SISTERHOOD OF ST. JOSEPH

Twelve Novices Made Final Vows, Four Postulants Made Novices

(Peterboro Examiner, Thursday.)
The beautiful Chapel of Mount St. Joseph, was the scene of a sublime and impressive ceremony this morning, when four young ladies became novices, renouncing the world, and entering a new life, which they devote entirely to Almighty God.

More important was the ceremony in which four novices, who have been a probation for about two years made their final vows, and are now Sisters of St. Joseph, in every sense. This is the largest number that has ever entered the service of the Mother of Mercy.

The ceremony was presided over by Rev. Father McColl, who was assisted by his brother-in-law, Rev. Dr. O'Brien as Master of Ceremonies, had many duties to perform. The four Postulants, who have been on probation for some months, and who become novices, are:

Miss Lena King, of Cornwall, who received the Sisterhood name of Sister Wilfred.

Miss Mary Dalton, Newcastle, N. B., Sister Mary Florence.

The ceremony by which these Postulants were made novices is not only sublime, but it is pathetic. These young ladies appeared in full nuptial attire, accompanied by maids of honor. During the service they were questioned by His Lordship, and expressed the desire to enter the Sisterhood. Soon after they left the Chapel and returned in the humble dress of a Sister of St. Joseph, and were accepted on probation of several years, when, if they are still filled with the holy desire, they take their final vows.

DUCKS SHOT OUT OF SEASON

Local Citizens Saw Hundreds of Wild Ducks Shot in Chemung Lake.

Peterboro Daily Times: Yesterday a prominent citizen was loud in his denunciation over the slaughter of wild ducks he witnessed last Monday at Chemung Lake. As our informant was driving round the head of Chemung Lake, near Hoates church, he saw flocks of black ducks that must have numbered hundreds, if not thousands. There was a heavy sea running on the lake, caused by the stiff wind blowing. This compelled the black ducks to seek safety in the bay near that church mentioned in the local papers. A man, although long before the legitimate season for duck shooting, was hidden among the wild rice and weeds. As the ducks would raise in perfect clouds and arching round and round, the man would let drive with his gun and was simply slaughtering the game by scores. Our informant could not see the man, but judged that he was using a single barreled gun, as only one shot could be heard each time he murdered the ducks. The gentleman said he never saw wild ducks in such numbers or so tame before. Hundreds of them would after a shot was fired, circle about the edge of the lake and sometimes fly within thirty or forty feet of his rig. He added that if the sportsman was any kind of a good shot he must have filled his boat or canoe. It is now up to the game warden to find out the man who was murdering the ducks.

A Band Tournament Judge.

The Port Hope Guide states that Bondmaster Renwick, of the Port Hope band, sent a communication to Mr. Geo. McGuire, the judge at the recent Midland tournament, asking for criticism on his band, and that the judge, in reply, says that he didn't want the Orillia band to appear so inferior, so he marked down the Port Hope band. If this is so, McGuire belongs to a class of band judges who are extremely undesirable. He also advised the addition of several instruments.
