An Economizer of Time and Labor

FROM seed time to harvest the farmer is a busy man.

That's why the shrewd farmer appreciates the value of the Bell Telephone Service.

He may be miles from the railroad and the nearest shipping point. He is expecting a freight shipment—what does he do? With his Bell Telephone he calls up the freight agent. If the shipment has not arrived—no use in going to town.

There's always plenty at hand to do. The Bell Service gives him opportunity.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY has 870 Subscribers in the Lindsay District; 428 Subscribers in the Lindsay Exchange.

Long Distance Service with all points in Ontario, Quebec and The Northern States.

A Limited Telephone Service is unsatisfactory and dear at any price.

Tariff Rates to suit the requirements of all classes.

SERG. RUSSEL HENLEY'S FIRST LETTER AS MEMBER OF CORONATION CONTINGENT

A letter has been received from Sergt. Russel Henley, of the Post staff who is a member of the Canadian Military contingent to the coronation of King George. The letter says:

Levis P. Q. May 24th.

Arrived at the camp, O. K., and this is the first time I have been down to the city since we got here. The trip down was fine. He stayed about an hour and a half in Peterboro and got to Belleville about 4.15 in the afternoon. Had dinner in Peterboro and supper in Belleville. The 15th Regt. in Belleville, held a reception in their armory that night and met the train, inviting us there to spend the evening.

We had games, music and refreshments and put in a fine evening, till 12.30 o'clock. Then they drove us all to the station in cabs (about fifteen of us) and a special train came in from Toronto, leaving Belleville 12.30. The special train took on men at Kingston, Belleville, Brockville, Cornwall and Montreal. Mitchell and I were together in one berth and slept until eight o'clock. The train was just pulling into Montreal and we were given an hour there for breakfast. I went up to the Y. M. C. A. and had breakfast. We left Montreal about nine o'clock and got to Quebec about 2.30. We went through Quebec and on to St. Joseph, which is about two miles from Point Levis. You take a ferry at Point Levis to cross the river to Quebec. Our camp is on the top of a big hill, and you can get a fine view of Quebec and the Plains of Abraham, across the river. We are about half a mile from Montmorency Falls, and they are certainly a pretty sight. Our camp is a pretty good one, but the meals are not much as yet. For supper last night we had a slice of dry bread and a cup of tea. The meals to-day were about the same as we usually get at Kingston. There are six men to a tent, each man with eight blankets, plate, knife, and fork white enamel cup and a large rubber sheet. There are four companies, each one with about eighty men.

I am in "B" company, Sergt. Legg of Toronto, is our drill instructor and he certainly makes us work. We get up at 5.30 and have physical culture exercises until 6.30, starting at 6. We just go out in our shirt sleeves and come in to breakfast wide awake all right. Then we have parade at 8.30 till 10, and rest till 10.30; then drill again till twelve. We go out at two and drill until four. The evening we have to ourselves. A guard is put on and every man has to be in by ten o'clock, and no passes are issued either.

There is a lot of cows pasturing on the camp grounds, and we milked one this morning in a wash basin and had it pretty full of fresh milk. I am in a tent with Prestige and Mitchell and three regulars from London. They are all a jolly bunch. We were in bed last night at 9.30, but came down to the city to-night. I haven't looked around much, as yet, but am not much struck with what I have seen. Everybody speaks French and the streets are about as wide as an ordinary kitchen and hardly any pavement walks. The "Royal George", is a big liner, came in to-day, and we could see her coming down the river from the camp. She is a monster, and the old Otonabee at Lindsay would look like a good sized canoe to her. Good Bye for the present,

Yours, etc.
Russel Henley.

QUACK DOCTOR SKINNED A CAT

Laid Its Body on the Chest of a Patient—Arrest of a Sorceress in France

Many people of the working-class in town and country still have great faith in quack doctors, and if these persons profess to have some acquaintance with the occult sciences this confidence is strengthened rather than diminished. In connection with the death of a young man who died after a short illness, a woman who went in for bone-setting, and who, moreover, had recourse to empiric devices, has just been arrested in the Lyons district, France. When, at the eleventh hour, the doctor was called in, he diagnosed pneumonia, but he saw that his services could be of no avail, as the case was already too far advanced.

The young man had been a patient of the so-called sorceress, who had laid the body of a cat, which she skinned while it was alive, on his chest, with strict injunctions that it should be kept there as a sovereign remedy. Sometimes she used pigeons, rabbits, and even squirrels for the same purpose. She had a special liking for squirrels, but in this particular instance the cat was employed, as it was less expensive.

Although she is in custody it is difficult to get evidence against this woman, as the peasants are reluctant to give anything away on account of the wonderful reputation that she enjoys among them as an expert in these healing art. Her prestige in these parts has been greatly enhanced by the fact that she has never missed an opportunity of proclaiming that some time ago she cured the wife of a physician in practice in one of the chief towns in France, of a dreadful malady, and that the lady's husband, out of gratitude, had initiated her into the secret of dealing effectively with every manner of disease. This story, of course, is pure fabrication, but the ignorant peasants believe it.

THE BEST REMEDY

For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

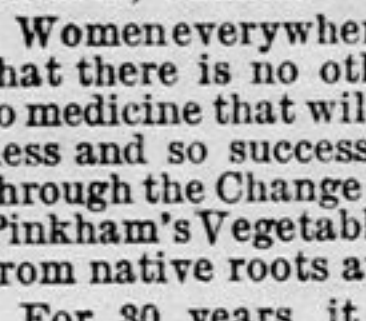

Belleville, Ont.—"I was so weak and worn out from a female weakness that I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took several bottles of it, and I gained strength so rapidly that it seemed to make a new woman of me. I can do as good a day's work as I ever did. I sincerely bless the day that I made up my mind to take your medicine for female weakness, and I am exceedingly grateful to you for your kind letters, as I certainly profited by them. I give you permission to publish this any time you wish."

Mrs. ARTHUR WICKERT, Belleville, Ontario, Canada.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will cure female weakness and so successfully carry women through the Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—Inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

INFLUENCE OF JEWS

They Wish to be Admitted to the Official Ranks of the German Army

The question of the admission of Jews to the grade of officer in the German army is becoming a more heated one every year, now that Jews of capacity and wealth are daily increasing in number and influence. At present no Jew can become an officer, and consequently cannot return to civil life with the social privileges which the title of "reserve officer" confers. The Minister of War disclaims all intention of partisanship in favor of any one race or confession, but he says the other officers won't have it, and according to German army traditions, it is for them to decide. The Minister says that there is an anti-Semitic spirit abroad among the officers and that this is natural as reflecting an anti-Semitic feeling among the population at large. It will, therefore, one may conclude, be a long time yet before the Jewish officer is found in the German army.

MATRIMONIAL HOAX

Would-be Husbands and Wives in a Paris Cafe Who all Were White Roses

A well-planned hoax had an amusing result at a Paris cafe. A few days ago two advertisements appeared in the newspapers. One of them was supposed to be from a rich woman who was looking for a young husband who need not necessarily have any money; the other from a rich man who was looking for a young wife. In this case also there was no need for the woman to have means of her own.

Answers to these advertisements came in by hundreds. Both had been written by the same person. To each one of them a reply was sent, asking the man or woman, as the case might be, to meet the "advertiser" at the cafe. It was also requested of each man and woman that a white rose should be worn for identification purposes.

Having made these plans, the advertiser then wrote to the police saying that there was to be a big demonstration of Royalists at a certain cafe. Thirty detectives were accordingly on the scene.

Soon large numbers of young men and young women began to assemble at the cafe. At first the white rose that each one wore was regarded as a coincidence, but it soon became evident that they were the victims of a hoax, and after a little embarrassment, followed by hearty laughter, the crowd dispersed.

STARTLING NEWS

Willings—"I hear they are not going to have lamp-posts any longer in Regent Street."
Billings—"Why not? It is disgraceful. It is putting a premium on robbery and murder. It is—"
Willings—"Hush, Billings. It is considered, and rightly, that the lamp-posts are already long enough."

A PET MOOSE

Wanders About New Brunswick and Visits Barnyards

A pet moose is said to be wandering in the neighborhood of Plaster Rock, N.B., and making the lives of dogs a misery to them, says Rod and Gun. During the close season, three moose, a bull, a cow and a calf, wandered around feeding with the cattle and using their salt boxes. When the open season came on the bull and cow left for the wilds, but the calf remained and visited various farmyards. The abundance and variety of food evidently suited the calf, and having a malformation of one of its spikethorns it is easily identified. The farmers have become quite used to it and are taking measures to ensure its protection from any hunter who wishes for fresh meat without going to the woods in search of the same.

NO DOUBT
Mrs. Lateststyle:—"This gown just came from Madam Chergem, don't you think she gave me a good fit?"
Mr. L.:—"Yes, but not as good as one her bill will probably give me."

MAKING READY THE PROCESSION

A Buckingham Palace Official Tells How the Coming Coronation is Being Rehearsed.

I was recently privileged to have a chat with one of the officials at Buckingham Palace who have charge of the preparations and arrangements for the coming coronation processions, says an Answers watching the training of horses, watching the movements of drivers and grooms, superintending the clearing and overhauling of carriages and harness. And in the great riding-school attached to the Royal stables there were the noted eleven creams being put through their paces, and sights to treat all sorts of noises and contempt becoming such superior creatures.

"Yes," said the gallant captain at the head of the department, "we start early, in order to have all ready for the auspicious day. As you see, we have to get the shy and nervous horses accustomed to the shouting of crowds and the roar of guns."

"And when do you begin to go over the route and to rehearse the actual procession?"

"Not before June itself comes," said the superintendent of these arrangements. "We shall probably go over all the routes twice, especially the longer one to be taken the day after the Coronation, for it is imperatively necessary that both horses and men—more especially the latter—should be acquainted with every detail of it."

"The police help us greatly, and they point out to us the different risks likely to need particular care. Needless to say, we are always most cautious to take note of such, and to work in unison with the civil and military authorities in these things. For the safety, comfort, and ease of their Majesties must be the very first and last consideration all the time to us who are responsible for the business, sitting upright, bowing incessantly, and turning one's head perpetually, for over seven or eight miles at a stretch," ventured the Answers man.

"I can assure you that it is, indeed," replied the captain. "No one, can guess what it means for creating fatigue and stiffness except those who have gone through it. So we try to mitigate it for the King and Queen as much as possible by having special cushions, seating arrangements on special springs, etc., too intricate to explain here."

"And the carriages?"

"Well, some fourteen. I take it, will be required for the procession to the Abbey on June 22nd. Their Majesties will most probably use the grand, old, gilded Cinderella coach on that day, drawn by the creams. Yes, we've eleven creams, but, of course, only eight will pull the coach. Then the four magnificent blacks will also go in the procession. On the following day, in the procession through the city, I do not think the gilded coach will be used, but a large open landau, specially upholstered and fitted.

"And, all being well, everything will be ready at the appointed time. The great B. P. will then have a performance worth the seeing, worth coming miles to witness, worthy of the Empire."
