Fine Display of Floriculture

Large Numbers View the Horticultural Exhibits

The horticultural society school o mpetition was held Thursday afternoon and evening in the town hall and the beautiful floral display attracted large numbers.

Aster seeds were distributed by the society to the pupils of the different schools. There were awarded in each school for the best individual bunch of six blooms grown by any scholar from the seeds distributed, a first, second and third prize.

The young people were in evidence at the evening exhibit and the display was so arranged in the centra of the hall as to afford a splendid opportunity for inspection.

This is the second competition of this nature held by the local, hortioultural society and the idea is beautiful one. The instilling into the minds of the youth the study of floral culture is to be commended | plainant in the face. Victoria Road Case McNaney Fined

Found Guilty of Keeping Liquor on His Premises for Sale

Mr. F. D. Moore, K.C., county magistrate, had a busy time of it at Victoria Road Monday, where court was held.

John McNaney, proprietor of temperance house, was charged License Inspector Thornbury with keeping liquor in his possession. Major F. H. Hopkins, B.A., conducted the prosecution, while Mr. L. O'Connor looked after the interests

The c ircumstances in connection with this case were referred to in Saturday's issue. Samples of the liquor were taken by the inspector, and sent to the government inspector and the results of his inspection were presented at the court as previously

The defence contended that it was all a mistake. McNaney, it was stated, had sold out to a man named Raymond, who refused to take over the liquor in question, claiming was "soft stuff." In the meantime Raymond disposed of the businessagain to McNaney, and the case of liquor was handed over. The stock list they had taken, they declared, was lost. The magistrate found Mc Naney guilty and imposed a fine of $25.00 and costs, amounting in all to $34.35. The consignment of liquor was also confiscated, which consisted, all told, of sixty-five bottles. The other case was one in which Chas. Aulton charged Sam Zilby, an Assyrian, with assault. Zilby, it appears, lives near the canal, and during his absence from home the sum of $100 was stolen. The defendant labored under the impression that Aulton knew something of the theft, and when he charged hin with the crime, complainant told him he was a prevaricator. The Assryian resented the insult and struck comaccordingly fined him $2 and costs, conducted the prosecution, and Major F. Holmes Hopkins, B.A., defended
