Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

More Important That Man Love Girl He is to Marry Than That She Love Him

In a series of articles entitled, "Letters of a Worldly Woman to Her Son," by Dorothy Dix, is this one:

My Dear Son,—You want to know by what infallible sign a man may know when he is really, genuinely in love—when he has a case of incurable heart complaint, or when he is merely afflicted by a passing fancy.

Alas, my son, you have asked the riddle of the ages that nobody yet has been able to answer, for the symptoms of the fatal attack and the sporadic case that you will be entirely recovered from within a week, are precisely the same.

When you are first smitten down by this malady there is no earthly way to tell whether it is love or loveitis, yet on a man's ability to correctly diagnose his own case depends much more than life or death.

THE ONE IMPORTANT THING In matrimony, son, the important thing is not so much whether you pick out an ideal girl, or the girl who is really suited to you, or even the best girl, as it is for you to be head over heels in love with her.

In the days of courtship we are always asking the party of the other part: "Do you love me? Are you utterly, entirely sure that you will never love any one but me?"

For if we love enough, that blinds us to the other's faults. If we love enough, we never grow weary of the other one. If we love enough, we never cease to thrill at the touch of the adored hand or the glance of the beloved eyes.

Therefore, don't worry so much about whether the girl loves you as whether you love the girl, for a man starts matrimony with practically all the available supply of domestic affection he is ever going to have, and he needs the drafts that family life make upon it.

WHAT MARRIED LIFE MEANS Married life doesn't mean always having by your side a beautiful creature in her prettiest frock, and her gayest humor. It means thirty or forty years of the society of a woman you will often have to see with the false hair off and cold cream on; a woman with nerves and temper, a woman who will be sick and irritable often, a woman who will be unjust and unlovely many a time, and unless you feel she is just as attractive to you with her war paint off as on, then go in peace, and leave her to marry someone whose devotion is greater than yours.

Of one thing I warn you—test your love well and see whether it be of the senses or the soul, for if it be of the senses, it will be a quick, fierce fire of tinder that will burn itself out swiftly and leave your hearthstone cold and desolate, but if it be of the soul, it will be a sacred flame, miraculously fed from on high that will burn as long as you live upon the altar of home.

less affection, and when passion is dead, all is dead for them.

Another test to apply to your love is the quality of congeniality.

The poet says: "Unless you can nurse all day in a crowd on an absent face that has fixed you, then never say you love." Rats! The acid test of love is not absence, but unlimited doses of propinquity.

THE FINAL TEST OF LOVE Then, son, I put as the final test of any man's love his desire to stand before a woman and shield her from every hardship of life.

But if the very thought of her makes you feel like getting down on your knees and thanking God for having given you a clear brain and a big, strong body so that you can take care of her; if it makes you roll up your sleeves and set your jaws, and go at your work like a tiger because every lick brings her closer to you and makes the little home of your vision more of a reality, then, son, you may safely conclude that you've got the genuine article of affection, that it is all wool and a yard wide, and that will stand the wear and tear of matrimonial life.

Offence Against Criminal Code

Serious Offence to Disturb Slumber of Citizens, by Singing etc. On the Streets.

At an early hour this morning a bus load of young people returning from a function held in the country disturbed the peaceful slumbers of many of our citizens when driving through our streets.

This may appear perfectly harmless to those who indulge in this practice, but it is a violation of section 238 of the Criminal Code, which the Post has been requested to publish. The clause says in part: "Everyone is a loose, idle or disorderly person or vagrant who causes a disturbance in or near any street, road, highway or public place by screaming, swearing or singing, or by being drunk or by impeding or incommoding peaceable passengers."

Of Interest to Ladies

A lady of our town has found a sure cure for broken dishes. If the dish to be mended can be tied with a stout string, then place it in boiling milk and left one hour, you can never tell the dish had been broken, and it can afterwards be put in boiling water without the pieces coming apart.

"John Sanderson the First."

The Post is in receipt of a book just issued by the William Briggs Publishing Co., entitled "John Sanderson the First." It is from the pen of Camilla Sanderson, formerly of Peterboro, and daughter of the late John Sanderson.

The book is an intensely interesting and charmingly written one, and is of peculiar interest to the people of Lindsay, Peterboro, Norwood, Millbrook, and other places.

Miss Sanderson, the author, has given to current literature a beautiful and at the same time fascinating pen and ink replica of the saintly career of a kind hearted and whole souled clergyman of the Methodist church, a man who in the early forties went about on his sacred mission bringing consolation to the sick of body and soul.

Perhaps the most interesting chapters in this charmingly written biography are those referring to his associations and ministrations in Lindsay and Peterboro districts.

The Post feels that in reproducing extracts from this interesting work, we would be detracting from the genuine pleasure there is in store for those who have the rare pleasure of perusing its pages and enjoying what may be truly termed an important contribution to Canadian literature.

Some Preserving Dont's of Interest

Don't make a mistake and wait until the special fruit in season is nearly over and then pay the highest price for it.

Don't think over-ripe, soft fruit makes good preserves or jelly. Don't ever use anything but the best materials for good results.

Don't use what is called "A" or soft white sugar or brown; use granulated white sugar for all preserves or jellies.

Don't use granulated white sugar for spiced fruits; use light brown only.

Don't make spiced fruit too sweet; four pounds of light brown sugar to seven pounds of fruit is a good proportion.

Don't use an over abundance of spices; too much makes it taste bitter.

Don't cover preserves or jelly while cooking; they are apt to boil over.

Don't use cold sugar for jellies, measure the strained fruit juice; to each pint allow one pound of the best granulated sugar; put it on a platter in a warm oven to heat and add it to the boiling liquid.

Don't put hot preserves in cold glasses or jars and not expect accidents; have the glasses or jars in scalding water, rinse well, and then fill as quickly as possible.

Don't allow preserves to stand about after they are cold; put melted paraffin on cover with lids, wash off every trace of stickiness, and put in a cool, dark, dry place for future use.

Don't expect to make good preserves "hit or miss;" they require great care combined with the best materials and exact measurements to insure success.

Don't expect preserves to cook over a hot fire and not expect them to stick and scorch.

Don't let them cook without stirring, even when the fire is slow.

Don't cook preserves on a gas range without an asbestos mat.

Don't use a thin agate sauce pan; the old fashioned porcelain-lined iron preserving kettle is best.

Don't think you can hurry preserves. It is out of the question to do so and yet have them perfect.

Don't forget to rub the bottom of the preserving kettle freely with olive oil to prevent sticking.

Don't neglect to drop apples, pears, peaches and all light colored fruit into a bowl of cold water as you do them to prevent discoloration before cooking.

Egg Circles and "Chickenless" Eggs

Peterboro Review: The co-operative Egg Circles in this district are now in good working order, and eggs are being delivered twice a week at Gunn's warehouse, Simcoe street.

Mr. H. C. Duff, the district representative of the Department of Agriculture stated in an interview with the Review last night that there were many difficulties to overcome in connection with the introduction of the system, but said most encouraging progress had been made and the circles were proving mutually satisfactory to the sellers and buyers.

THE CONSUMER PROTECTED The method of selling eggs on the co-operative plan is one that is not of interest to the rural population alone, but is also of immense benefit and importance to the people of the towns and cities.

With the system in vogue the man at the breakfast table need not be timid in chipping the end off the egg for fear he will cut the head off a chicken, for the eggs will be perfectly fresh, and the greatest discrimination will be shown by the buyers before the eggs are taken from the farmer.

EGG WAGONS CALL REGULARLY Drivers of the wagons will call periodically at the farmers' homes,
