A "PECULIAR" OMISSION.

The eyesight of the Watchman-Warder man is failing, and the disability, if not speedily remedied, is likely to lead to some odd pranks, if we may judge by a sample item in this week's issue. In the editorial column of our column there appeared the following:

The Express says: Col. Hughes has a host of friends in these counties who rally around him with much spirit when a contest is in sight and we have no doubt the coming election will prove no exception in this respect.

Scarcely it must have been failing sight or a good-sized beam in the eye that led the editor of the Watchman-Warder, when shaping the above for presentation to its readers, to omit a large portion of the analogy. It so happens that the Express is also known as The Woodville Advocate, and the item appeared in the part of the paper devoted to Woodville news. The missing section of the article reads as follows:

The Advocate was never an admirer of the bombastic egotism of Col. Hughes, but we have considerable respect for the all round Canadianism which dominates his actions and would welcome more of his spirit in the public life of our country.

Speaking of the convention in the same article the Advocate says:

Attention centred in Dr. Vrooman, the present member for South Victoria, and Col. Hughes, the representative of the north, with Dr. Wood, of Kirkfield, as a third. There was a vigorous pull between the Vrooman and Hughes factions which divided very markedly, and the chairman had some difficulty in persuading them to harmonize their feelings in the common cause, especially as the Vrooman more than hinted that the gentleman Col. had loaded up the Redistribution committee of the House of Commons, considerably to his — the doctor's — disadvantage.

The editor of the Express doubtless secured his information from some of Col. Sam's Woodville delegates and it may be regarded as quite reliable. The side light shed upon the doings of the convention does not bear out the Watchman-Warder's contention that all was peace and harmony, and that it was a veritable love feast.

school hours and to report to the police as to the hours of these associates, their reading, their occupations and especially anything they can find of "dangerous tendencies." No wonder the milk is described by a "stupid, dull, heavy creature, with nothing alert about him but suspicion and dread of any show of interest either on his part or on the part of all but his own intimates."

The Stratford Herald thinks Mr. Borden won't get along very easily with Mr. Tarte. It declares that the "tendency of some Conservatives, of Quebec to exult Mr. Tarte into leadership we are convinced is a mistake." It thinks he should be isolated and used as a sort of donkey engine for Toryism. "Let Mr. Tarte be a third party," he says, "and let his help be utilized only so far as his principles and those of the Conservative party accord; that is far enough for any alliance to go." But Tarte won't play the game that way. Firstly, soon he will tire of being a "saw" and essay to crowd the star off the centre of the stage.

Writing of Mr. Tarte's success in crowding out Mr. Monk, the former Quebec Tory leader, the Toronto News says:

Mr. Tarte does not find life worth living unless he is permitted to occupy the centre of the stage and direct the performance. He has a policy for every day, a speech for every hour, a task for every minute. Ardent impetuous, enthusiastic and courageous, he dominates by his very activity, and seems to be carrying on great projects of statesmanship, when as a matter of fact, he is only taking the mental and physical exercise which keeps him in good working condition.

Because he talked a great deal, and lived much upon Pullman's droppings and steamboats, many thousands of credulous people honestly believed that Mr. Tarte was the master of the Liberal Administration. They seemed to think that if he should go out the Government and the country would go to ruin. But he went out, and not a cog of the machinery was displaced, a single immigrant not arrested at the border, or one public account dishonored. The truth is, the other Ministers were doing the work while he was doing the puffing and discharging the steam.

Stratford Beacon: Some time since A. E. Lowe, an employee of the Intercolonial railway, a union man, wrote a letter to Hon. William Mullock thanking him for the assistance he had given in securing an increase of the wages of the men on the Government railway. One phrase in Mr. Lowe's informal letter especially shocked the Montreal Gazette. Mr. Lowe said—with usual frankness—that he was not a political partisan of any sort; but that his political creed might be summed up in short—"support the man, the party, or the Government which puts the butter on your bread." The Gazette is inconsistent, unconsciously, no doubt, when it condemns a mere workman for looking out for his bread and butter, while it never misses an opportunity to plead the cause of the manufacturers, who have an organization, a campaign fund, and send out tons of literature to support the men, the party or the Government which "puts butter on their bread," or in other words, passes laws which tend to extend their business and increase their profits. Are we to assume that when manufacturers do this they do it solely for patriotic reasons; and a self-respecting journal can support them in it? By what right does it vote for a man, a party or a Government which increased their wages, they are following a "vicious principle," that is support is "purchasable," and their action exemplifies "a very low standard of citizenship?"

Gained Forty Pounds in Thirty Days

For several months our younger brother had been troubled with indigestion. He tried several remedies but got no benefit from them. We purchased some of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and he commenced taking them. Inside of thirty days he had gained forty pounds in flesh. He is now fully recovered. A Progressive Local Firm

During the past few weeks several orders for side-wheel tug boats have been booked by Mr. McCrea, proprietor of the William-st. foundry. Mr. McCrea is making a specialty of building vessels of this kind, and his boats are not only sought after by local lumbermen, but by outsiders as well. An order was received last week for a big lumbering firm in Bonanza for a side-wheel first bottom tow boat, and two more orders were received yesterday for similar boats to be sent to the New Ontario country. In addition the firm carries on saw-mill machinery. Of the most recent shipments have been made to Ottawa and North Bay. Mr. Phillips of Cobocook will equip his mill with more modern machinery this spring, he having given Mr. McCrea an order a few days ago.

Of Interest to Ladies.

The visit of Prof. Dorenwend to Lindsay, Benson house, on Wednesday, Feb. 17th, will afford the ladies of Lindsay and surrounding country an opportunity of consulting him regarding their ailments, and their requirements in all styles of hair goods. Prof. Dorenwend carries with him a large and most varied assortment of his famous conceptions in Switobas, Bangs, Pompadours, Wavy Fronts and Wiglets. These equal of these high grade natural hair productions cannot be procured from any hair goods dealer in America. Prof. Dorenwend has the distinction of being the largest manufacturer and the most noted specialist in these goods. Private apartments are at the convenience of all who avail themselves of calling at the Hotel Benson on the days of his visit, Wednesday, Feb. 17th. 6-9-11-13-15-16.

TO MAKE BETTER CHEESE

is the Aim of the Eastern Ontario Dairyman's Association.

The board of directors of the Eastern Ontario Dairyman's Association made some changes during the year 1903 in its management of the dairy business, and among the most important was a change in the method of instruction. The various factories in this Eastern District were formed into groups or syndicates, and an instructor was placed in charge of each, whose duty it is as herein outlined:

First.—To instruct the patrons upon the care and handling of milk to make finest cheese. Second.—To look after and urge upon the owners of factories the improvement of their buildings and surroundings, and to persuade them to improve the sanitary conditions thereof. Third.—To instruct the maker, when necessary, to improve the manufacture of cheese. Fourth.—To test the milk of the patrons of the various factories, when found necessary, and to endeavor to improve the product of the factories over which they had control.

While everything in connection with the working of this syndicate system was not as satisfactory as we had hoped, yet the trial has been made, and the results are so convincing, that we are adopting the same system with few modifications, for the year 1904. Mr. G. G. Publick will be Chief instructor, and with him at the head, and the co-operation of the patrons, factory owners, and makers, we hope to make greater progress during 1904 than any previous year. Factory owners wishing to become members of the syndicates will kindly notify the secretary, R. G. Murphy, as soon as possible.

The Question of Baldness.

This is the vital question with hundreds of men who are bald or partially so. How to overcome the dilemma of baldness is a simple matter when you consider the perfection of modern arts in the making of Wigs and Toupees. The visit of Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, to Lindsay on Wednesday, Feb. 17th, when he will be at the Benson house, renders it possible for any who wish to consult him to do so at his private apartments retained at Benson House for this purpose. Demonstrations given to show the perfect naturalness of his Wigs and Toupees. Do not miss this opportunity. Remember the day and date, Wednesday Feb. 17th.

Railway Wreck near Port Hope.

A despatch from Port Hope Monday February 8th read as follows: About ten o'clock this morning the G. T. R. train going west, about one and a half hours overdue, left the rails a short distance west of the town, and was badly wrecked. Almost miraculously no one was injured. The cause of the accident was the thick covering of ice on the rails, and there is no doubt that had the train been able to make greater speed the accident would have resulted in loss of life. The ponderous engine lies on its side, beside the rails, the steam escaping in volumes. All the trains here-to-day are from two to three hours late, and last night's storm was badly felt. In the town every head and there can be seen a broken telegraph pole, and some live wires created considerable excitement for a while.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest, and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions, and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used the remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pain in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold towards pneumonia. For sale by all druggists.

Sad Bereavement.

Much sympathy is being expressed by friends and citizens generally for Conductor and Mrs. Geo. Jobbit, who lost a bright three year old daughter last week. The little tot contracted scarlet fever in some manner unknown, but seemed to be making a good recovery. On Tuesday, the day of her death, the father took his train to Belleville secure in the feeling that his darling was better, and his grief may be imagined when later in the day he received a message apprising him of her death. None of the other children in the home contracted the disease, and the sorrow of the father is increased by the feeling that possibly he came into contact with an infected person on the train and that he gave the disease to his child, who always ran to him to be patted as soon as she heard his step.

The Best Remedy for Croup.
(Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.)

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedy for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are always as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as live glycerol, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give the remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

LOVE LIGHTENS LABOR.

A good wife rose from her bed one morn.
And thought with a nervous dread
Of the piles of clothes to be washed,
and more
Than a dozen mouths to be fed,
"There's the meals to get for the men
in the field,
And the children to fix away
To school, and the milk to be skimmed
and churned;
And all to be done this day."

It had rained in the night and all the wood
Was wet as it could be;
There were puddings and pies to be baked besides
A loaf of cake for tea,
And the day was hot, and her aching head
Throbbed nearly as she said:
"If maidens but knew what good wives know
They would be in no haste to wed."

"Jennie, what do you think I told Ben Brown?"
"Ould the farmer from the well,
And a flush crept over his bronzed brow,
And his eyes bashfully fell,
"It was this," he said, and coming near,
He smiled, and stooping down,
Kissed her cheek: "Twas this; that you were the best
And dearest wife in town!"

The farmer went back to the field
and the wife,
In a smiling, absent way,
Sang snatches of tender little songs
She'd not sung for many a day;
And the pain in her head was gone,
and the clothes
Were white as the foam of the sea!
Her bread was light and her butter
was sweet
And as good as it could be.

"Just think," the children all cried
in a breath,
"Tom Wood has run off to sea!
He wouldn't, I know, if he'd only had
As happy a home as we."
The night came down and the good wife smiled,
To herself she softly said:
"Tis so sweet to labor for those we love—
It's not strange that maidens will wed!"
