COMPETITION IN FIELD CROP CORN

Polycygon Independent: Mr. G. A. Bean, of South Oxford, who judged the field crop competition last week, was much pleased with the first and second prize fields, but was not at all satisfied with the others, the growers laboring under entirely mistaken ideas as to cultivation. Experience has demonstrated beyond all question that solid rows of corn will not produce the quantity to be obtained from hills. The moisture required by one stalk, when divided among four stalks, leaves them wilted to death. Corn does not require hilling, that cuts the roots of the corn, which run out sideways, not down. Corn should be planted with ample room both ways for keeping a cultivator running scratching over the surface, and breaking the evaporation of moisture that comes to the surface. Mr. Bean had with him a photograph of his field at home, showing corn that stood 13 feet high on the 70th day from day of planting. At the present time the field of corn is fourteen feet high, and it is necessary to stand a fourteen foot pole beside one to realize the height. When it was eleven feet high he was still keeping the cultivator going, for the weather was dry and he needed to preserve for the corn's growth all the moisture the ground contained. Mr. Bean recommends all growers of corn to visit the fields of Mr. Seymour and Mr. Boyd and ask questions as to their methods of planting and cultivating.

The following are the winners of the prizes: 1st, R. H. Seymour; 2nd, M. Boyd; 3rd, Robt. T. Robertson; 4th, John H. Taylor; 5th, Elmer Long; 6th, C. D. Logan; 7th, Garfield Kennedy.

MANILLA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE SESSION

(Omitted from last week) The regular monthly meeting of the Manilla Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. James Murray on Wednesday afternoon, August 19. The day was such an ideal one, and was such a spacious one that the program by way of variety, was conducted outside.

This together with the fact that the program was given by the ladies of the Manilla Institute, made the meeting particularly interesting one. Our president, Mrs. Sonley, vacated the day which was ably and amiably filled by Miss Leask, vice-president of the Sonya Institute.

The meeting, as on all former occasions, opened in the usual way, the items of interest being a delightful chorus by five girls—Elsie Leask, Margaret Leask, Margaret Denver, Mary when Mrs. Richards and Mary Watson. The program was followed by an excellent main street song "Personal Influence," by Mrs. Chas. E. Dewar. Miss Sadie Richards and Miss Elsie Leask then sang a duet in a very pleasant manner, followed by Miss Clarkson gave an instructive paper on "Baths." Miss Clarkson seemed full of her subject.

She confirmed her ideas, Mrs. McEwen rose, and in her usual way, gave a few practical suggestions on the same subject.

After the program, a dainty lunch served by the Manilla ladies, and a vote of thanks was extended to the ladies for such an excellent program.

Finally when all such is over, the ladies hasten away to their respective homes, but on this occasion all seemed loath to leave, and as a consequence an hour or more was spent in card and enjoyable games. Then all departed satisfied and went away apparently and undoubtedly well pleased with the pleasant afternoon they had spent.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. John Trick, where the ladies are requested to take along their pocket books.

WOODVILLE FAIR FINE SUCCESS

An enthusiastic meeting of the Women's Patriotic Society was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of inaugurating a campaign fund to provide for home needs during the coming winter. Mrs. R. M. Beal president, and those present entered heartily into the scheme. It was decided to open the subscription for funds immediately and all citizens will be asked to contribute.

their splendid work on the battle fields of Europe and judging from the generous patronage they received their efforts were rewarded and they will have a goodly sum of money for the good cause. The Woodville band rendered good service during the afternoon, but perhaps the greatest factor in the success of the fair was the good work of the Secretary and the President, ably assisted by a good staff of directors.

The exhibits in the hall were more numerous and of better quality than any previous years, particularly in ladies work, which was up-to-date and a great deal of it cleverly done.

In seeds, grain and vegetables, the showing was also very good, and one could hardly imagine that the township had recently passed through a season of drought.

Eldon is undoubtedly the banner township for good horse flesh. The horse show on Wednesday at Woodville would have made the judges at the late Industrial at Toronto open their eyes. There were some fine drivers shown and in the draft and general purpose class there were some fine animals.

The cattle were well represented in Durhams, Holsteins and Jerseys and one visiting this fair each year cannot but remark on the improvement being made by the farmers in their stock.

The showing of sheep was also good. There were some fine pens shown.

The baseball game between Woodville, Cannington and Sunderland attracted a large crowd and every toss of the ball was watched with the greatest interest. The directors had very thoughtfully provided seats for the spectators, which was very much appreciated. The game was still in progress when The Post man was compelled to leave for home, but Woodville had trimmed Cannington with a good score in their favor and the game between Woodville and Sunderland was still in progress.

PATRIOTIC SOCIETY HELD MEETING FUND OPEN FOR HOME NEEDS

An enthusiastic meeting of the Women's Patriotic Society was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of inaugurating a campaign fund to provide for home needs during the coming winter. TORONTO FAIR FELL BEHIND

Toronto's big fair closed its gates on Saturday with an even break, but no surplus. There was a drop in attendance of 128,000 compared with last year's record.

Adverse causes are very definite. There was the war, the weather and the railway companies, and the greatest of these was the railway companies. Whereas formerly the railway companies started a "single fare" trip from outlying parts to Toronto some time previous to the Exhibition, and kept it going all through the Fair and for some time after, this year these impoverished corporations felt compelled to increase that special fare by thirty-three and one-third per cent. The short two-cent a mile return trip excursion tickets were increased to three cents a mile.

EFFECT OF HIGH RATES It has proved a losing proposition for the railway companies, although it has at the same time marred the brilliant success that this year's Exhibition otherwise would have been. Last year there was not a day of the twelve that the three systems did not bring into Toronto on an average, 80,000 people, two-thirds of whom were additions to ordinary everyday traffic, attracted by the Exhibition and the cheaper travelling rates. This year there was the ordinary traffic and nothing more. Thirty thousand a day has been the highest influx, on any one day. It would appear, therefore, that the railway companies, in vulgar parlance, had bitten off their nose to spite their face.

Concrete instances of how the higher rates effectively stopped the influx from the country are numerous, but one will suffice. A C. P. R. agent in a small Ontario town, is the authority for the statement that last year over 150 people bought tickets for Toronto Exhibition. This year he didn't sell 20 tickets — and the increased railway fare was the sole cause.

WHERE BLAME LIES The management rightly place the bulk of the blame for the decreased attendance on the shoulders of the railways.

The bad weather was undoubtedly a severe drawback to the Fair. Although rain fell on almost as many days last year as this, the effect was not nearly so pronounced. The wet days were spread out over the whole fortnight in 1913, but this year rains fell on each of the first four days, and to make matters worse the weather that followed was unseasonably cold.

Where the Exhibition treasurer's accounts will show the greatest falling off will be in the grandstand receipts. Last year the sixteen thousand capacity enclosure was crowded every night, and on special occasions it was literally packed. This year there is a different story to tell. Possibly the cold weather, of which there has not been a let-up during the whole fortnight, is the cause of the falling off here more than anything else.—Telegram.

Orders from the Dominion and Ontario Governments for an aggregate of 1,250,000 barrels of flour are only the beginning of the increased demand on the flour mills of Canada as a result of the war.

The mobilization of the armies of Europe will result in a large reduction in the acreage sown to wheat in that Continent. That reduction in acreage and consequent reduction in yield will greatly increase the demand for wheat and flour from other producing countries. Canada will find a ready market for all the wheat and flour she can export during the war. The flour mills of Canada will be kept busy grinding Canadian wheat into Canadian flour for export to the Mother Country at this time of trial.

In the home market also there will be an increased demand for flour. The tendency of many will be to use more bread and other staple articles of food instead of some of the luxuries of the table. This will mean an increased consumption of flour. Thus it would appear that the 7000 men who are working in the flour mills of Canada are assured of continued employment throughout the war. It is possible the number of employees in flour mills will have to be increased but even if an increase should be necessary the continued operation of this industry will mean the circulation of approximately four million dollars a year in wages to Canadian workmen.
