MISS MITCHELL'S OPENING.

GRAND SHOW OF MILLINERY, HATS, DRESS GOODS, ETC.

Some of the Handsome Creations Described by Our Reporter.

Once again the millinery season has rolled around, and once more the ladies of the town and country are flocking to the brilliant display at Miss Mitchell's. Last evening her departments were thronged by the fair sex, and the welcome extended by Miss Mitchell and Miss Jamieson was very cordial indeed. The display rooms were very attractive and had a gay holiday appearance, being decked out in beautiful spring colorings, and with the lights turned on the scene was indeed a pretty one, the large reflectors making a striking effect on the collection of dainty and pretty creations of women's and children's headgear.

The majority of the hats displayed were in pretty designs, and the dainty touch of the milliner has made marvelous things. There were hats of all shades, from the softest of ribbons, lace, silks, dress and mantle goods, wings, quills and the abundance of roses and flowers in new colors—pink, eel helio, violet, rose, etc., contributed to the beauty of the showing as a whole.

Among the newest hats shown for spring we noticed a pretty one of drooping shape, deeply depressed back and front, with dome crown and brim with deep ruffling of tulle on the edge. The crown was of white tulle and gold braid, and deep bandeaux where cream and pale, pink roses were banded at side. Dresden ribbon around crown and a large drooping bow at the back completes a pretty creation.

Another attractive hat was in the new toque shape, the crown was in the new shade, Dresden ribbon in pale pink velvet. Dresden ribbon was laid in plaits around brim; large bow in American. Beauty roses with long stems fastened at side.

Among the large display we noticed that one of the new sailor hats, very masculine in style, with a large crown, with hand applique and roll brown velvet around the crown, and a single rose and ferns nestled at side of back.

Something very new and pretty was in the natural leghorn in the mushroom shape; the edge was bound in pale pink velvet. Dresden ribbon was laid in plaits around brim; large bow in American. Beauty roses with long stems fastened at side.
