LATE OF PETERBORO.

Despite the bitter cold St. Mary's church was crowded on Sunday at high mass, the parishioners being anxious to see and hear their new pastor, Venerable Archdeacon Casey, who arrived from Peterboro Saturday morning. They saw a man of flecks of age, a fresh healthy they heard a clear, resonant voice make an earnest appeal for co-operation in carrying on the work becutad with vigor by the late Mgr. Laurent, whom the speaker resemled somewhat as he stood on the altar.

After prayers for the sick of the congregation Archdeacon Casey read His Lordship Bishop O'Connor's warrant and then spoke as follows; My dear Brethren,-The appointment of a priest to a parish is in the hands of the Bishop of the diocese, in accordance with the sanctions of the Head of the Church, Jesus Christ. I have come to you in obedience to the Bishop's command to offer up the holy sacrifice of the mass for your benefit and to pray and labor for your sanctification. I desire with all my heart to do all I can for your welfare-especially your spiritual welfare. I have served many years in the priesthood and come here to continue that service in your behalf, and perhaps my bones may yet rest with those of the good priests who have served you and passed to their reward. I know something of your loyalty, generosity and practical plety as a congregation. I have heard of the good work of Father Stafford and of that good priest, your late pastor, Mgr. Laurent, and I ask your co-operation and prayers so that I may also be able to do a good work in your midst. The blassing of God will attend us in our endeavors if we seek His aid. I thank you heartily for exist between pastor and people.

. Archieacon Casey's instruction was based on the gospel for the second Sunday after Epiphany, John II. 1-11. describing Jesus' first miracle at the marriage feast in Cana of Galilee. Taking the words, "And the wine failing, the mother of Jesus saith to him, They have no wine. And Jesus saith to her, Woman, what is it to me and to thee? my hour is not yet come," the rev. gentleman proceeded; All of us have just commenced a new year-in my case the first as your pastor. Your former beloved pastor has gone to his reward-his hour came. All things pass away-time is short for all of us, and we cannot afford to waste a moment of it-the more precious a thing is the more we should esteem it. Time is given us Notwithstanding the counter attractions in order that we may save our immortal souls, and not, as many seem to think, in order that we may seek "The Little Minister" was pronounced by six years. The time will come when it will be impossible to secure even one moment's extension of life. Jesus | ing feature of the entertainment was the died on the cross in order that we | throwing on canvas the result of the hockey might be given time in which to repent and be saved. When the angels rebelled they were not given time to repent, but we on earth are extended that favor through Jesus Christ. Have we made good use of the time granted us-are we using it to make our peace with God on prostituting it to the gratification of our desires? Alas, some are finding time too long and are wasting it in riotiousness and gambling, others are so busy amassing wealth which will perish and fade that they give no thought to laying up treasures in heaven, and others disobey God by spending their precious time in drunkenness and debauchery. "What shall it profit a man if he gaineth the whole world, yet loseth his soul?" They think not of God, yet they shall see Him face to face some day. What a meeting that will be ! "Work while it is yet day, for the night cometh when no man may work." What is man's life-it is like a dream which passes away, it is like smoke which vanishes. We are fast approaching the grave; our days on earth are short. St. Paul tells us we can redeem lost time. How do we redeem a debt-is it not by paying all that is against us? So we must repair our neglect of God's graces and opportunities for repentance by asking God's forgiveness. The present is ours-we know not what the future contains for us. How many faces are missing from this congregation since last year? Not only the old pay the debt of nature but the young also. We should live as if we believed this was to be our last year on earth, while hoping that God may spare us, and when our last hour comes may there be for each one of us an eternityof happiness with God.

-The pastor, Rev. J. W. Macmillan, preached in St. Andrew's church on Sunday morning from the text "The wages of sin is death" and brought out with startling clearness the fact that sin does pay wages and after its own kind. In the evening the Rev. Mr. Pogue preached, taking his text from Rev. 8-20; "Behold I stand at the door and knock." This was a message of love from our Lord through John fifty years after He ascended, and proves that he still loves us and is standing at the door of every heart knocking, and the amazing part of it is that we do not at once admit Him, who is the King of Kings and Lord of Lords There are three reasons why this is not done. First, the depravity of human nature, where Christ goes evil must depart, light always dispelling darkness; second thoughtlessness; third, procrastination. Mr. Pogue, who is a very earnest and convincing speaker, made an appeal to those who had not already done so to open their hearts to Christ and accept Him as their saviour. Special services will be held in St. Andrew's church each night this week.

The foundary business that was carried on for years by Mr. John Makins, William-st. north, is now; a flourishing institution. About two years ago the business was purchased by Mr. J. W. On Saturday, Jan. 4th, William Preston an old man about 77 years of age, and who resides alone in a small house at the end of his son's farm about ten miles north of the village of Hallburton, left his home and walked over to his son's house to get some provisions. When he arrived at the son's place he found no one home and the house locked, so he went to the barn and remained there a couple of hours.

The day was a very cold one, the murcary being down to 12 degrees below zero, and when Preston was discovered his feet and hands were badly frozen. Dr. Giles, of Haliburton, was summoned and relieved the sufferer a little, but advised that he be removed to a hospital at once for treatment. The unfortunate man passed through to-day on a stretcher to the General Hospital, Toronto, in charge of his son-inlaw, Mr. Dutton. It is feared Mr. Preston will have to lose nearly all of his fingers and toes, and as he la a very old man' it is a question whether he will survive an opera-

DANGER IN SUNDAY LABOR

Sudden Deaths of Pilots and Engineer Arousing Attention.

Ningara Times; The cases are growing startlingly more numerous of railway engineers, of pilots and motormen, dying instantly at their posts. The lives and limbs of scores, bandreds, are thus imperilled. The pilot of a crowded New York City ferry was recently found at a critical moment, stiff in death. The engineer of a lightning express, running at full speed on a "slow." section, with his hand on the lever, dead. June 13th, 1900, a Chicago motorman did not stop as usual at a steam-road crossing, and an engine grazed the rear of his electric car loaded with passengers. He was found with staring eyes, stone dead. Two New Jersey engineers, brothers, bave been stricken with paralysis. We have numerous records of these and other similar cases. What is the matter? Their work is exceptionally straining on their nerves, and if they did not have the rest of one day in seven these sudden deaths would be to be expected, if they did not actually happen. Right here, too, is the cause of railway accidents that often cost stockholders from bundreds of thousands to a million or more, in the crash of a second of time. Therefore, "plous" reasons aside, there is danger to life and property in Sunday steam and trolley travel. Danger every day in the week because of it. The cruel tyranny of Sunday work, thus enforced on laboring men, has made white slaves of millions of our countrymen. It is no longer safe to ride on eleeper or day trains, on trolley or ferry; and capital and labor both have cause to cry out against Sunday work as an enemy. Do we help this enemy, by influence or by example, in favor of Surday work in Hall's Family Pills are the best, St. Andrew's Annual Meeting.

The annual business meeting of St. Andrew's church was held last Wednesday evening. Tea was served in the schoolroom from 6 to 8 at which a most enjoyable time was spent by a large number of the members and achierents, aften which the business meeting was held in the church.

Without quoting figures we might say that the reports were eminently satisfactory; the receipts for the ordinary funds and for the "schemes of the church" were considerably in excess of any previous year and the outlook for the future is bright. Steps were taken so that the debt fund would be reduced each year. Messrs. R. B. Allan, A. M. Paton and J. Keith were elected managers and Mr. J. D. Smith replaces Mr. Low, who resigned from the position of financial secretary.

WORTHLESS BONDS.

According to the report of Provincial Secretary Stratton, just issued, the province has been blessed during the year with honest officials, for in the opening paragraph he announces that there was no absconding municipal treasurers and no losses of importance in the form of deficits. From the statement of the auditor sufficient importance is not attached by the local auditors to the securities given for the responsibilllities of county, township and other municipal treasurers. "There is reason to believe," he says, "that these securities are in many cases worthless, being improperly drawn out, classed or expired by effluxion of time." The auditor strongly urges schools separate and public, as well as high school boards, to use the cash books recommended by the government.

"HOME FOR THE AGED"

ENTER FAINMENT. The annual Charity Entertainment was held Thursday in the Academy of Music, and such a program was rendered as did credit to all concerned. If the audience had been in numbers what the excellence of the entertainment deserved there would have been a bumper house, but that is just what there was not. Special meetings in connection with three of the churches, the match at the Curling rink, and the prospect of the Y.M.C.A. entertainment to-night, were no doubt the main factors accounting for the poor attendance. Miss Jean Gunn, the elocutionist of the evening, very disagreeably disappointed such pessimists as, not baying previously heard her, were inclined to expect the travesty on elocution that the public have learned of late years to dread and abhor. Miss Gunn's reading, however, is certainly very distinctly above the ordinary, and she will be heartily welcomed when she returns to make a second visit to Lindsay.

Mr. Gray's violin solo was one of the best musical numbers, and was much appreciated. The trio-violins and piano-by the Misses Cairns and Miss O'Boyle, and the plane sole of Mr. Hamilton's, as well as several other numbers, were rewarded by well sarned recalls. Everyone was delighted with Miss Alda Sylvester's songs, and the vocal duet by Mr. and Miss Duffus, and the vocal solos by Miss Colles, Mr. Sackville, Mr. Podger and Mr. Steers, deserved more than the passing mention to which space limits confine us. The duett-violin and paino-rendered by the Misses Cairns, was excellent, and the quartettes furnished by Messrs. Paton, Walker, McAlpine and Bayley were enjoyed by everybody.

The Citizens' band was in attend ance and played at the entrance before the formal program within commenced. It is greatly to be regretted that so excellent and varied an entertainment, given in aid of so deserving a charity, should not have been rewarded by a full house.
