MUSICAL COLUMN

(Contributed by H. C. Hamilton.)

The first requisites of a good teacher of music are that he shall possess a good musical education received from a competent instructor, and that he must also possess the ability to teach fundamentals correctly. The selection of the first teacher is really of more importance than the selection of a later one, if a later one is needed, and yet some parents are utterly indifferent in this matter.

The main reason for this attitude seems to be a false sense of economy for many of those who adopt it are people who can afford the best. There seems to be a feeling, however, that anyone who has any knowledge at all of the rudiments of music, and is willing to impart such knowledge is "good enough for a start." Later on, of course, after the children have "got a start," they will be taken to a good teacher for the first time. This second teacher will now likely have his troubles in trying to undo the work of the earlier and inadequate teacher. The subject of inefficient teaching as a result of false economy is a broad one, but it is at the root of the whole subject of the advancement of music.

The majority of people think of the sum of money they are going to pay, instead of what they are going to receive for their money. Good teachers usually charge more for their time, and are justified in so doing, as their own musical education has been expensive, and of a high standard. Children will be better taught if they go to teachers of this class for a few lessons rather than to a cheaper teacher for many.

If high grade teaching in one's locality seems too expensive, there is one way in which good teaching may be had for less. That is, to go to any of the best known teachers, and get them to recommend some pupil of theirs who can teach the fundamentals correctly. In this way, a beginner may be under the instruction of some one who is competent from the very start. I have one pupil at present who is now receiving a training for this very work, and who is already giving good proof of her ability. 6 months with a good teacher is worth two years with a poor one.

Doctors Use This for Eczema

Dr. Evans, Ex-Commissioner of health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin diseases and the blood." The skin must be cured through the skin. The germs must be washed out, and so salves have long been found worthless. The most advanced physicians of this province are now agreed on this, and are prescribing a wash of wintergreen, thymol and other ingredients for eczema and all other skin diseases. This Compound is known as D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

Dr. Holmes, the well known skin specialist writes: "I am convinced that the D. D. D. Prescription is as

OBITUARY

MRS. THOS. O'NEILL

The sad death took place at Downeyville on Sunday morning of Mrs. Thomas O'Neill, aged 45 years. The deceased lady was well known throughout the district, and leaves to mourn her loss a husband and nine children.

The funeral took place this morning to the Roman Catholic cemetery, Downeyville.

REV. JOS. MUNT.

The remains of Rev. Jos. Munt, who died at Decewsville on Thursday of last week, were interred in the Union Cemetery, Cobourg on Wednesday. Deceased was a number of years ago a minister here for the Baptist church minister. He was an Old Countryman. He left Cobourg about 21 years ago, and was afterwards stationed at Kinmount and other places. Bright's disease was the cause of death. One son and four daughters who accompanied the remains here, survive.

JAMES B. CAMPBELL

Norland, April 26—It is our sad duty this week to chronicle the death of one of our most well known and highly respected citizens, of Norland, in the person of Mr. James B. Campbell, who departed this life on April 2nd, after an illness of but twelve days from pleura pneumonia. Many friends in Lindsay and surrounding country will regret to hear of his death. Mr. Campbell was blessed with a genial and cheerful disposition, which won for him the respect and friendship of all with whom he came in contact. He was connected with municipal affairs for upwards of twenty-five years, as councillor and reeve of this municipality. A widow, one son, four daughters and two sisters, Mrs. Le-Craw, of Norland and Mrs. Phillips, of Toronto, are left to mourn the loss of a loving husband, father and brother. The service was conducted at the home by the Rev. Poulter, and was very impressive. Speaking in glowing terms on the sterling qualities in Mr. Campbell's character, he said he had heard a friend remark that he felt sure Mr. Campbell had not an enemy in the neighborhood. He loved his neighbors as himself.

In spite of the inclement weather, a large concourse of sorrowing friends followed the remains to Pine Grove cemetery, where interment took place in the family plot, to await the resurrection morn.

He sees when their footsteps falter, When their hearts grow weak and faint; He marks when their strength is failing And listens to each complaint, He bids them rest for a season For the pathway has grown too steep; And, folded in green pastures, He giveth His loved ones sleep. Weep not that their toils are over; Weep not that their race is run; God grant We may rest as calmly When our work, like theirs, is done! Till then we would yield with gladness Our treasures, to Him, to keep, And rejoice in the sweet assurance He giveth His loved ones sleep.

ANNIE VIOLA CONEYBEARE

The sad death took place on Sunday of Annie Viola Jane, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Coneybeare, William-st. north, aged 15 years, 2 months and 22 days.

The deceased, who moved to Lindsay with her parents from Bancroft last October, has been ill nine months. She was in the Ross Hospital twelve weeks, and was afterwards removed to her home, where she lingered until death ended her sufferings. She is survived by her parents, four sisters and one brother.

residence, 116 William-st. north, on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, and proceeded to Riverside cemetery. Service at the house at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Canon Marsh.

SENSATIONAL CAPTURE BY LINDSAY BOY

More than a little excitement was provided Friday morning in Peterboro about 11 o'clock, when the heavy grey horse attached to a Canadian Exruss waggon, bolted at the corner of Hunter and George-sts and got beyond the control of the driver.

The accident was due to a little defect in the arrangement on the whistle tree of the waggon, for holding the tugs. Owing to this, one "tug," or "holdback" became loosened, the shaft striking the horse in the stomach and frightening it.

In a flash it turned the corner, and taking to the south sidewalk on Hunter street, proceeded at a break-neck speed. In front of Bell's grocery, the driver was thrown out. Mr. Fred Skitch, son of Mr. Wm. Skitch, William-st., who had been sitting with the driver on the waggon, was thrown to the ground. He recovered himself quickly and ran to the horse's head. The horse was a powerful one, however, and carried Mr. Skitch right over to the Oriental hotel. It traversed the distance on the sidewalk, dashing Mr. Skitch against the brick walls and plate glass windows as it ran. Still clinging to the bridle, he succeeded in stopping the horse in front of the Oriental hotel. It was a nerve feat on the part of Mr. Skitch.

The waggon was not damaged, but the harness was slightly broken. Both the driver and Mr. Skitch got a severe shaking up, and the fact that Mr. Skitch was not at least temporarily disabled was a surprise to all who saw the occurrence. It was due only to his pluck and tenacity that a more serious accident was averted.

Mrs. Stevenson Working Overtime

Peterboro Review—Mrs. Emma Stevenson, of Carmel, who has become famous because of the curative powers of her medicines, is still doing business despite the recent action of the Inspector for the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons which brought her before two courts where she was fined nearly $200.

Mrs. Stevenson is in the city today, (Saturday) delivering medicine and calling on patients. Yesterday one of her male patients visited her at Carmel where she had a busy day. The people have faith in the powers of her medicines to such an extent that Mrs. Stevenson is always busy with callers.

Her charges are not high as one large bottle of medicine can be purchased for a one dollar bill.

Quite a few of her patients reside in Peterborough. One of many cases is that of a man, who was troubled with diabetes. The doctors it is said, declared his case as hopeless, and advised him against wasting what little money he had. Mrs. Stevenson was heard of, and he became a patient. Today he has recovered sufficiently to permit of his walking about the streets like a man in the best of health.

Two cases of medicine arrived in the city last night and it is being distributed to-day.

Sergeant Irlam Was Remembered

On Saturday evening at an informal gathering of the school teachers of the town at the town hall, Sergt. Irlam, of Kingston, Physical Exercise Instructor, was presented with a pair of gold cuff links. Sergt. Irlam has been six weeks in Lindsay, giving physical exercises to the pupils of the schools, and has also assisted the teachers in taking up the work. The presentation was a slight recognition of the valuable work he accomplished while here. Refreshments were afterwards served, and an enjoyable time was spent in social intercourse.

Considerable enthusiasm has been manifested by the children in the exercises, as a result of Sergt. Irlam's visit.

YOUNG GIRLS FOR MORMON LAND

Montreal, April 19—Because "Joe" Smith, some sixty years ago, found under his apple tree, the golden plates which contained the Mormon Bible, some forty fresh-faced young women, English and Scandinavian, passed through the city recently as converts to the Mormon faith.

This group expressed the fruit of the endeavors of Elder Wilkinson, and others in such European centres as still permit the propaganda to go on.

The young women were from eighteen to twenty-five years of age, of the servant girl class, but respectably dressed, rosy, healthy, and apparently in love with their new faith and the possibilities it offered.

SHEPHERDED BY ELDER

Few of them understood the so-called metaphysics of the Mormon cult; but the appeal which had been addressed to them had relation to material advantage; and as their lot in life had not been of the rosiest, it fell upon fertile soil, with the result that a first instalment for the season of forty converts, were carefully shepherded at the Windsor station a few days ago by the Mormon elder and missionary.

"What induced you to join the Mormons?"

This question was put to a rosy cheeked girl of twenty-one, of the party.

"Well, we were promised an improvement in our condition, for one thing. We were to get good positions in which we would earn plenty of money, either as domestic servants, or as clerks—those of us who were fitted for such positions, and then as we went on, we were supposed to be able to marry well."

NO POLYGAMY NOW

"Was there any suggestion of the practice of polygamy made to you?"

"On the contrary we were told that that was entirely eliminated from the system; but we understood that there was no poverty in Utah; that Mormonism meant thrift and prosperity; that there was no pauperism; no want of the good things of life. That appealed to many of us, who had seen so much poverty at home. The great point was that the Mormon church was interested in the poor and needy, and brought them forward in the new country. In England there is no chance for poor people; who suffer all the time. This was like the Promised Land to many of us."

"Was the religion itself explained to you?"

"Of course I went to many of the meetings in England, though the church is opposed to Mormonism, and many of the clergy there have taken the law into their own hands, to chase them out of their parishes. At these meetings we had the religion explained. It is hard to understand, but the church is to look after everybody, here and hereafter. "God is more real. He can feel more familiarly. He is not so far off in Mormonism. "He is a sort of large man. He has passions, but they are benevolent, and he has set up the Church of Latter Day Saints.

"We are part of the lost Tribes of Israel, and God is bringing them all together in these last days, to the American continent.

"That is why he wrote the Book of Mormon on the Golden Tablets, and which he discovered to the Founder of Mormonism."

"Was it suggested to you that you could only be saved by being sealed either spiritually or materially to any one of the bishops or elders of the church?"

"No; but we were to be happy and comfortable and well off."

"And that is mainly what made us come out to join the church."

"Of course I do not understand all about the religion; but from what I have learned about it it is a kind of system which makes you comfortable whereas the other systems — I mean the system in which I was brought up—make you miserable most of the time."

"Were you promised situations?"

"Oh, yes; that was the chief argument. We are to better our position in Salt Lake, or wherever in Utah we may be sent to."

"You don't regret coming out?"

"No; we have had a lovely time aboard the ship; all our expenses are paid; and we look forward with a sense of pleasure."

"And if you are disappointed?"

"Well, we will have to put up with it, for our people were opposed to our coming."

GET CHANCE TO WED.

One of the Scandinavian girls who gave the name of Conrady, said that in most of the European countries the Mormons have been legislated against, but not in Sweden or Denmark.

She believed she was going to better herself.

"No promise of marriage?"

"Oh, we are to have the chance of getting married well, if we should decide to get married; and many in the Old Country don't get that chance, owing to the women being in the majority."

The C.P.R. and other boats will be bringing out others and larger parties of Mormons during the season. The missionaries enter every country in which the law permits them; and then in the spring and summer they present the fruits of their work in many lands to the bishops, who meet in secret conclave to determine how they shall dispose of their new converts.

The bounties on iron and steel are, it is understood, not to be renewed, but there will likely be some revision of duties.

THERE'S only one quality of Canada Cement. It is the highest quality that can possibly be made with modern equipment, scientific methods and rigid inspection by expert chemists.

The Canada Cement you buy for a garden walk is the same cement that is sold by the trainload for great dams, elevators and bridges. The engineers in charge of these great works have ample facilities for testing the quality of cement.

Canada Cement

comes up to their most rigid requirements.

The farmer has not these facilities for testing the quality of cement. He must buy a product upon which he can depend for a grade that is always of highest quality, and that therefore does not need to be tested.

You can place absolute reliance upon the quality of Canada Cement.

It's always the same and always the best. The large output—which enables us to keep the price down, enables us also to maintain the factory equipment and organization that keeps the quality up.

A Canada Cement label appears on every bag and barrel of genuine Canada Cement. See that it's on the bags and barrels of cement that you buy.
