TO THE TOMB

THE LATE MRS. P. MURPHY.

All that was mortal of the remains of the late Mrs. P. Murphy were laid to rest beside those of her husband in the Roman Catholic cemetery this morning. Requiem mass was first chanted at St. Mary's church by Monsignor Casey in the presence of a large congregation from all parts of the district. The pallbearers were Senator McHugh, and Messrs. P. Clancy, M. Moriarty, A. Tims, Thos. Brady, Dennis Fitzpatrick, et al.

The services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Father Ferguson. Inside the sanctuary at the requiem mass were Rev. Fathers McGuire, of Downeyville, and Guiry, of Kinmount.

The funeral cortege was one of the longest seen in years.

THE LATE MRS. A. BRANDON.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Andrew Brandon took place yesterday afternoon at 2.30 from the residence of her son, Mr. M. W. Brandon, Fenelon Falls. The obsequies were attended by a large gathering of relatives, friends and acquaintances; interment was made in Fenelon Falls Cemetery.

Deceased lady was all but a lifelong resident of Fenelon Falls, having made her home there in the early years of her marriage, when she came from Ireland to this country with her husband, the late Mr. Andrew Brandon, by whom she was predeceased many years ago.

The late Mrs. Brandon is survived by two sons, Mr. J. H. and Mr. M. W. Brandon, both of Fenelon Falls, and one daughter, Mrs. W. H. Robertson, Peterboro. Deceased lady was an earnest and consistent member of the Presbyterian faith.

On Dec. 2nd a dance took place at the home of Mr. Joseph Henderson who lives about three miles from this village. A good time was spent, though the storm prevented many from going.

"THANK GOD, MY SISTER IS SAVED"

Peterboro, Dec. 5.—Lawrence Pammett, twelve-year-old son of Robert J. Pammett, 272 Euclid avenue, was drowned today when skating on the canal. Though in the water less than five minutes, life was extinct when he was pulled out. A sister, ten years old, who was with him, barely missed sharing a similar death, she being rescued in the nick of time. "Thank God, my sister is saved" were his last words.

Pammett and his sister went skating this morning on the canal, about one hundred yards above the bridge on the Warsaw road. There is a boat moored at this spot, around which the ice was very thin and unsafe. The water is about seven feet deep. The two children were alone and were apparently ignorant of the peril they were incurring when skating in that vicinity. The worst happened when both suddenly went through into the icy water.

Their cries attracted attention from three men nearby, named Albert Curtis, L. Kemp and Samuel Edwards, who rushed to the rescue. Though they worked in imminent danger to themselves, they managed to pull the little girl out first, comparatively uninjured save for the cold shock. But the boy was not secured for almost five minutes, and when Dr. Brown arrived about fifteen minutes later he pronounced him extinct. He believed the shock of the cold water had affected the boy's heart and contributed to his death.

After being pulled out, the boy was carried to the home of Mr. Edwards, and aid summoned by telephone. No attempt to resuscitate him was made on the doctor's arrival, because no heart action was going on.

Sincere sympathy will be extended to the bereaved parents. Mr. Pammett is head chef on the Trent canal yacht "Bessie Butler." There is a large family, and to make the circumstances even sadder, it is learned that Mrs. Pammett is very ill.

VERULAM RESIDENT WITH A RECORD

Mr. Alex Dunseath, the veteran assessor for the township of Verulam, was in rearing his subscription to the Gazette the other day. He is still hale and hearty at the age of 76 years and able to perform a day's work that would do many a young man credit. This year he again did all the ploughing alone of his fifty acres. He has assessed the township for twenty-seven years, and holds the record for the small number of appeals against his valuations. His old horse, Tom, that he drove for twenty-three years, died some time ago, and a new horse which he calls Orange Billy now takes him around on his assessing trips.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

BIG FALLING OFF IN REVENUE

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 4.—The Dominion financial statement for the first eight months of the fiscal year, including November shows a decided falling off in revenue as compared with the same period last year.

The revenue for eight months was $90,468,002, which is about $24,000,000 decline from the same period last year.

KINMOUNT

(Special to The Post.) The snow has all gone and every one has to take to the buggies again. We have had some beautiful weather and plowing has started again.

The many friends of Mrs. Harry Hopkins are pleased to hear that she has returned home after being in Peterboro many weeks very ill.

The annual bazaar of the Presbyterian Church is to take place on Dec. 12. The bazaar will open about 1.30 p.m. and hot supper will be served from 4.30 p.m. until 8 o'clock.

The Foresters intend having their first At Home of this season on the evening of Dec. 11th. Tickets have already been issued.

QUESTION OF SOLDIER'S SALARIES

Contrary to a widespread belief, the number of Toronto volunteers whose wages or salaries are being contributed by their employers during the period of their patriotic service is remarkably small. Only 121 men out of 3,842 enlisted and now at the front are enjoying "salaries as usual," so far as the officials of the Patriotic Fund are aware. There may be a number of other instances in which men have had their regular pay promised to their families or other dependents, which might not be reported to the Fund. Perhaps a fairer way to compute the figures would be to take the number of families, 1,513, now receiving aid from the Fund. In addition to that number, there are 121 families or dependents receiving the wages or salaries formerly paid to the head of the household. The balance of the Toronto recruits, about 2,200, are single men without mothers or other relatives depending upon them and have no special need of regular income above their army pay.

At the first hint of recruiting, immediately after the declaration of war, it was a commonly accepted belief that men who left regular jobs to go to the front would have their incomes turned over to their families during their absence. This has not worked out, by any means. In the first place, relatively few employers promised any such thing, and, again, few could possibly have carried out an obligation so serious particularly in times of dull business. One might estimate the consequences, for instance, had a firm like the Massey-Harris pledged themselves to pay the regular wages of all employees who cared to enlist.

THOSE WHO ARE DOING IT.

According to the statement of the director of the Fund, in an interview with The Star Weekly, the corporations maintaining salaries of enlistees are the Ontario Government, the Hydro-Electric Commission, the Consumers' Gas Company, the T. Eaton Company, the Robert Simpson Company, and a few others. These bodies have undertaken to pay full wages or salaries to the families of married men during their absence at the front, and half wages or salaries to the single men. The railway and express companies did not go quite so far, binding themselves to look after the married and single recruits only half pay for a period of six months. In all these instances, the pay checks are despatched to the proper recipients with painstaking regularity, and the families have been assured of every care and attention.

The Canadian banks have had no common plan in dealing with the scores of their officers who enlist for foreign service. Each bank has dealt with its men according to its ability or desires. One of the larger institutions, for instance, allowed all absentees full salary, but felt obliged to restrict the period of payment to six months, which may be extended according to the directors' judgment. While it may appear a simple matter to guarantee the salary of absent workers, one bank found it an impossible piece of policy inasmuch as staffs of branches and head office were being rapidly reduced of efficient members while the salary expenditure remained the same. In this particular instance the bank learned that many of its men in training were drawing fairly good military pay plus their bank salaries. This was adjudicated by reducing the bank's contributions so that the total income of any officer or private was not in excess of the regular bank salary.

ARM BROKEN BY A KICK

Mr. Leslie Rutherford, of Powles Corner, met with an accident last week, having one of his arms broken by a kick from one of the horses he was driving to Fenelon Falls. Dr. G. C. Graham attended the injury. About three years ago Leslie had an arm broken playing football.

MAJOR EARCHMAN VISITS LINDSAY

Major Earchman, who is well known in Lindsay, having been on the staff of resident C.P.R. engineers during the construction of the Georgian Bay & Seaboard Railway, is renewing acquaintances in town.

Major Earchman has been stationed at Indian Head for some time on survey work for the Hudson Bay Railway. He answered the call for Canadian volunteers, resigned his position, and enlisted for the front.

Major Earchman was attached to the 34th Regiment with the rank of Captain, but he secured the rank of Major, and is attached to the 4th Co. of the 20th Regiment. His many friends in town extended him a warm welcome.

REDUCTION IN FIRE LOSSES

As the Fire Inspection Department of the Dominion Railway Commission was not organized until the month of June, the railway fire statistics for Canada for the season 1912 are not complete. Figures are, however, available for all except the spring fires of 1912. The entire season of 1913 was covered, but the reports for 1914 have not yet been received from the field.

To give a general view of the situation in Western Canada in 1912 and 1913, the statistics of the Canadian Pacific Western Lines, Canadian Northern, Grand Trunk Pacific and Great Northern Railways have been combined. These four lines include practically all the railway mileage in western Canada.

The total number of fires reported as having started within 300 feet of the railway track was 196 in 1912, and 362 in 1913. Of these, in 1912, 160, or 82 per cent, were reported as having been started by trains, while in 1913, 295 fires, or 64 per cent, of the total for that year were reported as having been due to that cause. While the total number of fires reported in 1913 was greater than in 1912, the area burnt over was less; the figure for 1912 was 25,008 acres and for 1913 only 2,360 acres. The total area burnt in 1913 was thus only 9.4 per cent, of the area burned in 1912, showing a great improvement over that of 1912. There was a material reduction in the percentage of fires caused by trains as well as in the total area burned and value of property destroyed.

While the figures of 1914 are not available, it is known in a general way that there has been continued improvement in the railway fire situation, due to the increasing efficiency of organization of the railway companies on the one hand and the Fire Inspection Department of the Railway Board on the other, in the handling of this work.—C. CHRISTMAS CHEER FOR OLD COUNTRY

Christmas is no time of leisure or miles for express and post office employees. Already they are feeling the first throbs of the approaching rush of mail, parcels and gifts going to loved ones.

This year, Salisbury Plain is going to be the Mecca for most Christmas gifts, from all indications. The friends of the soldiers are hourly inquiring at the express offices and the post office how and when to send parcels so that they will reach the soldiers by Christmas.

All persons who intend sending gifts to the soldiers in England should have them in the express or post office not later than December 4. It is preferable to have them in by December 10, but in any event by December 14, the earlier the better.

All parcels going to the soldiers will of course require charges to be either prepaid or else have charges guaranteed. Parcels do not go free because intended for the soldiers, as some think.
