NEWSY LETTER FROM REV. J. WALLACE HIS EXPERIENCES IN MISSION FIELD

Mr. A. L. Campbell is in receipt of the following interesting letter from Rev. James Wallace, formerly pastor of St. Andrew's church, but now filling an important position under the Presbyterian Mission Board on the Pacific Coast:
Yacht, Daphnora, Rock Bay, B. C., June 30th, 1914.
A. L. Campbell, Esq., Lindsay.
My Dear Sir—I promised to drop you a note some time and am going to do so today, although it is time I was starting to get dinner. You see we have not yet been able to afford luxury of a cook. There are 3 of us aboard, viz, the engineer, the medical student, Mr. Truesdale, and myself, and we make a division of labor so far as the cooking is concerned.

I just came in this morning from Hastings Camp B, where we stopped last night. That is the first night I have slept ashore since we set sail on the 17th of June. The camp where we were last night is about 16 miles inland, but the Hastings Co. have a railroad of their own, so we went in by rail and came out the same way. In order to reach the camp we had to go through a narrow channel about 5 miles, so we have all kinds of experiences, e.g., while I was getting some wood this a.m. for the boat I hung out a fishing line and hook, and a few minutes ago pulled in a good rock cod. Our boat is 50 ft. long and finely furnished, as she was built for one of the aristocracy lately become decadent. We have visited already about 15 lumber camps and half a dozen villages and settlements. Lumbering here differs from what it is down east. No horses are used here. The logs are hauled out by donkey engines, and then towed to Vancouver by tugs. This point is 130 miles north of Vancouver, and there are camps as far away as 200 miles from the city, so that means a long haul. But the costmen know how to take advantage of the tides. The tides, however, make it dangerous in places on account of the tide rifts. In narrow channels the tide runs as fast as 7 or 8 knots an hour and in some places forms whirlpools which are very dangerous. When I was over at Dahl's camp in Carders Channel about 15 or 20 miles from here, I met a man and his wife who came from Lindsay, and perhaps they were not glad to see me. The man is a Mr. Powles, and his wife's name was Waters. She came from Cross Creek. Powles is a brother-in-law of Jack Cutbert, who looks after your flour and feed department. Mrs. Powles was very kind to us, and brought us a pie and some cakes, which of course we enjoyed, though we fare pretty well in the grub line. Last night for supper at Hastings camp I had beef from Australia and butter from New Zealand. Who would dare say this is not a cosmopolitan country? Now I will have to hurry away.

Hoping to hear from you when you can find time to write. Rock Bay, B. C., will find me sooner or later. With kindest regards,
I am yours sincerely,
JAMES WALLACE

ELDON COUNCIL

At a meeting held on the 5th inst. the following resolutions were passed:

Lightning Rod Efficiency

The Farmers Mutual Lightning Protected Insurance Company of Michigan, as its name implies, insures only rod-ded buildings and that only after the Company's inspectors have carefully inspected the rod-ding and approved of it. During 1909-1912, this business which for the four years totalled $55,172.73, the Company paid only $32.00 for damage to buildings. In three small claims, all traceable to defects in rod-ding, were overlooked by the Company's inspector.

Lightning Rod Efficiency

The Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company, which insures all over the State of Michigan, insures both rod-ded and unrod-ded buildings. In the same four years, 1909-1912, this Company, on a total risk of $50,507,272, paid lightning damage to the extent of $32,268.73, which is 1008 times the amount of the Protected Company paid. Of this loss the damage to rod-ded buildings consisted of three small claims only—and the amount of these claims was $1168.00; or, in other words, the Protected Company has saved $1167 out of an expected loss of $1168, an efficiency of 99.91 per cent., or $999 out of $1000.
