How what are men better than sheep or goats That nourish a blind life within the brain. If, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer, Both for themselves, and those who call them friend! —Tennyson.

A thankful spirit in the home is like sunshine upon the field. The anxieties of to-morrow have no claim upon the duties of to-day.

Rev. W. F. Price, lately of Meaford, has accepted a call to the Baptist church at Dauphin, Manitoba.

The Gospel Congregational Church has accepted Rev. Robert Watt, Melbourne, Ont., as their pastor.

It is the opinion of the supporters of the Queen Victoria Clergy Fund in London that the minimum wage of the clergy should be at least $1,000.

The Congregationalist says that a minister in western New York, tired of the functions in his church, resigned and became a farm hand in order to have peace.

The Canadian Register, Boston, thinks that "in the ministry there is no choice for any man but unstinted and absolute devotion to the one thing in hand."

A recent meeting of the United Board of Missions of the Provinces of York and Canterbury, England, had as its guest 140 missionaries home on leave.

In 1908 a great body of Sunday school workers propose to tour the world at their own expense in order to propagate Sunday school ideas, especially in Japan, China and Korea.

At the meeting of the Chatham presbytery a call from Wallaceburg to Rev. Murray Tait, son of D. M. Tait, St. Catharines, at a salary of $900 and free manse, was sustained.

The Episcopal Bishop of Lucknow presides over a diocese greater in extent than that of Great Britain, it having a population of about 18,000,000, of whom only 102,000 are Christians.

Every candidate for missionary work who seem to show any marks of a divine call, for such labor has been sent into the foreign field by the Church Missionary Society of England in the last 27 years, as being 25 now ready to go out as soon as the funds are forthcoming.

You need not break the glasses of a telescope, or coat them over with paint, in order to prevent your from seeing through them. Just breathe upon them and the dew of your heart will shut out all the stars. So it does not require great glasses to hide the light of God's countenance. Little faults can do it just as well.

One of the most notable meetings of the Seattle Christian Endeavor Convention was that of the Japanese Endeavorers assembled to hear addresses in their own tongue on the progress of Christianity in Japan, and to sing religious songs in Japanese, and to listen to the welcomes extended by American speakers. Secretary William Shaw told the Japanese that the Christian Endeavor Society plans to hold its convention in Japan in a few years. Friendly relations between Japan and the United States are emphasized.

The Rev. Dr. Ritobatt, president of the General Conference of the Methodist Church of Australia, addressing the conference in London recently, said the adherent of every religion has something distinctive in his appearance, adding: "I dropped from a balloon into a gathering of Baptists I could tell their sect by the way their hair is cut. If I fell into an Anglican synod I could tell by their collars. If I dropped into an assemblage of Methodists from any sky I would not regard either their hair or collars, but would know their religion by their faces, which are a type displaying intelligence and kindness."

The present Archbishop of York, England, is 81 years old, has been a bishop 30 years, and with one exception—the archbishop of Armagh—is the senior of all the diocesan leaders in the United Kingdom.

A CRY IN THE MARKET PLACE. I cry, O God, for refuge and for rest I cannot pray; there is no time to kneel. Can the spoke stop the whizzing of the wheel? Can the coal in the red forge protest? I cry, by my dead saviors of the West, Who, in their dire travail, yet could feel The wild, clean pulse of Nature at the goal Of storm upon the lordly mountain-side. I cry, by right of my ungodly sons, For respite, for some speaking of the peace, Some quiet in this rage of life that kneels. The Soul for slaughter in the Market Place. I cry, in pity for the little ones, Whose shivered shoulders must bear on the Place. —Chester Perkins, in Atlantic.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, is a disease, not one weak heart in a hundred is itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all that is the trouble. This obscure nerve—the cardiac, or heart nerve—simply needs and must have more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop's Restorative simply needs and must have more power, more stability, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

The going away gown was of leather of silk and wool taffeta accented with a plaid skirt, Juniper waist over white embroidered blouse, shoes, gloves and hat en suite.

On their return they will reside in Lindsay, and will be at home to their friends at 15 Glenelg-st. after September 15th.
