Nationalist Paper Declares That Both Parties In Britain Will Unite to Attend to Ireland's Claims-The Unionists May Not Provoke a General Election on Coronation Year-Lords to Reform.

Dublin, Nov. 7 .- The Evening Herald, a Nationalist organ, professed Saturday to have learned from an authoritative source that the members of the conference of the Government and the Opposition over constitutional questions have reached a compromise regarding the House of Lords, and that the Unionst leaders have agreed to support the Government until the latter has had full opportunity to frame a plan for the settlement of Irish matters.

Agreement Reached. London, Nov. 7 .- The crisis of the constitutional conference has been reached. Twenty meetings have been held, and an approach to an agree. ment has been made. Polish Woman Has a Hard Job Joining Her Husband.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 7.-Mrs. Marie Wallenstein, with one baby in her arms and about to become the mother of another, went into hysterics here yesterday morning, when she was told by an immigration inspector that she could not enter Canada. The woman, who is a Pole, and who could understand only little English, had come from Newcastle, Pa., was on her way to Belleville, at which place she said her husband was employed as a laborer. The woman had no money. With her was her husband's brother, Ivan, who was also almost penniless. When stopped by the inspector, Mrs. Wallenstein was asked to produce proof that her husband, whom she said had crossed the border into Canada only three weeks ago, was in the Dominion. This she seemed unable to do to the satisfaction of the inspector, so the mother and child were ordered taken back to Pennsylvania by the official. The forlorn little party made a sad group as they waited for the train, and the child cried lustily at noon, till the station policeman got it some dinner. Yesterday afternoon the woman rummaged through her bandanna bundle and found several letters from her husband. She presented these to the inspector, who considered them sufficiently evidence to warrant admitting her to the country, so he stretched a point and allowed the little group to go to Belleville.

Owing to an all-day rain, the total vote was under eleven hundred, out of a possible twenty-four thousand electors enrolled, and the bylaw was defeated by the narrow margin of six votes. As a result of the small vote the question will likely be re-submitted to the electors in the January municipal elections, when electors may be asked to choose between a board of control and a commission form of civic government.
