THRO' KAWARTHA LAKES TO KIRKFIELD

Delightful Trip Made by a Party on Yacht Juanita—Kirkfield, the Home of Mrs. W. McKenzie, Being Greatly Improved—Visit to Lift Lock and Other Interesting Places, Briefly Described.

From Evening Post of Aug. 11.
A yacht trip from Lindsay to Fenelon Falls—a trip down the winding Sturgeon Lake, through the Fenelon locks, into Cameron lake, past the beautiful Burnt river falls through the Rosedale locks and into Balsam lake, thence up the Trent Valley Canal to Kirkfield, was the stimulant that took our representative on an altogether too short cruise which commenced last Tuesday evening in the gasoline yacht "Juanita."

At six o'clock that evening a party of five set out for Sturgeon Point, where a short stop was made, after which the trip to Fenelon Falls was commenced. When nearing the Falls much difficulty was experienced in locating the channel, owing to the over-shadowing trees but we locked through the same night, and after sailing the boat proceeded to find a place of accommodation.

Fenelon Falls at this time of the year presents an appearance of being generously patronized by the summer tourist—in fact the Cataract burg seemed to be alive with the sounds of tourist trade. The hotels are experiencing a rush of custom, the new Hotel Kawartha being filled with visitors, mostly natives of Uncle Sam's domain. We had a short interview with Mr. "Tom" Junkin, the friendly lockmaster and he said that he also was having a busy time. The Government lockmasters get twenty-four hours' salary every week—and that is on Sunday. A great number of boats were being locked through, chiefly small yachts carrying fishing parties. He looked on an average 10 or 12 yachts through per day, and often 15 or more. One day he had no less than 23 boats to care for, and when it is considered that it takes fully 25 minutes to lock one through it will be seen that work is not all play with Mr. Junkin.

HOI FOR KIRKFIELD.
Breakfast over, the next morning we packed up and started for Kirkfield. Cameron lake was smooth, and once we got going the distance to the "Forks" where the beautiful Burnt river branches off, was soon made and shortly after we were safely through the locks and away on our course to Kirkfield. Rosedale was soon left in the distance as we were steered across by Sturgeon Point to the Canal. Up the rock-banked channel the now deserted and forlorn-looking peat works on the Victoria Road, and we soon came to the Y. C. road bridge near Kirkfield. Here we disembarked and walked up to the village, a distance of a mile or so.

It was now a few minutes to 10.30, and a stop was made at the Campbell house. After dinner we started to "do" the village and see the sights. One would imagine that in a village the size of Kirkfield there would not be much to see, but far from it. Kirkfield, as many know, is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McKenzie, and owing to the latter having taken such an active interest in the welfare and betterment of the burg and its citizens it has been dubbed "McKenzie Village" and "McKenzieville."

The first thing we noticed was that the streets were unusually clean and tidy, with all big stores out of sight. This was the reason we were due to Mrs. McKenzie having hired a man to keep the streets clean, and a number of men were also engaged earlier in the season at cleaning the roadway from the tidy little village to her summer cottage at Balsam lake, a distance of couple of miles. Several gasoline street lights have also been placed in the village by Mrs. McKenzie at an expense of $50 or $60 per lamp.

THE GOLF GROUNDS.
We next visited the golf grounds, on which the Lindsay Club played Kirkfield last Monday. The grounds are in a beautiful situation overlooking the village, and are kept in fine trim by the lawn mower. A number of seats have also been placed, on which spectators may rest.
This was from the golf links is located the McKenzie racing stable, a large building with accommodations for a number of horses. At present there are six horses in the stable, all of which are saddled and trained daily for exercise. This batch includes the famous trotter, "Wiren," who is home for a rest. Mr. Giddins, the well known horse trainer, is in charge. The rest are chiefly young animals. The stable is a well ventilated one and the stalls are all large and well fitted. Not far from the stable preparations are being made for the building of a large race track on which to train the horses belonging to the McKenzie stable.
A lively rig was then secured and a journey to the great hydraulic lift lock on the Trent Valley Canal followed. This was indeed a sight to see, and at present the men are engaged in erecting the tower-steel superstructure. Many feet below the ground level one sees men hard at work, while away up above one can see more men riveting and putting into place with machine-like motion huge sections of steel, rafters and beams. The lock, when completed, already presents a stately and strong appearance, and will soon be ready for the filling in of cement. The lock is being inspected by visitors daily, who are able to get a good idea of what the structure will be like when completed. A new telephone was connected with the works to the village last Monday.

Down the railway track towards Cobocok direction is the plant of the Kirkfield Crushed Stone Co. Limited, which is doing a brisk business in crushed stone. The huge chunks of rock which were blasted and dredged out of the Canal are being hauled to the works and passed through a process like mastication. The stone when crushed is shipped away in large consignments to outside points, and we understand is very much in demand. The works are quite happy to both railway and canal.

On our return from the lift lock we drove up to Mrs. McKenzie's new dairy building and were guided through the building which seems to one unaware that it is a dairy building, to be a handsome-looking and up-to-date residence. The building was originally a barn, but the handiwork of the carpenter has greatly altered things. One end of the building is being fitted up as an up-to-date dairy, while the other end is being transformed into a modern dwelling. The work has just commenced to erect this building in April, and it is expected to be completed in a week or two. Inside everything is white and clean as snow, the cooling room being finished in a kind of glazed marble plaster. All modern dairy appliances will be used in and the product will be used by the Mackenzie family only, at their residences in Toronto, Kirkfield and on Balsam lake. Some thirty or more cows, chiefly Jerseys, are pastured in the fields.

The wing apartments of the dairy building will be elaborately finished. The floors are of the best Georgia pine and maple, while the stairs and casement are of quarter-cut oak. Five unique and quaint old-fashioned chimneys and fire places have been built and finished in a maroon colored brick. The house contains several good-sized living rooms and a couple of bath rooms. It is beautified on the exterior by verandahs and balconies of Colonial style. A large cow stable is being erected on grounds nearby.

Not long ago the village of Kirkfield was visited by a small cyclone which knocked down trees and houses. Among the buildings that were destroyed was a large henery belonging to Mrs. McKenzie, but this has been replaced by a larger new one. The quarters in the old henery are now being used for a number of different varieties of birds. Six or seven yards are also fenced off with wire for the different kinds of fowl which are well cared for.

Our trip homeward was commenced about six o'clock, and on entering Balsam lake again on the shore by Lindsay's fort and past Mrs. McKenzie's palatial summer home. It is located in a beautiful situation commanding a fine view of the lake. The large steam yacht "Wawinot" is anchored here, also a motor boat belonging to Mrs. McKenzie. Three or four swans were seen on the lake near the shore. Passing along the shore in the vicinity of Carnegie and Hog's summer home on Carnegie's Island, we soon reached Rosedale.

Rosedale at present is the "Campers' Delight." Tents containing camping parties are pitched all along the banks of the lake, and at evening when a larger majority of its inhabitants are out in boats on the calm waters, singing songs and gramophones going on the shore, one thinks of the many pleasures to be had by camping here. Conspicuous among the camps is Camp Tozo, of Lindsay—with flags floating to the breeze, banners and Chinese lanterns hanging on the green pines and cedars it is most cheery spot. The boys are having a time of it and visitors are always welcome and receive the best of treatment. Among the most recent arrivals have been Messrs. Geo. Ewart, Harry Soames, Ford Moynes and Charlie Perkins, all of Lindsay. The latter is spending Sunday at camp.

The "Dow Drop Inn" bunch arrived on Wednesday for a couple of weeks. Mr. O. P. Hamilton, of Lindsay, an old camper, came down and returned in the evening.
The "Tarry-Whittle" crowd from Fenelon Falls are here in full force and are having big times.
There are many visitors along the line from outside points who all seem to be enjoying the sport to be obtained here.

had partaken of a hearty breakfast, the guests and I left for Fenelon Falls to take in the Civic holiday celebration. In the afternoon we again commenced our homeward journey, reaching Graham's landing. Here we stopped for a while—long enough to enjoy a bath in Sturgeon Lake. The remainder of the afternoon was spent at Sturgeon Point, and the trip home was concluded after tea. All were thoroughly satisfied with the outing and were well pleased with the treatment received at all points.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

Miss MacKay, of Public Staff, Leaves for the Northwest.
From Evening Post of Aug. 11.
On Wednesday evening, August 6, the home of Mrs. J. A. Williamson, cor. Glenelg and William-sts. was the scene of an interesting event. At the kind invitation of the hostess, a few of the many friends of Miss Jeanne MacKay had gathered to bid her good-bye and wish her God-speed. For more than three years Miss MacKay has been a valued member of the staff of the Lindsay public schools, and during this time has endeared herself alike to pupils, parents and young people by her interest in the little ones and her zeal in all good works. Consequently, a great deal of regret was felt and expressed when it became known that she had accepted a more lucrative position in Lehighridge, Alta.

After an hour or so of music and social intercourse, daily refreshments were served after which Mrs. Macdougall on behalf of Miss MacKay's friends expressed regret at her departure, appreciation of her superior ability as a teacher and her good disposition towards all who knew her. Then, little Helen Paton came forward and presented a solid gold brooch with amethyst setting as a remembrance from Lindsay friends.

Miss MacKay cordially thanked the ladies and the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" brought a very pleasant but sad evening to a close. The crowd that assembled on the C.P.S. platform left following afternoon, when Miss MacKay left for the West, evincing the high esteem in which she is held by the citizens of Lindsay.

Unnecessary Expense.

Acute attacks of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery come on without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's service in such cases if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no family should be without it. For sale by all druggists.

METHOD OF RECONCILIATION

MIDLAND GIRL'S FOOL PRANKS TO SEE HER LOVER.

Binds Herself With Rope and Tells Curious Story.

(Toronto Globe, Saturday, Aug. 4.)
Because her affections for a certain young man in Midland were apparently spurned, Miss Bella Campbell, 23 years of age, bound herself with a rope and lay for some hours at night on the verandah of a house where her lover resided, in the vain hope that he would rescue her from her imaginary bandits and effect a reconciliation. Such is the story told by Provincial Detective Rogers, who has just returned from Midland, after an investigation of a series of romantic circumstances.

A letter was received from Mayor Finlayson, of Midland, by the Attorney-General's Department, dated July 25th, to the effect that Miss Campbell had been found unconscious bound and bruised, on a verandah of a house in that town at 2 o'clock in the morning, the case being one requiring investigation, and that the culprit should be punished.

The Anonymous Letters.
Detective Rogers on going to Midland found that Miss Campbell had for about two years been keeping company with a certain young man in that town. From time to time during the alleged courtship the man had received anonymous letters, some of them to the effect that he had better marry the girl. Unassigned announcements of the wedding, according to the detective, had also been sent to the local papers. Apparently the man became suspicious that the young lady herself was writing the letters, and accordingly and if they did not stop coming the courtship would be ended. Two months ago an estrangement occurred. Finally, it appears that Miss Campbell told her former lover that the letters would cease, since a girl named "Pearl," who gave the address of 239 Seaton-st., Toronto, had written on her deathbed confessing to have sent all the missives.

A Similarity of Writing.
Some of the letters being produced, the detective noticed a similarity between the handwriting of them and that of Miss Campbell. He also found that she had got the rope the day before being bound. As an explanation of this purchase Miss Campbell said she had received a letter telling her to buy it, and being afraid she had done so without telling anyone. Afterwards she admitted having written the letters and also binding herself.

According to the authorities, no notion will be taken. Though Miss Campbell was not pressed to make any explanation, the detective is of the opinion that she did the whole thing to create sympathy on the part of her lover.
