Our New Dress Goods Speak for Themselves

There is a great hub-bub among the new spring fabrics as they tell us of their own distinctive styles and qualities.

Here is what a few of them have to say: Above all can be heard the voice of the sturdy member from our country. He is Tweeds in light spring shades and patterns, and comes in such nice weights for serviceable dresses and suits.

The representative from France is so rich and dainty that you cannot help being courteously quiet when she speaks. "I," said she, "am called Voiles, both plain and embroidered. I am French, and make up into the most beautiful gowns for dressy occasions. I cost 50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.25 a yard."

"And I'm English," said the fine, serviceable broadcloths, who have all the new shades. "Fine coats and skirts I make. I am extra value at 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 a yard."

"Hub," says the visitors from Japan, "I am fine, because I am silk and very new and fashionable for swell shirt-waist suits and separate waists. I don't cost too much either; only 50c, 75c, 85c and $1.00 a yard."

But there are many others who want to talk. Come, and perhaps you will hear them.

MINISTER RESIGNS

Hon. H. R. Emerson Gives Up His Portfolio.

HE ENTERS LIBEL ACTIONS

Denies Absolutely the Charges Brought Against Him—Will Meet His Traducers in Courts of Justice—Much Sympathy Shown for Retiring Minister—No Word From Mr. Hyman—Customs Bill Passed.

Ottawa, April 3.—The rumors and gossip which have been circulated in the press, and particularly around the corridors of the Parliament buildings, during the present session have at last assumed the shape of a concrete charge against a Minister of the Crown, and as an immediate result the Prime Minister announced yesterday afternoon that Hon. H. R. Emerson, Minister of Railways and Canals, had placed his resignation as a member of the Cabinet in his hands for presentation to his Excellency.

Extending beyond the ranks of Government supporters, sympathy was expressed in the House yesterday with Mr. Emerson when he made his statement as to the reasons which had actuated him in arriving at his decision.

Unequivocal Denial. While in unequivocal terms he denied the truth of the allegations made against him, he also expressed his personal feeling of relief that at last something tangible had been placed before the country, that at last he would have an opportunity of meeting his traducers face to face, and to give the lie to those who, to use his own words, had been circulating "damnable untruths" about him and said Mr. Emerson, "that all in the ranks of my political opponents are not my enemies," and it was significant that the remark drew a round of applause from the Opposition benches.

Suspend Judgment. While not claiming to be more than human, he asked that the House should suspend its judgment until he intended to bring his accusers had delivered its decision, and he announced, in this connection, that already he had commenced legal proceedings against the newspapers which had published statements affecting his character. A poor man he had joined the Government, and a poor man he left it, having sacrificed in the interests of Canada natural opportunities which, had he followed his profession, would at least have enabled him to lay the foundation of an independence.

Appeal to Courts. Strong in his own sense of right, he was willing that this matter should be dealt with by the courts of the land, and in resigning his portfolio he was actuated by the desire that nothing should prevent the leader, his honored and revered leader, attending to those important matters which required his presence in London. In the interests of his constituents and his country he was willing to sacrifice himself, and if it were proved that he was unworthy of consideration in that House, then he was willing to sink to those depths to which anyone beneath the level of a man must sink. But in his own heart he knew that the allegations made against him were false, and he should continue to hold up his head as an honest man.

"To this end, I have given instructions for the issue of writs for libel against the Frederickton Gleaner, The Halifax Herald and The Toronto World, and I have been advised of service in at least one of these cases. It is but a question of hours now as to the other two cases, if, indeed, at this moment service has not yet taken place."

Mr. Hyman's Case. In reply to the leader of the Opposition the Prime Minister stated that he had received no further communication from the Minister of Public Works, who had started north, but had been obliged to return to California and ordered not to engage in any business. On the House going into committee on the customs duties bill Mr. Schaffner moved that the duty on agricultural implements should be reduced, and the House witnessed the interesting sight of the leader of the Opposition, Mr. Foster, Mr. Sproule and Mr. Taylor voting with the Government against an amendment brought in by a Conservative member. Subsequently the customs duties bill was read a third time and passed.

In accordance with a notice of motion, Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved that from to-morrow there should be morning sessions and an evening session on Wednesdays, Government orders to have precedence, members having still the right to ask questions. The motion was agreed to.

SEAT WITHOUT VOTES.

S. J. Donaldson Takes His Place in Saskatchewan Legislature.

Regina, Sask., April 3.—For the first time in the history of Canada, a seat was given to a member in a Legislative Assembly without the polling of votes.

The Saskatchewan Legislature yesterday afternoon declared that Samuel J. Donaldson, Provincial Rights candidate in Prince Albert district, was duly elected.

The decision of the Legislature was made on account of the revelations showing the most brazen crooked work in the election of Mr. Donaldson's opponent, among the acts being the marking in the bush by deputy returning officers of enough ballots to give the Government candidate a clear majority.

A BOMB IN THE CHURCH.

Anarchists At Work in City of Genoa.

New York, April 3.—The Herald has received the following despatch from Genoa.—While the Jesuit Father Passivich was preaching in the Church of San Siro here Monday some one threw a bomb in the main door. It exploded and caused a tremendous panic, but no one was injured.

After the commotion Father Passivich resumed his sermon, first saying a Te Deum in thanksgiving for their escape.

Investigation by the police showed that the bomb was filled with nails and iron wire, and led to the arrest of the authors of the plot.

KILLED IN EXPLOSION.

Italian on Railway Work Meets Death Near Ancaster.

Hamilton, April 3.—Tony Panzini, an Italian employed by Nicholson and Riley, contractors, on the Hamilton-Branford Electric Railway, was killed yesterday evening by an explosion at Hermying's Mills, near Ancaster. Panzini was engaged blasting rock. A charge of dynamite did not go off as quickly as he thought it should and he started towards the spot where the charge was set to see what was the matter. He got within a few feet of it when there was an explosion, and he was blown about a hundred feet. He was unconscious when assistance reached him and died shortly afterwards.

ROYAL MOTHER IN DANGER.

Queen Cristina Has Serious Attack—Sacraments Administered.

Madrid, April 3.—Queen Cristina, King Alfonso's mother, is confined to her bed with a very severe attack of grip, her temperature reaching 40 degrees centigrade (104 degrees Fahrenheit). She has received the last sacrament, and her physicians refuse to make any prediction as to the progress of her illness.

Queen Cristina, who is 49 years old, was about to go to Cartagena with King Alfonso to meet King Edward. Her illness, coming at this time, is especially unfortunate, owing to the interesting condition of Queen Victoria, her daughter-in-law.

TO ADVERTISE CANADA.

Elaborate Window Decoration in Charing Cross Office.

London, April 3.—(C. A. P.)—The most interesting and attractive window in London is that of the Canadian emigration office in Charing Cross. The window shows a Saskatchewan view of wheat in stock, in the foreground a river running through the picture, sending a flow of wheat and operating the mill-wheel of a grist mill shown in one corner of the picture.

AUSTRALIA TO LEAD?

Canada Too Nervous to Be the Hope of the Imperialists.

London, April 3.—(C. A. P.)—The Aberdeen Free Press says: The dislike of Canada for anything which may drag her into irksome responsibilities or fetter her autonomy is likely to be one of the dominant factors of the coming conference. Rightly or wrongly, Canada is extraordinary nervous on this point. The colony which seems likely to lead in the direction of strengthening the Colonial Conference, crystallizing it into a permanent body, is Australia.
