DEVELOPMENT OF NEW ONTARIO

Mr. Weeks desired to be sent back for another four years. The speech of the candidate, Dr. Vrooman, was also touched upon. Mr. Weeks said he was a personal friend of the man, and if even he could speak ill of him, he would not, and desired to see that nothing ill could be said of him. He said, however, that he was in accord with the platform and policy of his leader and asked the electors to send him to Toronto to be a member of the Legislative log. What was required was a strong man with the ability of his own, and in Mr. Weeks he found a gentleman, who was not to be distinguished between class and common—had a clean record. In fact, he had done anything to bring discredit upon himself or the riding, of which he was a popular and respected member.

THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE

Mr. C. E. Weeks was given an ovation when he arose to speak. In opening he said he was almost pleased to be here and the people knew him well, they would hardly believe anything said in his favor by the Chairman. He was pleased to have the opportunity to greet a large audience and again plead his case to ask the electors as a vote to decide between Dr. Vrooman and himself and to give a favorable report on Dec. 11th. He held the same view that he held on the occasion of his last visit. He believed in democracy and had the courage of his convictions and was standing by them even if the fire of the enemy concentrated on them. He expected to hear very favorable reports on Dec. 11th. He was fair for the Liberal party, and Mr. Weeks, that their views and opinions should not find fair and adequate representation in the Ontario House? It was not fair to the Conservative party to be allowed to become so intoxicated with power that they forgot to be civil. Do you think that in a House of 105 members that thirty Liberals would seriously affect the Government? Is not the Government able to take care of itself? It is a question of doing a fair thing by the Liberal party and also strengthening the opposition in the House.

Mr. Weeks, as in his previous speech, argued it was not a good thing to have the same party in power at Toronto and Ottawa, and instanced the Boundary Award question as proof of his contentions. It was the bounden duty of the electors to send a strong, alert, active, watchful, Liberal contingent to prod and watch the government. The still unsettled boundary question between Ontario and Manitoba called for a stiff opposition in order to stiffen the backs of the government in relation to the question.

Mr. Weeks, in referring to the three-fifths clause characterized it as unfair, unwise and unBritish. The British constitution recognized the equality of every man, but this unquitting legislation contravenes this principle, and upon that broad principle of equality it was the introduction of a pernicious principle.

Mr. Weeks next touched upon the school question and reiterated the views given at a previous meeting. The model school was a poor man's university. Premier Whitney says that in order to meet the dearth of teachers as a result of their abolition, he would refuse to grant a certificate until a teacher had taught a year or two in the province. You know too well, said Mr. Weeks, the temper of our people to believe they would submit to that, but assuming that you could find some teachers, willing to accept these conditions what kind of teaching would your children receive from the teachers teaching against their will? The proposal was silly and childish. The only reasonable way to meet the difficulty was to restore at least some of the model schools so that prospective teachers can find if they have the necessary aptitude to follow the profession. Sir James Whitney, because of his egotism and the adulation he has received from the people, does not think he could make a mistake. If he had admitted that he had, it would be a confession of his weakness. Mr. Weeks contended that a rudimentary education was not all that was necessary. Habits and discipline and obedience as well as the formation of character were strong essentials and a teacher not trained to the importance of these things, was deficient.

In dealing with bilingual schools, Mr. Weeks said that Premier Whitney had referred to Mr. Rowell's indefiniteness on the question and further stated that any man who was not prepared to present a clear cut, definite statement on public questions was a public fool. If Mr. Whitney was measured by that yardstick, where would he stand? He takes no stand on this question. He declares there are no bilingual schools, but the evil does exist and the English language does not receive its rightful place. It was the bounden duty of the electors to send to Toronto an increased number of Liberals to express the people's displeasure. Sir James would be held in the balance by the people and found wanting. If you return him to power with the same support what is the interference he will draw? It will be "The people are satisfied with the bilingual schools, and we will leave them alone."

Mr. Weeks next took up the subject of the development of New Ontario. The Liberal policy calls for activity and enterprise where there is now lethargy and stagnation. The Whitney Administration, in his opinion, had failed utterly in its appreciation of its responsibilities and opportunities in regard to this section of the province. The Government had done nothing to stem the tide of immigration going to the West with a view of developing its wonderful resources. The Toronto Telegram had referred to the policy of the Administration as Rip Van Winkleism. Premier Whitney also had failed to keep his pledge in regard to granting subsidies to railways. In spite of his pledges, he had granted the C.N.R. a land grant of two million acres without any conditions being made that the pulp thereon should be manufactured in Canada.

The railways in this province are only taxed $90 a mile, whereas in the States of the American Union, the railways are paying $400 to $450 a mile. The Liberal platform proposes to apply precisely the same system of taxation to the property of a railroad Company that is applied to a private citizen. The railroads should not be put in a favorable class.

In conclusion, Mr. Weeks said he wished to appeal to the electors for support on the general principles of public policy on the planks of the Liberal platform and personnel of their leader. "You know something of the man, he is not a stranger. For twenty years he has been a public citizen, and has done much to improve the moral, social and industrial conditions of the people. He did not require any eulogy, as he was one of the foremost laymen of the missionary movement in the country."

I thank you for your patient hearing and in the interests of unity, fair play and reform send a strong contingent of Liberals to Toronto. You place me under a deep debt of gratitude if you give me sufficient votes to make my election sure. You place a burden of debt on my shoulders and I will do my level best to repay that debt in full.

Mr. Weeks was loudly applauded at the close.

CYRIL P. YOUNG, Mayor of Haileybury, on rising to speak, received a splendid ovation from the audience. He showed by his remarks that he fully understands Ontario's north land, and that he realizes the great future there is in store for that part of the Province. The policy of the present Government was strongly criticized in regard to the development of the resources of Northern Ontario. In referring to the new leader of the Liberal party in Ontario the speaker said that he believed that Mr. Rowell had gone into politics from a high motive. He entered the arena at the call of duty, and at the call of his country.

The speaker said that he had spoken on both sides of politics—he believed nearly every good man did at some time in his history. There are good men in both parties. It is the men who are in the parties who reach a lower basis—not the party. The Conservatives in this room to-night need not expect to hear from me any harsh criticisms. Haughton Lennox (a Conservative M.P.) speaking at Newmarket, said of me: "Whatever Mr. Young says, I believe it will be the truth."

The speaker said he was pleased to have the privilege of addressing Southern audiences on behalf of the Northern section of the Province. Mr. Young is a member of the Toronto Board of Trade and said that that organization realized the necessity for a policy of progress and development for the North.

He referred to the early growth of the Southern part of Ontario. "When I think of all this, I do hope that the French and English races will not be disrupted by the bi-lingual school question."

"Far to the North, separated from this section by an imaginary line, extending in the neighborhood of North Bay, lies a land which, in my opinion, is the richest country on the earth. What we require in that country for its development, is, first, a good leader, and second, men that will help him to carry out his policy. "In spite of the 16,000,000 acres of land in the clay belt of the North, why do people go West? First, because the land is already cleared ready to farm. Second, because of the publicity this country is receiving. Third, because they get money to run their farms on a larger scale. "Be very careful that the wheat of the Western Provinces does not go through the Panama Canal. The Toronto Board of Trade is very anxious to develop a home market. We in the North wish you people in the South to join hands with us in the development of Northern Ontario. What are we going to do to offset the trend of Western immigration? I believe that the Rowell platform will form the basis of the development of New Ontario. I believe there is a movement on foot that will tend to keep Ontario where she is in the position of the Banner Province of the Dominion.

"We find that the settler is a man who has not enough money to enable him to remain on his farm the entire year. It would be money well spent to loan him a few dollars until he becomes firmly established. When going into the country the settler has to carry his goods on his back in many cases because there are no roads. It would be good policy to build roads in advance of settlement. The people of the South have bonded the Province for the development of the Hydro-Electric. We are not kicking—go and do it. But when we provide three and a half millions of the revenue of eight millions, is it not fair that that amount at least should be spent on us? As a Northern man I am sorry that the Premier saw fit to put this sentence in his manifesto. "The only result of the increase in population in New Ontario is an added cost of running the affairs of the section of the country." There were 1300 new settlers in the Ontario clay belt last year and $70,000 to the West. As Liberals and Conservatives, you should endeavour to keep this Ontario of ours in the front rank.

"Two million acres of land were given to McKenzie and Mann. I do not believe that it should have been given to them. If there was no other issue in this election than that, when you go into the polling booth you would know how to mark your ballot. "In several departments of the Government reports are pending. They may come in after the election or they may not—but they won't come before. Did you ever see such a platform of questions? "Premier Whitney is wondering, and he has reason to wonder, as to whether or not Premier Roblin has not beat him out in getting a port on Hudson Bay. The people of the South do not realize as do those of the North, the great necessity for a port on Hudson Bay. Sir James does not realize it himself. "The Government owned railway is being used and has been used as a means of inducing people to vote Conservative. Promises are made that if the Conservatives are returned to power, certain switches in different towns will be built. Last September it was promised that if the Conservatives were returned to power a railroad would be built from Sudbury to Porcupine, Cobalt, Englehart, New Liskeard and Haileybury are all anxious to be the country seat of a new district which is going to be formed. Last election this plum was dangled over the heads of the electors, and this election it is being worked again. "Northern Ontario is being settled by French, who make good citizens,

GRAIN CARS ARE ARRIVING

The grain cars are commencing to move over the Georgian Bay & Seaboard line to Victoria Harbor. A large number arrived in town last night at the local yards and it is thought the grain will start to move before many days.

Miss Margaret Cunningham, trained nurse at St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, is visiting her parents in Ops township.

Mr. Herman Wicks' sale last Tuesday was a very good success, though it rained all day, every yard turned out, and things went at good prices.
