attacks of what we may call the "financial interests." It is at their doors we must lay the major portion of the blame for the high cost of living--Farm and Dairy.

WARNING AGAINST IMPRUDENT MARRIAGES

Judge McDonald, of Brockville, in suspending sentence on a youth who had pleaded guilty when charged with perjury, in connection with his marriage to a girl of immature years, "warned the local ministers," against imprudent marriages. This warning is timely. The preachers, by virtue of their office, are giving effect to some queer matings. "Whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder" are not words fittedly spoken in some cases. The Great and Eternal One is not to be associated with the degenerates that should not be linked in wedlock. They are in themselves an evidence of untimely marriages, and steps should be taken to prevent the propagation of the species. The young and the foolish too, should be checked in their waywardness, and the men to do the checking are the issuers of marriage licenses and the ministers. These men are expected to use reasonable discretion in the discharge of their duties. The issuer of marriage licenses does not in many cases see the brides. The ministers do, and they should simply refuse to conduct the ceremonies which may lead to misery and unhappiness and wretchedness. So many of the crimes are the consequence of misfits in marriage that every precaution should be taken to prevent them.—Exchange.
