EDITORIAL NOTES

The soft coal miners refuse to accept a 5 per cent. reduction in wages, and say they will strike on April 1st. John Mitchell is opposed to the proposed action.

After twenty years' service as editor of the Canadian Baptist, Mr. G. D. Roberts has resigned to enjoy a well-earned rest. Rev. Dr. McKay, of Stratford, is spoken of as his successor.

Globe: Mr. Monk is learning the uncertainties of political life. But he can console himself with the reflection that it will be many years before the high places in the Conservative party become worth fighting for.

Globe: The delegates to the forestry convention are a spruce-looking lot of gentlemen and are making themselves quite popular about town. Still they give for the grand old woods again, and will beeh arm when the hour of adjournment permits them to return to the maple leaf forever. To forest all criticism it may be premised that the foregoing is hogswood.

The Montreal Herald, referring to the civic situation in that city, cites the following strong objection to long terms in office for Aldermen: The main objection to a four year term for alderman is based on the experience that it takes grasping corporations nearly two years to "fix" a new council. The people may be willing to give the risks, but the long do not want an aldermanic term so long that the corporations would "own" it for two years or more. The voters must be allowed some show for their money.

Daily the Tory organs refer to the excellency of the moderate Liberal tariff they have so long and bitterly condemned. The latest is "The Mail's" story of the purchase by United States capitalists of the Montreal Locomotive Works, at which 2,000 men are to be employed. The Tory organ says the Canadian tariff led to the purchase, and it quotes President Callaway as saying that the American Locomotive Works found that with the duty against them they were unable to do any large amount of business in Canada, and therefore they were glad of the opportunity of merging the Montreal company into their own. Score another for the moderate Liberal tariff and send the news to Industrial Canada, the subsidized wain for higher duties.

The naval expenditures of the United States, as provided for in the appropriation bill now before Congress, make a total of $96,000,000 for the coming fiscal year. The British naval budget for the present year amounts to $123,000,000. The United States is now spending more on its navy than either France or Germany, while the British navy continues to be maintained on the principle that its strength must be greater than any possible combination against it of the navies of two other powers. In connection with the fact that the Democrats in Congress are making no protest against the present naval bill, the Republicans are taunting them with being false to the Kansas City platform, which declared: "We oppose militarism; we are in favor of extending the Republic's influence among the nations, but believe that influence should be extended not by force or violence, but through the persuasive power of a high and honorable example." This Democratic doctrine is not being lived up to by the Democrat in Congress, who are supporting the $96,000,000 naval bill.

While Premier Ross and his Cabinet are supposed to be framing a bill to make the liquor regulations much more stringent, the license holders have submitted a number of amendments which they desire in the present liquor act. They ask that Saturday hours be extended to 10 p.m. in towns, and 11 p.m. in cities, and that hotels be permitted to supply liquor to guests after hours, and on Sundays.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt's bill to increase the remuneration of County Public School Inspectors contemplates an increase of about 20 per cent. over the scale of 1871, when the present salaries were fixed. The measure has the approval of the press of the country. At present the Government gives $5 a school, and the counties not less than that sum. We know of no case in which a county gives more than the statutory allowance. A varying sum is given for traveling expenses. The new scale will add $1 from Province and $1 from county. Inspectorates vary from 64 to 120 schools, so that the increase will bring the salaries up to $768 as the lowest and $1,440 as the highest, plus some fees and travelling allowance, not excessive pay for the character of the work.

Stratford Beacon: The business tax on newspaper, under the new assessment bill, will be 50 per cent. of the assessed value of the premises occupied. They are classified with hotelkeepers, shop license holders, doctors, lawyers, dentists, etc. The hotelkeepers have since been reduced in committee to the 25 per cent. class, along with retail merchants, and a modification was made for professional men, but notwithstanding that there are nearly a dozen publishers in the Legislature, not one of them raised his voice in favor of a reduction for the newspapers. The newspaper publishers will, therefore, have to pay a business tax of one half the amount of their real estate tax notwithstanding that they perform a public service free of charge to any other class of community. This is hardly right. They should, in all fairness, be classified with retail merchants. What was the executive of the Canadian Press Association doing that it was not heard in this matter?

Events, of Ottawa, makes some sensible comments on the inferences that certain Conservatives, skilled in extracting sunshine from cucumbers, are drawing from the falling off of the Liberal majorities in some of the recent by-elections. It says:

Majorities are sometimes cut down or increased by hundreds if the roads are heavy, or there is a bad storm on polling day. In the strength of one party lay the strength of the town and populated centres of the farmers naturally keep many of the towns at home and in the country, therefore, in proportion. Majorities, therefore, as we have said, may vary greatly. Mr. Clarke Wallace had a majority of one time of over 4,000, which next time he had only 820, which proved nothing at all, except that 4,000 was nearer the normal than 4,000. This same constituency of West York elected a Liberal against Mr. Clarke Wallace's brother, a majority of 111. This was an apparent turnover of nearly 1,000 votes, but it could not be used as an argument to show that the Conservative party in Ontario were going down party in the rate of 1,000 votes in each constituency. That would be absurd. What counts is the number of seats carried. That is what puts a government in power or puts it out. If an element in power or puts it out a majority of 300 or 600 is only half what it was at a previous election it is still quite large enough to make the seat certain for the side that has that reduced majority, and for the government to carry nine seats out of twelve seems to us something for the Opposition to deplore, as the result of that would be to make the next House of Commons consist of 160 Liberals and 54 Conservatives. We trust it will be more evenly divided than that.

Winnipeg Free Press: Among the passengers on last evening's transcontinental was Rev. Father Lacombe, the pioneer Catholic missionary of the Canadian West. Father Lacombe is returning from a trip to Montreal and some points in the United States. It is fifty-four years and six weeks since the veteran missionary came to the West. He first passed the spot where Winnipeg now is, with dogs and sleigh. No man had had better chances than he of noting the many mighty changes the years have brought forth. Father Lacombe is yet hale and hearty, although seventy-eight years of age.

The Toronto News refers in the following complimentary terms to the excellent administration of Yukon affairs by the Laurier Government: So prosperous and well regulated is the Yukon territory that the outside world hears little of it. Dawson is as orderly as Toronto, visitors from the Northern Capital are proud to call us. Prices are little more than twice what they are in the older parts of Canada. The dress-suit is seen as often in the city on the Yukon as in an Ontario town. We are afraid that affairs must be really tame in the Territory. Not a word about shootings; very little about the gold; plenty of personal items of the every day kind. The hyperborean region is evidently a place for hard work, ordinary amusements and orderly conduct. The Mounted Police have done much to bring about this condition of affairs, but the people themselves have done more. Canadians will not allow their peace to be disturbed by riot, and the jail at Dawson is quite large enough for all bad characters. The administration of the Yukon is creditable to the public servants who have it at hand. The country does not furnish much news, of the exciting character, but the people evidently prefer to do without the kind of advertising that Name has received.

Rev. Dr. Erdlett, of the First Congregational church, Chicago, does not admire the political sermonizing. He admits that there is much wrong in political and municipal life, but he says "it is doubtful whether this continual attacking of officials does not do more to lower the church in the estimation of many thoughtful men than to remedy conditions. The church becomes a sort of political platform, and the sermons give a certain notoriety to the one who speaks." He thinks, however, that the preacher's duty is best done by presenting the plain teaching of the Scripture, that each one must give an account of the deeds done in the body; that there is no escape from that final tribunal where there can be no evasion or trickery or favors bestowed through bribery or "pull."

A "great many people who have vague ideas that something is wrong with the government of the nation of the city in which they live take satisfaction in hearing somebody denounce. We are not here to sit in judgment upon our fellow men. Many of our estimates of those in public life are undoubtedly wrong and we do they may do that is wrong we do not know. Each man knows whether it is true, and upright and pure.

THE TRESTLE GAVE WAY.

Accident on the L. S. & P. Ry. in the East Word. Several men employed on the L. S. & P. railway cutting near Mr. Fremont Crandell's house in the east ward had a very narrow escape Monday from serious injury. At that point a great deal of filling in work is being done from a trestle, and dump cars are being used to convey the earth. About 10 o'clock, as eight loaded cars and a number of empties were on the trestle, it gave way, participating the cars and several men over the embankment. One man was injured, but not seriously.

Colds Are Dangerous.

How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that it is, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It always cures and is pleasant to take. For sale by all druggists.

Mixed Marriages.

(A Bystander in Weekly Sun.) To the anti-social denunciation of mixed marriages by Roman Catholic parents we are accustomed; but Anglican papers are now denouncing mixed marriages of Anglican with Protestants of other denominations. This seems strange in organs of the church the episcopate of which framed the Calvinistic Lambeth articles; which sent delegates to the Anglican Synod of Dorset, which Calvinistic Synod of Dorset heads the numbers in the line of its heads the Calvinist William III, and the Lutheran George I, while its present head is united in a "mixed marriage" to a Princess of Lutheran Denmark. The Anglican church "is divided into three sections; that which calls itself Catholic, and is striving to introduce Catholic ritual, the evangelistic section, and the rational section of Colonel Mack Patison, and a sort of 'A marriage between a bridegroom of one of the sections and a bride of another is surely as mixed theologically as any marriage can be.

WERE THE MILLIONS EARNED?

(Hamilton Times.)

A United States exchange says the son of the late Marcus Hanna, the well known Republican boss, who was mentioned as a Presidential candidate has filed in the Probate Court a statement showing the dead man's estate to be worth $7,000,000. And it adds that it is safe to say that every dollar of it was honestly earned.

Senator Hanna was perhaps neither better nor worse than many a politician of to-day. He was bitterly lampooned, and was accused of almost every kind of political chicanery and wrong-doing. It would be very unsafe to judge him by the abuse of his enemies—no less so than to accept without discount the verbiage of his friends. Senator Hanna was a professional politician who succeeded. How he got his large fortune need not now be too closely inquired into. He is dead. Probably he conformed strictly to the canons of honesty as it is known in political and business circles. He at least rose high among his fellows.

But did he "earn" $7,000,000? We do not believe he did. We do not believe any man ever "earned" that amount.

Of course, many men have possessed themselves of greater sums, but we think it is an abuse of language to say they "earned" it. They got possession of that much of the world's wealth by means the laws recognize. But did they not take advantage of the state's laws to get some others' shares too? Seven million dollars?

United States treasury experts, who are used to talking millions, say it is good work to count $4,000 silver dollars an hour for eight hours a day and keep it up for any considerable time.

Let us put a treasury expert at work to count Senator Hanna's fortune. He counts $4,000 an hour, eight hours a day, and it takes him 21 1/4 days to get the first million disposed of. And repeating the term seven times takes 218 3/4 days. A million dollars in United States coin weighs 28,320 lbs., so our expert counter would be beside him no less a weight than 412,500 lbs.—enough to lead 103 drays with over two tons each!

That is a formidable pile to "earn." Bring it down to "earn" that Suppose Mr. Hanna had had to "earn" that sum at $5 a day, excluding interest, 300 days a year, he would have required an earning life of over 1,666 years.

Mr. Hanna was in his 67th year when he died. Let us suppose he had spent 45 years "earning" that fortune. He would have had to "earn" that sum at $5 a day, excluding interest, 300 days a year, he would have had to hire a dray to haul home his wages, if paid in silver.

We have a notion that Mr. Hanna did not "earn" such a sum. Men possess themselves of such aggregations of wealth by speculation, political intrigue, utilization of laws that do not serve the ends of justice, and by preying on the needs of the poor. Their methods are, perhaps, legal, but it is not easy to see wherein Justice can place her seal on any law or system or plan, the result of which is to concentrate enormous unearned wealth in the hands of the few, and make the toiling masses pensioners on their bounty.

If every man received according to his desert, fortunes of seven millions would not be accumulated in a lifetime.
