Church Notes

CAMBRIDGE-ST. METHODIST.

That it is quite within the limit of possibility to control one's thought and in consequence to shape one's character, and further still, one's destiny, was the subject on which Rev. Geo. A. Bishop, D. D., pastor of Cambridge-st. Methodist church, preached his farewell sermon Sunday evening. Dr. Bishop goes to Bridgton, Me., to be with his family on a brief holiday. About 100 members of the Canadian Order of Foresters were present.

One's thoughts are generally held as things of little consequence, of little moment, said the speaker, but the fact of the matter is that one's destiny is determined by the thought of the heart. Dr. Bishop's text was taken from the verse wherein people generally are told to think on those things which are true, honest, pure, just, lovely, and of good report.

"Thought is the beginning and basis of character," said Dr. Bishop. "As a man thinketh, so is he, and does he," declared the speaker. "His thinking controls his living; good thoughts are a blessing, a help; they build up the man. Thackeray says, 'Sow a thought and reap a habit and reap a character, sow a character and reap a destiny,' and nothing was ever more true."

God is no respecter of persons, but He is a respecter of character, and ultimately that is what will be taken into consideration by Him as destiny is determined by character.

"There is nothing in which men are more careless about than their thoughts," said Dr. Bishop. Most men will attempt to cover up their words and actions for prudential motives but very few attempt to check their thoughts. "There is hardly a man ever breathed who has not thought things which he wouldn't want his neighbor to know for the world," he said.

Continuing Dr. Bishop spoke in no measured tones in relation to the "low thoughts" in art. "High art will have much to answer for," he said. Books next engaged his attention and he had something to say of the page of the book, supposed to be realistic, which suggested immoral things. It is the suggested thought that is fatal to the thought in itself; it is powerless to defile until the thinker cherishes it, thereby making it his own. That is when the sinning takes place—when the thought is cherished.

To the ordinary man there is seemingly nothing so uncontrollable as the thought, but said the speaker, it is quite as possible to bring misdeeds as much under subjection as one's feet or one's tongue. But how? "Bring every thought into captivity to the obedience of Jesus Christ," was quoted as the solution.

As to the members of the Canadian Order of Foresters present Dr. Bishop spoke briefly at the close of his sermon. Their organization sprang from the noblest thought and suggestion. He exhorted them to let their hearts go out in the broader fellowship of humanity that was theirs.

Church Notes

urraging. In this we might find something that would apply to the growing expansion of the church, and he proceeded to discuss the recent session of the General Assembly at Winnipeg, to which he was a delegate.

One of the important questions under discussion was the position which Queen's University should in future bear to the church. Some years ago the link between the two had been strengthened and it was felt necessary to raise an endowment of $500,000 for it. In the meantime conditions have changed somewhat, owing to the Carnegie University Fund. To this all were oblige excepting those which were of a denominational character, and it was thought by some that it was unfair that any obstacle should exist to the participation by the university in this fund. The question, however, was not to separate the university from the church, but to refer the whole matter to the trustees. He could not conscientiously vote for the motion.

Church union was also discussed, but the union before the assembly was not the question of church union, as had been reported, but as to whether the committee which had previously been appointed to draft a constitution, be continued in office. He was of opinion that the feeling throughout the church was rather in favor of a federal than of an organic union. He felt, however, that much good would come of the discussion.

Regarding the report of the church life and work, he said this was a matter which should be discussed every year, because it indicates the temper of the people. They found that the church was endeavoring to keep pace with the times in the east as well as in the west. In some instances, however, it was not keeping pace, as, for instance, Winnipeg, where the increase in population was such that there should be two new churches each year. It was so also in Toronto.

In the matter of contributions the church was doing fairly well. The business life of the country was found to be of a high order. It was true that there were some people who advertised goods at less than cost, and he asked what was to be thought of such men. A man who would sell below cost was either a fool or was in embarrassed circumstances. And why should any man want to buy goods at less than cost, if he believed in doing his duty by his fellowman and wished to deal with others as he would be dealt by? So much for the strengthening of the stakes.

As to the lengthening of the cords, Mr. Wallace said there were four things involved in taking a forward step. One of these was that of systematic giving. There is a greater tendency towards conducting the affairs of the church on business principles and there were ever to be found more and more business men willing to devote their attention to this end. It was found that by the application of business methods some $20,000 more had been given for the schemes of the church than formerly.

In temperance and moral reform there had been an advance, although Dr. Shearer had been in office for less than a year. He was particularly struck by the same methods of that gentleman. Some people were very zealous, but had no tact, and their efforts were not as fruitful as they might be, but Dr. Shearer seemed to be endowed with the qualities necessary for his office. A significant thing occurred which showed the tendency of the times and that was the receipt of a telegram by the committee during the session from Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the effect that abuses which had been found to exist in the Yukon would be looked into and remedied as speedily as possible. It showed the need for the church to keep from any entanglements of party politics as a church, and it also showed that the church should always evince an interest in the life of the nation.

Another matter which engaged the attention of the assembly was the matter of evangelization. It was a new departure for the Presbyterian church to appoint a committee on evangelization. Presbyterians are prone to look upon professional evangelists with suspicion, but when we hear such earnest men speak along the lines of christian awakening, there is no reason why there should not be a religious enthusiasm among us. It is now for St. Andrew's church

Captured a Porcupine

Mr. Alex. Horn Discovers One on Francis St. Monday Morning—Much Curiosity Among Children.

Mr. Alex. Horn, along with other gentlemen captured a porcupine Monday morning. The animal had ensconced itself on the verandah in front of Mr. B. F. Recor's residence and it was with some little difficulty that its capture was effected. It was finally put in a box where a good many young and old had a look at it.

The porcupine is of a good size and how it came to be just where it was formed the topic of much conversation this morning. It will be allowed its liberty again.

This species of animal is scarce in this section of the country, although back north where they are unmolested there are some to be seen.

Vegetable Planting This Month

Seeds That May Go in During the Next Fortnight.

For late work in the vegetable patch, to replace plants that have produced and are at an end, or to fill spaces that are vacant through failure of previously planted seed, the following may go in during the rest of this month.

String beans will be ready to eat about the end of July.

Beets will be ripe for table use about the second week in August.

Brussels sprouts should be ready about the time first frost is due, and should be left to be touched with frost before picking.

Carrots—This late crop will be better than the earlier crops to store for winter use. Will be ready to dig about September 20.

Sweet Corn—Should be ready for table (young ears) by the end of July.

Cucumbers—Plant late crop in hills. Will be ready in from two months to seventy-five days after planting.

Endive—Tie up when thirty days old to blanch. Ready for table two weeks after ward.

Lettuce—All kinds, such as Cos, Head, etc. Give hen manure or nitrate of soda as soon as the plants are three inches high. Will be ready for table use in from twenty to seventy days, according to kind.

Muskmelon—Will be ready in about the last week in October. Give plenty of manure to hurry growth, so that it will not be delayed too long. Feed once a week with pinches of nitrate of soda.

Peas—Sow the smooth-seeded kind by preference. Should be ready for table in from forty to seventy-five days, before there is danger of frost.

Radish—Sow in ground that has not been freshly manured. They will do extra well in places where peas have been growing. Should be ready in a month. Be careful to pick us soon as they are ripe, or they will turn tough and woody.

Turnips—Should be ready to take out in the last week in August or early in September. Store them for winter use like carrots, in boxes of very dry sand placed in cold cellar or storage pits.

Squash—If planted as late as this, give them very rich ground, and hurry them by feeding liquid manure at frequent intervals. Can be planted between the hills of late corn or in hills between other crops that will be out of the ground by the time the squash vines need room. Will be ready for table about the beginning of the second week in November.

Sage—Set growing plants in such a way that the crown will be just under the surface. Will be ready for use fresh in a few weeks after taking hold. Ready for drying for winter use in September.

ST. PAUL'S

Rev. R. B. Grobb, M. A., of Port Hope, took charge of both services. In the morning he rendered an interesting discourse on unbelief and in the evening on the severity of Christ from John 2, 15.

After using cold water starch let it settle then pour off the water and allow the starch to dry. When it is dry it may be placed in the starch box for future use.

It is better for home made karts if spread on when the paste is partly or quite cold. If baked on the tart the paste underneath is likely to become sodden and heavy.

Salvation Army A Good Band

Very Successful Services on Saturday and Sunday

Most successful services were conducted Saturday evening and all day Sunday in connection with the local corps of the Salvation Army. The visit of the silver band of the Peterboro corps was the big feature of the two days' special services. They made a distinctly favorable impression.

The band arrived on the Saturday evening train and after marching up town got their supper. They were held at the corner of Kent and William-sts. to which was attracted an immense crowd. Traffic was almost blocked for a time so dense was the throng. Later a very meritorious programme was rendered in the Salvation Army barracks. Peet, Dr. J. A. White was chairman. The programme included selections by the band, a vocal solo by bandsman French, a euphonium solo by Bandsman Boorman, a vocal solo by Ensign Riley, a trombone solo by Bandsman Moyne, a vocal solo by Mrs. Greene bandmaster and a coronet solo by deputy-bandmaster Ford. A number which caught the fancy of the crowd was the drum solo representing a train shunting and leaving a station also a battlefield with the firing of guns, and the bands playing the march past, by Bandsman Meadows.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach disease, indigestion, biliousness, head-brush and slow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tobacco or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.
