HON. MR. STRATTON'S NEW GROOM SON-IN-LAW OF TAMMANY BOSS

New York, Oct. 25.—Joh J. Breen, who last spring startled New York society by eloping with Miss Ethel Croker, daughter of Richard Croker, the former Tammany boss, and who ever since has been separated from his bride, announced last night that he will leave New York to-day of Peterboro, Ont., where he has accepted a position as head groom for the Hon. J. R. Stratton, M. P.

Breen also announced that his wife, who is now with her mother in Paris will return to New York in a month and proceed to Canada to live with him in his new home.

In making the double announcement of reconciliation and expatriation, Breen has again brought to the front the story of his romantic courtship, when as head groom for the millionaire Schwartz brothers, he frequently escorted the pretty daughter of the erstwhile Tammany chieftain on numerous gallops around the bridge paths of Central Park. The marriage ceremony was performed by a justice of the peace at Ithaca.

"My wife and I," said Breen last night, "will have a re-union at the pier when she returns to America, and go to together to our new home. I am just as good as the Crokers. In my new home in that ideal Canadian country Mrs. Breen and I will have the opportunity to enjoy our beloved sport of horseback riding. We will not be far from Toronto and can frequently run into that city."

"I landed a poor immigrant, but through faithful work for my first employer, soon found the chance to advance, and advance I did, until, as head groom for the Schwartz boys, I met the woman I love. Then I began to think of something other than my work. Miss Croker reciprocated my affection, and last winter promised to be my wife. Our troth were pledged one chilly day as the hoofs of our steeds clattered over the frozen bridge paths."

DURHAM ST. HAD AN EXCITING RUNAWAY-- VERY LITTLE DAMAGE

(From Wednesday's Evening Post)

An exciting runaway occurred in the south ward yesterday afternoon, and, strange to say very little damage resulted. Mr. Dick O'Neil driver for the Carew Lumber Co., was driving a team of colts attached to a load of lumber along Durham street when the animals became frightened at a whistle from a locomotive and bolted.

Now there is a jog in the street but the horses in their madcap pace paid little attention to this fact and ran through Mrs. Werry's gate on to her lawn colliding with some of the trees and barking them. Mr. Cuthbert driver for A. J. Campbell, happened along and he assisted Mr. O'Neil in getting the horses' out of road. Once more they acted badly and in their efforts to get away one of them got its leg over the pole.

Finally the team landed in the ditch, and one horse on top of another, with the heavily loaded wagon. Finally Mr. Cuthbert happened along again and both he and Mr. O'Neil worked strenuously until they extricated the animals from their perilous position.

The most remarkable feature of the accident is that the horses passed through it practically unscathed while Mr. O'Neil only sustained a few scratches. A heavier team was sent from the John Carew stables to haul the wagon out of the ditch.

LOVE LAUGHS AT AIRSHIPS CUPID OUTSCORES DE LESSEPS

In yesterday's issue The Post published a dispatch from New York to the effect that Miss Grace Mackenzie of Kirkfield, accompanied Count de Lesseps, the great aviator, in one of his sensational flights.

To this young lady, daughter of Mr. William Mackenzie, president of the Toronto Street Railway, President of the Canadian Northern Railway, and multi-millionaire, of Toronto, belongs the distinction of being the first Canadian lady to take a trip in an air ship. She is the first lady to venture the dangers that make men shudder, and probably the first woman in the world to take a trip with Count de Lesseps, the famous aviator.

Miss Mackenzie had met the Count abroad, and on the occasion of the Count's visit to Toronto at the time of the aviation meet in the summer-time, the Count and his party were the guests of Mr. Mackenzie. The Count, it will be remembered, visited Sturgeon Point this summer with the Mackenzie party.

Count de Lesseps went to Toronto on Thursday last and was the guest at the mansion on the Avenue Road Hill, "Benvenue" the Toronto residence of Mr. William Mackenzie, and when he came to New York on Saturday, he did so in the private car of the Mackenzies.

The Count has been a special favorite wherever he has appeared, either in Europe or America, and with Miss Mackenzie, he yesterday afternoon went around the short course, 2 1/2 kilometers, three times, amid the heartiest applause that any aviator has ever received here.

Miss Grace Mackenzie is the first woman to be honored by Count de Lesseps with a ride in his celebrated airship. He has been offered large sums of money to tempt him by men who revel in wealth, but he would never consent.

A despatch from New York also states that according to Dame Rumor Miss Mackenzie is engaged to be married to the sky pilot.

The aviator made two laps of the course at a height of sixty feet, the fair passenger waving her hand toward the crowd. She appeared to be thoroughly enjoying her trip with the nobleman, having taken a flight yesterday in the same craft.

DRRESSED IN BLUE JEANS

De Lesseps wore the same aviation costumes of blue jeans as he did in his sensational Toronto flight from the Aviation Park at Weston in the summer. Miss Mackenzie was dressed in a long, loose brown polo coat used by drivers in automobile races.

De Lesseps made another flight carrying Mrs. Mary Beardmore, of Toronto. After he alighted he again ascended, this time with Miss Ethel Mackenzie, sister of the first passenger.

Regarding the rumored engagement of the French Count to Miss Mackenzie, no confirmation could be secured as the entire Mackenzie family were absent from the city, Mr. and Mrs. William Mackenzie being in the west, while Miss Mackenzie, Miss Ethel Miss Grace, and their sister, Mrs. William Beardmore, with Mr. Beardmore, are in New York.

BELIEVE ENGAGEMENT POSSIBLE.

Color is given to the rumor, however, in many quarters, where the family affairs of the Mackenzies are to a degree familiar. Count de Lesseps, it will be remembered, remained at the beautiful home of the Canadian Northern's president, while engaged at the West aviation grounds last July.

LIONIZED THE COUNT.

De Lesseps at that time was lionized socially, attending many affairs during his brief visit, and rapidly becoming a great favorite. Miss Grace Mackenzie was at a great many of these functions, and was at home during the time of the Count's stay.

"MAY OR MAY NOT BE."

Mrs. Meagher, of Lindsay, a sister of Mrs. Mackenzie, was spoken to regarding the story of Miss Mackenzie's engagement to the aviator.

"I cannot see how it can be true—not yet," said Mrs. Meagher, "but of course I can give no information what ever regarding the family, for I really do not know anything about the affair. As far as I am concerned it may be true and it may not be."

STORY SEEMED PLAUSIBLE

Those associated in an intimate business way with Mr. Mackenzie confessed that they had heard nothing of the purported engagement, although several admitted that the story was quite plausible.

Count de Lesseps is accounted quite wealthy in his own right, and belongs to a long established French family of distinguished lineage. He is a grandson of the famous Count de Lesseps, the engineer of the Suez canal, who attempted to carry through the Panama canal with the French capital. His residence is in Paris.

Mrs. Geo. Brown and daughter,

Ed. Jardine Under Arrest End of Goderich Inquest

(Special to The Post)

Goderich, Ont., Oct. 26.—The Anderson murder inquest was concluded at noon to-day. The jury returned after being out half an hour, with a verdict that Lizzie Anderson came to her death from a sharp instrument in the hands of an "unknown" person. The evidence, however, pointed strongly to Edward Jardine. Jardine was arrested immediately after the verdict was given.

It was on the morning of September 20, that seventeen-year-old Elizabeth Jane Anderson went up from her home at the Old Lasham Hotel in Saltford, where she had lived quietly with her father, brother and young sister, to the Northwest County Fair at Goderich and five days later her father, Wesley Anderson, found her remains in the cellar of an old tumble-down, untenanted house near the fair grounds.

ED JARDINE Who gives the lie to all those whose evidence in the Goderich murder inquest, in any way reflects on him.
