The British Flag, but not the British Preference

(From the Globe)

Mr. Borden has given it as his opinion that Sir Wilfrid Laurier instead of giving the British preference freely and frankly should have gone huckstering for it. He is not alone in that opinion. All the protected interests are with him to a man, because they know that the proposal for a preference would be where it was in 1896—in the land of dreams. But it may be asserted with confidence that he and they are in the vast minority. If a plebiscite could be taken of the people of Canada on the subject, the minority on the day after the polling would be looking around for a hole small enough and deep enough to hide in.

If the object is to secure a preference in return, Sir Wilfrid's way is a much more likely way than Mr. Borden's way. It may be asserted with confidence that but for the Canadian preference the subject of preference would never have been heard of in the old land. If Sir Wilfrid had gone across the ocean on a huckstering mission he would probably have offended all parties. As he did go he won general admiration, and now the powerful Conservative party, led by Arthur Balfour, will at the next election in the British Isles go to the country with a preference to the colonies as a plank in its platform.

Would this result have been achieved if Sir Wilfrid had gone dicker for it? There is scarcely a man who knows the British people who will answer that in the affirmative. The word "preference" would have become associated with the idea of "presumption," and it would have been years before Englishmen, Irishmen, and Scotsmen got over the bad taste in their mouths. Given as a free gift, it not only thrilled our kinsmen, but it has also actually rebounded to our advantage, as the following table of our exports to Great Britain since 1896 will show:

1896	.....	$ 62,717,941
1897	.....	69,633,852
1898	.....	93,065,019
1899	.....	85,113,681
1900	.....	96,562,875
1901	.....	92,857,525
1902	.....	109,347,345
1903	.....	125,199,980
1904	.....	110,120,892
1905	.....	97,114,867
1906	.....	127,456,465
1907 (nine months)	.....	98,691,186
1908	.....	126,194,124

Our British fellow-subjects have been giving us a preference, although it is not on the statute book. Mr. Borden would abrogate this preference. And this is the gentleman whose portrait the Mail and Empire prints on the Union Jack. Not above it, or below it, or on either side of it, but right amidst its glorious folds. The flag must feel surprised.

Calls for Retirement of Colonel Hughes

Fenelon Falls Gazette Insists that Sam Keeps His Word

The Fenelon Falls Gazette of last week has the following: A meeting in the interests of Col. Hughes was held at Kilmount one evening last week. In the course of that meeting Col. Hughes stated that if it could be proved that he had ever said in the House of Commons that the people of his constituency were opposed to the proposal to make the regular passenger rate on railways two cents per mile instead of three cents per mile, he would retire from public life. The colonel no doubt thought himself safe, away back in the north country, in saying anything that sounded well, without a fear of its coming to the ears of people who knew better. Col. Sam made a wrong guess that time, however. Anyone who knows anything about parliamentary proceedings is aware that there is a publication called "Hansard," in which is published every word that is spoken in the debates on the floor of the House of Commons of their sayings submitted to them before the speeches are printed for publication. Hansard is, therefore, correct beyond all question, and is never disputed. Referring to Hansard, we find that on July 5, 1906, the question of inserting a clause in the railway bill making the rate for passengers two cents per mile was discussed. On the division Col. Sam Hughes spoke against the two cent rate, and amongst other things, said: "I can speak for the people of Victoria county. . . . The people do not want it." (See debates of the House of Commons of Canada, session 1906, volume 4, column 7109.) At the Kilmount meeting Mr. Jno. Austin drew Col. Hughes' attention to this passage, and called on him to resign. And the colonel answered him never a word! He berewith place the incident before the public, and publicly call on Col. Hughes to retire. He acknowledges the correctness of Hansard, and he cannot deny having made the statement at Kilmount. Now, if he refuse to retire, in accordance with his voluntary promise, he openly and publicly acknowledges himself to be what unbiased observers have long known him to be—an unblushing and deliberate trifier with the truth, and, consequently, an unworthy representative of the honest electors of Victoria and Haliburton.

Stubbs Alias Sloan Dies in the Hospital

Victim of Accident in Lockup Never Regained Conscious - Victim of Drink Habit

Percy Stubbs, or Thos. Sloan, the man who met with the unfortunate accident in the police court cells on Wednesday evening, died at the Ross Memorial hospital Thursday evening between four and five o'clock, never having regained consciousness. Death was caused by a fracture of the skull, followed by hemorrhage of the brain. Dr. Blanchard, coroner, was notified, who consulted County Crown Attorney Devlin, but that official did not deem an inquest necessary. The story of the sad accident which resulted in the man's death is as follows:—On Wednesday evening Constable Shortt was summoned to the Pym house to arrest Stubbs, who was reported to be drunk and disorderly. The officer arrested the man and brought him to the cells. On his way down the steps Stubbs became unruly and caught the railing which runs the length of the entrance to the cells. Constable Shortt pulled the man away and drew him into the cell. The interior was in darkness, and the officer in trying to turn on the light, found that it had been tampered with. At this juncture he heard (but did not see) Stubbs fall heavily to the floor. Two citizens entered the cell, and one of them repaired the light. Stubbs was discovered lying on his back, bleeding profusely from a wound in the head. Constable Shortt at once summoned Dr. McAlpine, who attended to the man's injuries. He was removed to the hospital, and Dr. Brown, who attended him, found that the man's skull was fractured, and he was also suffering from a hemorrhage of the brain.

The deceased was well known by many citizens. He at one time boarded at the Moore house, and those who were acquainted with him say that he was harmless and inoffensive when he left liquor alone. He is said to be a Scotchman by birth and of good parentage, and has no relations in this country. For the past few years he has worked as a farm laborer, and was up to the time of his death employed by Mr. Percy Houghton, lot 12, con. 2, Ops. The unfortunate man had a good education, and was an entertaining conversationalist. He had a weakness, however, for strong drink, and appeared in the local police court a few weeks ago.
