Jottings From Fenelon Falls

(Special to The Post)

The meeting was opened in the usual manner by Mrs. gave a very interesting and instructive address on the care of the teeth hurled at the window, which would attention to the teeth of the child, if the permanent teeth are to be fect. The idea is prevalent that th temporary teeth of the child are not worth filling if decayed because nev ones will come to replace them, and that they are not worth caring for.

This idea is almost universal, a ten causes a great deal of trouble with the teeth afterwards. The necessity of keeping the teeth clean, and brushing away from the gums, instead of tpwards them, thereby causing the particles of food to lodge between the teeth, was also emphasized. A great factor in the care and preserva. tion of the teetn is to have a periodical examination and at the earliest manifestation of decay have them attended to, thus saving much pain from toothache, and eventually the loss of the teeth. To retain the netural teeth as long as possible should As announced in the Post a few days be the aim of everyone.
