TWELVE THOUSAND HEAR SIR WILFRID PREMIER'S ELOQUENT ADDRESS AT SINCOE

Simcoe, Aug. 16.-There is no place in Canadian citizenship for the faint heart. This is the militant message with which Sir Wilfrid Laurier thrilled Liberalism in opening his national campaign for larger markets.

The Prime Minister carried the war into Africa from the very start. B unanswerable evidence he established the desire for reciprocity that has prevailed at Ottawa among all leaders. "We are now appealing to our judges, the people, and you can have it tomorrow if you want it," he told his audience. "Let's have it," came back from the crowd, amid a roar of cheers. The farmers had gathered in thousands, and they felt their hour of victory was at hand. Twice a spontaneous outburst came from a man who shouted: "Can't stand it any longer; let's have three cheers for Laurier." He got them, and they were rousers. Sir Wilfrid was not blind to the insidious cries of the opponents of his cause. He answered the bugaboo of annexation completely, and by light-hearted and skillful irony blew away the bubble generated by Opposition He repudiated the suggestion that closer trade relations with the United States might lead to annexation, and with some bitterness said: "Let Mr. Borden answer for the Tories; I will answer for the Grits." Further

He claimed that the leaders of public thought in Canada for the past forty years had favored reciprocity with the United States, hence it was natural that this policy should be adopted by him. The present Conser-on he said: "The talk of annexation is beneath the contempt of serious peovative leaders he called renegades. He held that the agreement with the United States could be terminated on a day's notice, and that it would not interfere with the action of Canada should Great Britain make advances to us in the matter of mutual preferential trade. If it did, then so much the worse for the agreement with the United States. If the attitude of Great Britain regarding preference changed at any time, Canada would be ready to meet the change.

The effect of the favored-nations' treaties was very slight, he said. claiming that the countries that would be brought into competition with Canada were of little importance, and the goods they sold Canadians did not interfere with Canadian products. The fact that John Carlton, who for 25 years represented Norfolk in the House of Commons, was the champion all his life of freer trade relations with the United States, and had his home in this town made Simcoe a fit place for Sir Wilfrid Laurier to utter his battle-cry in favor of reciprocity.

The issue of the campaign was re-ciprocity between Canada and the United States. He believed the agreement was a measure mutually beneficial to both countries. but he did not hesitate to say that it was more bene ficial to Canada than to the United

If any man in public life in Can-ada had given his mind to this question of reciprocity with the United Sattes, that man was Sir John A Macdonald. He was the Moses of the policy of reciprocity, but like Moses he was not destined to see the promised land. It might not be that he. Sir Willrid, would be the Joshua that would carry the people of Canada to that goal.

A voice: "Yes, you will." He said that the United States was prepared to go farther than Canada in the matter of letting down the bars They were prepared to go all along the line. "We could not go that far. We stand for stability of tariff and no revision until after study. ,We were prepared at all times to have reciprocity in natural products."

It was said if this agreement was adopted it would lead to annexation. How would it? He would like to discuss this question frankly and with common sense. How would it come about that the United States would annex us? There could be only two ways, either by violence or by per suasion. No one had ever heard that it was the intention of the U.S. to annex Canada, war had not been declared. Would the reciprocity agreement render so much benefit to Can-our allegiance? "I will tell Mr. Borden this, if he will answer for the Tories, I will answer for the Grits."

The meeting was called to order at two o'clock by Mr. H. M. Mowat, president of the Ontario Reform Association, Toronto. He spoke briefly, congratulating Simcoe and Norfolk on being chosen for the opening meeting in the campaign, and extending thanks for the honor done him, as president of the reform association by being chosen chairman. The first speaker was Hon. W. A. Charlton, brother of the late John Chariton, and present Liberal candidate in Norfoik. He told of the reluctance with which he had accepted the nomination. His friends had reminded him that it was his duty to go into battle. He had met Hon. S. H. him that it was his absolute duty to ed out by Parliamentary contro. go into the campaign now and sup po.t Sir Wilfrid, and Mr. Fielding and prevent a change of Government that might be made in favor of Mr.

She was accompanied by Miss Ila C. Mitchell, she wore blue and white shepherd's plaid silk, trimmed with blue satin. The groom was assisted by Mr. Thos. Mitchell, brother of the bride.

A splendid wedding supper was excellently served on the lawn, and the tables were laden with choice provisions; fruit, confectionery, ices, etc. The presents were numerous and of fine quality. Prominent among the

R. L. BORDEN BEGINS HIS TASK OPENED TORY CAMPAIGN AT LONDON

London, Ont., Aug. 16.—Mr. R. L. Borden began in carnest last night his uphill fight to convince the people of Canada that reciprocity means the severing of the Imperial tie, the com-mercial and political absorption of the Dominion, and-but not incidentally-to convince a skeptical people that their crying need is a Tory regime at Ottawa. Mr. Borden has set himself a heavy task, but he faced it valiently, even hopefully. Backed by a platform crowded with stalwarts, and encouraged by an audience two thousand people, he laid heavy hands upon the reciprocity agreement. He assailed the Government condemning the attitude of Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues in acceding to President last's request. He contradicted the argument that reciprocity had been the hope of all parties in Canada for forty years. Reciprocity was a seduction and designed only to promote the interests of a political party in the United States.

He inveighed against secret diplomatic tariffs, and declared that the Blake on the train, and he had told Canadian tariff policy should be work. of Winnipeg, visited Mrs. Robt. Gard-'Then, and then only," he declared "can we preserve and maintain the true fiscal independence and autonomy of the Canadian nation. And above that let us take no steps which may weaken or imperil the ties which unite us to our world-wide empire, dowered with the imperishable mem ories of a glorious past and crowned with the confidence and hope for still more splendid future.

"Our strong determination," he de clared, "is to preserve our freedom of action and thus to work out our des tiny, which, affirmed here by our own voice and along our own lines, wil most assuredly win the respect of ou inspiring example." That the nation al appeal was stronger than the cita tion of figures regarding prices and profits, spurious speculations and the like, was manifested by the oft-recurring applause that greeted every reference to the development of Canadian type.

"If we are to follow the laws of nature and geography between Canada and the United States, the whole trade would flow south to north, and from north to south. We have done every thing possible by building canals and subsidizing railways to bring the trade from west to east and east to west so as to bring trade into British dyke. channels. All this we have done, recognizing the principle of the great advantage of forcing trade within the British Empire. There is no boundar; line except a purely conventional one over the whole territory of North America. Their habits are the same as ours, and therefore we are induced to trade and cannot help it by th force of nature. But so far as legis lation can influence trade, we have done everything possible to push our trade towards the British people a against the American people.

"There was a time when we wanted reciprocity with the United States but our efforts and our offers were put aside. We have said good-bye to that trade, and we now put all our hopes ? upon the British trade

"Does the Prime Minister also realize that twelve foreign nations with dred millions and an enormous pro duction of agricultural and animal products will also have access to the free Canadian market. Canada wili receive no reciprocal advantages from these countries; and the United States producer will not be exposed to the same competition.

"If Canada can be neutral when Great Britain is attacked," he said discussing the navy, "why cannot Britain be neutral when Canada is at-

Wm. Gray, president of the London Conservative Association, was in the chair. He spoke briefly, directing attention to the dominant move before the country. Major Beattie spoke briefly.

A warm reception was accorded to Hon. Adam Beck. Mr. Beck did not trespass at length upon the time of the audience, but he felt he would not be doing his duty as a Conservative and a representative of the City of London if he did not come forward and lend his hand to help Mr. Borden in the fight against reciprocity. The Conservative leader was able to rise sicvo party bias and deal with such questions on a statesmanlike basis.

ANNEXATION TRASH

Governor White, of West Virginia,

expressed himself very enphatically at Montreal the other day: "There is not enough annexation spirit in the United States," he said, "to wad a shot gun. We are not interested in annexation. This twentieth century belongs to the Canadians for development, and we say to you, 'God bless you, and God speed you.' Nothing would please us better than to see Canada grow, so that in this century she is in population and wealth, and is the people of the Anglo-Saxon and kindred bloods that have got to stand back to back, shoulder to shoulder, and hand in hand, when the great problems of the coming century, the dominion and control the world, have to be faced."
