

FUR-SMUGGLING CASE

Defendant Simon Marshall Goes Clear on the Charge

But Magistrate Moore Voiced His Belief that Accused Had in His Possession at the Time Mentioned Something that was Contraband.

Evening Post of Aug. 23.

"I will allow every possible effort to be made to get the truth of what was in that bundle," said the witness at the last sitting of the court, "I am satisfied that the witness at the last sitting did not tell the truth," said County Police Magistrate Moore this morning, when the investigation into the alleged beaver skin smuggling case was resumed.

The defendant, Simon Marshall, of the Crown Attorney's office, Mr. G. H. Hopkins, had several times with his witness at the way the trial was being conducted.

THE EVIDENCE.

The Crown had several witnesses ready. James Horn was the first. He is a woolen mill merchant of Toronto, and had dealings in wool with the prisoner. The sack produced in court, he said, was a typical wool sack. He had said, in answer to a telephone message from the Express office on or about June 30th, that wool was expected from the north, because he was constantly buying from there. "We don't deal in furs," he concluded.

Stafford Barnett, who was the Canadian Express driver of the time of the affair, was the second witness. To the Crown he said he alone had a sight to the room, Marshall was known to him, and had expressed furs from Lindsay. O'Keefe had handed him the sack, and there was no hole in it. He didn't put the hole in it, he looked it up and handed the key to Mitchell, who said "Let me open that room." O'Keefe told him the sack was "held" by a policeman. He saw Marshall getting into Mitchell's rig and starting off down town. The door of the Express room was open when O'Keefe (Barnett) came back about 11 o'clock and the bag was torn. Mitchell gave him the key down town about 12 o'clock. He made no explanation.

T. W. Beloh, who was assistant station master at King street at that time, was the next witness for the Crown. His evidence was of little account, he being positive of very little that occurred that day. He said he had no recollection of the bundle. Constable John Jones, of Fenelon Falls, told an interesting story of the affair. He was coming down from Fenelon Falls on his way to Toronto that day, when he overheard a conversation between John Brahaman

Can't Eat Enough of MOONEY'S PERFECTION Cream Sodas

Appetite comes with eating and each square of crisp deliciousness seems but to make room for more.

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas are different from any other cracker. Nothing heavy or doughy about them but so light and crisp that they are transparent. Mooney's biscuits will be a regular dish on your table if you will try them.

Say "Mooney's" to your grocer.

ONTARIO FARMERS INTERESTED

Blended Flour is Gaining in Popularity Every Day.

Modern farming has become a business proposition, and men engaged in agriculture increase it returns annually. The soil is the paymaster, and the variety, quantity, and quality of goods produced, determines the success of the man engaged in the agricultural business.

But the market must be considered, and demand must be created, or no matter how good the product, it is of no use. Unfortunately for Ontario farmers, the demand for what ought to be the most valuable product of their fields has declined. Western millers have introduced a flour which, though lacking in flavor, contains more "strength," or gluten, than that which is milled from the more finely flavored Ontario wheat. Ontario consumers, seeing the extensive advertising of the alleged superiority of Western flour, were soon convinced that flour must be sacrificed to strength, so the home market was largely lost, and the farmers began to notice the increased cost of feed, and the low prices to be obtained for their wheat.

By a series of chemical analyses and experiments which have extended over a decade, it has been demonstrated that by the addition of a small proportion of Western wheat, Ontario blended flour contains the necessary gluten to successfully compete with its Western rival, and still retain the flavor which is peculiar to Ontario grain. Bread made from blended flour soon made a ready sale in Toronto, and within a year or two after the introduction of blended flour on the market, the Maritime Provinces have adopted the use of Ontario grain. Bread made from blended flour is now a reality in Ontario, and the farmer's position is being improved in the last six months.

It has already been pointed out that the farmer as a business man, must consider the market and the inexorable law of supply and demand. Now Ontario ought to deserve the first attention, and the home market of the Province should be the first to be developed for Ontario blended flour. But the farmer is both a producer and a consumer, and as such, has a double interest in helping to create a demand for Ontario-grown wheat. When the individual farmer realizes that the purchase of his own flour means better bread for his table, and an ultimate substantial decrease in the cost of bran and shorts, the path to regain the Ontario market for an Ontario product will be as good as won.

GAY TIMES AT ROSEDALE.

This Pretty Kawartha Resort Has Many Summer Visitors.

Evening Post of Aug. 24.

Rosedale is quite gay at present. Every cottage is filled up and quite a number of tents are in use.

A house boat with a party of fourteen, in charge of Mr. Fred Robinson of Toronto, is making this spot headquarters for a few days.

The weather is beautiful this week, and the regular parties, which are in consequence the motor boats, canoes and rowboats are making numerous excursions to the various points of interest—Cobocook, Kirkfield and the Burnt River. Mr. Goodman's gasoline yacht has been kept on the lake with excursion parties.

The regular liners, Kawartha and Manitoba, have also been carrying record crowds this week.

The fishing has been fairly good. The regular fisher, landed a On St. Mary's—Sept. 25 and 26.

INTERESTING FARM NOTES

FOR FARMERS' WIVES.

Collier's Weekly tells of a town that has a "Rest-Room" for farmers' wives. It is about time that some consideration was taken of these patient, useful citizens, especially when we are so dependent upon their labors. In Oskaloosa, Iowa, a room in the City Hall has been fitted up as a rest room. It is clean; music curtains are on the windows; half a dozen rockers and other easy chairs are in the room; the table is spread with magazines and papers; attractive pictures are on the walls, and a few shelves of books are there, beside a clock, which really keeps time. Out of this room opens an apartment supplied with three long tables, twenty or more dining chairs, and a sofa. On these tables the women can spread their luncheons. Opening out of the sitting room there is a large toilet, generously supplied with clean towels, soap, combs, etc. A motherly woman presides over these rooms. The paper does not say how the room is financed, but it does say that the mother has her wages paid, the place is heated, and well supplied with literature, growing plants, and clean linen. It was not only patronized by farmer women, but the girls from the telephone offices and other female clerks made good use of it. There is something that might be useful in every town. Merchants and others who want the produce and trade of our farm women might see that such a room is provided and maintained. The different women's organizations, especially women's clubs, literary and social, and the W. C. T. U. might also make it their business to arrange that a well-kept "rest-room" is maintained in every town and city.

A SEEDLESS TOMATO.

Now it is the seedless tomato. Science is never idle. It is as busy evolving new products for the field and garden as it is discovering new sources of disease or harnessing the forces of nature to new uses.

Two methods of producing a seedless tomato have been tried with success. One of them is by selection and crossing promising varieties; the other, by high feeding with fertilizers.

The success attained brings out strikingly the varieties that may be made to occur in plants as a result of scientific effort.

The development of a seedless tomato has not come suddenly—few real advances in science or worldly affairs do.

For a number of years Professor B. D. Halsted and his associates have been working quietly, but continuously and enthusiastically, at the New Jersey experimental station. They have been breeding vegetables and experimenting with them in a number of ways.

More or less of such work has been done at the experiment stations of the country, some dealing with specialties of this kind, others with generalities.

Whenever Professor Halsted, however, succeeded in evolving a seedless tomato to be conferred a real boon upon the millions whose palates crave the juicy red fruit of the tomato's vine.

It is well known, of course, that the ordinary tomato contains hundreds of seeds. The form which has been developed at the New Jersey station seldom contains more than fifty seeds.

Frequently there are not more than five or six, and many of them are found to contain not a single seed.

It is believed that an entirely seedless variety will be fixed and will remain as the joy of gardeners and consumers through all the coming years.

In fact, the new variety has become pretty well established already. It is called the Giant, because of the very large size that the plant attains.

SETS A GOOD EXAMPLE

Local Banking Institute Plans to Help the Fair and Farmers.

We are informed that the Victoria Loan & Savings Co. of this town, actuated by a desire to do their part in helping the officers of Lindsay Central Exhibition to achieve a grand success this year, and also promote the raising of good horses in the County of Victoria, have decided to offer a cash prize of $25.00 for the best draught team exhibited at the coming Central. The prize is well worth competing for, and it is expected that many good stock raisers not usually seen on the fair ground, will exhibit in the above class. No doubt if the showing warrants, the Co. will continue the prize another year.

CHEAP MEATS.

Farmers and others requiring large quantities of meat are requested to call at CALVERT'S, Lindsay, for their supplies. We intend selling meat at greatly reduced prices. GEO. H. CALVERT & SON, Academy of Music Block—w2.

Eliminate Examination.

Dr. John Seath, Superintendent of Education, stated the other day that any changes in the course of study for the Public or High schools of the province to be made within the next few months would not in any way disturb the schools. Pupils and teachers could easily adjust themselves to alterations. It is intimated that several were being considered for introduction into the schools next September. It will be seven or eight years before these are in full operation. They tend, Mr. Seath remarked, towards the elimination of written examinations.

Every Pandora thermometer is carefully adjusted and undergoes a practical test by heat—proven correct before being sent out.

The figures, which show the required degree of heat necessary for the successful baking of bread, cakes, pies, etc., are plainly inscribed in black on a white enamel surface, so that they are easily readable, even when the day is dull.

If your local dealer does not sell the Pandora, write direct for free booklet.

A convenience much appreciated by every owner of a Pandora is the towel rod attached to the range. As one-third of the rod is made of emery, it makes a splendid knife sharpener, too.

It's always there handy for you. You need waste no time hunting around for the easily misplaced "steel." Bright idea, eh?

An accurate thermometer is a reliable guide to successful baking, while an inaccurate one is a "cheat" of the worst kind.

BUSINESS TRAINING FREE

A life-time opportunity for some young men and young women with ideas.

Business Systems Commercial School Limited, founded upon practical up-to-date business lines, formed from new scientific methods to teach business as business is done, basing their instructions upon forms and supplies identical with those now used in the most modern business houses, has an idea regarding advertising.

To work out this idea they want your assistance and are willing to pay you yes, pay you well for it. Is your brain fertile, is it active, is it in good working order? If so, "Get Busy."

We want a good "catch phrase" to use in our advertising, we want the "catch phrase" obtainable. We now have some good ones, but they may not be the best. We want the best, the best is none too good for Business Systems Commercial School, "The Best for Business Training." We have now the best rooms, best equipment, the best teachers, the best plan of work, and we will undoubtedly give by far the best courses of the country will do the best advertising, that young people from all parts of the country will know of the special advantages provided for them by this school. "The Essence of Essential Education," "The Path of Practical Principles."

We are prepared to give to three persons, six months, four months, and two months respectively of this "best business training" free of any tuition charges. The three persons mentioned will be the first three who send us their best three "catch phrases," or should the one selected as the BEST be sent by three persons, they will rank in order as received, first received will be given first place, second received, second place, and third received, third place. All other contestants who send in the phrase selected as the best and who subsequently enter our school for at least a three months' course will be given one month as a bonus, free of tuition charges.

The conditions of the competition are easy of fulfillment.

All contestants must be candidates for a business training for at least a portion of the School Year 1927-1928, or in other words, all persons competing must be eligible for, and purpose taking before June 1928, at least a one month's course in Day or Evening Classes in some Commercial School or Business College.

It costs nothing to try except a little brain exercise, and a few moments of time in writing. Talk it over with your friends, those who are not competing, get their ideas with your own, remembering that two heads are better than one.

The shorter the phrase the better, as long as one or more good ideas are conveyed.

All answers must reach us not later than September 30th. If a distance mail in time.

In order that you may the better know something of the special advantages of this school, and thus get ideas to use in the forming of the phrase, we will be pleased to mail all contestants upon request, a Booklet descriptive of our school and its courses of study. Fall term begins Tuesday, Sept. 2nd. Mention this paper when writing. Address

The Home Journal for August.

The principal feature of the Home Journal of Toronto for the current month is the expose of the city manager, "Toronto's Abomination" which is a most scathing denunciation of the Health Department, other special features are the illustrated articles on the "National Council of Women," "The Summer Fiasco," The Kawartha Lakes. In connection with the latter is given a new setting of "The Voice of Jesus Say," as sung by Stoney Lake. Additions have been made to the department of household work, fashions, household economy, and a page is devoted to the work of the Ontario Women's Institutes. The whole number is a creditable production and deserving of the support of the Canadian home.

PROWLING DOGS VISIT OPS.

Farmers Tormented by Packs of Half Starved, Savage Canines.

A pack of savage, half-wild dogs has infested the farms and woods of North Ops, and are overrunning the country, subsisting on the domestic animals and flocks of the farmers, and are causing the latter endless worry and trouble.

The canines hunt in packs, and the victims of their carnivorous appetites are generally chickens, ducks, geese, small pigs, etc. Mr. John Jackson, one of the farmers who is being considerably by these depredations, made a complaint to Chief Vincent recently. He stated that several farmers had suffered to some extent from the ravages of the dogs. Mr. W. J. Lee had 24 ducks killed, Mr. T. Helm had one killed, and he (Jackson) had a turkey killed, and he (Jackson) had a lean-looking heifer, and pigs, calves, and not even cattle, are immune from the savage attacks of the marauding pack. The farmers have endeavored to shoot them, but with little success, the dogs being extremely shy and wary. They hide in the grain, poking their heads up to see if the farmers are approaching.

One theory that has been advanced is that the dogs are the half-starved animals that infest the streets of Lindsay. It is thought that when hunger presses them they form into a pack and go hunting for prey. The dogs are very cunning, and are determined to starve because if the town dogs once form the habit of visiting the country barnyards and sheep folds the situation will be insupportable.

SECOND REGATTA AT POINT

Hopkins Boys Won the Sturgeon Lake Dinghy Championship.

Thursday afternoon the cottagers and visitors again flocked to the lake front to witness a series of races. As will be remembered, the dinghy race on the program for Regatta day could not be decided owing to the absence of wind, and had to be postponed. By mutual agreement between the sailors it was fixed for Thursday, and the Regatta committee decided to offer prizes for a couple of other races, and so help to make an interesting afternoon. The plan succeeded admirably.

The dinghy race, six miles, for the ownership of a silver cup, had four contestants—two Ryeboon boys and Mr. Nasmith, from Ancona Point. Eric Ryeboon crossed the line first with a lead of about 100 yards, but having disregarded the rules, which the judges, was ruled out. Hopkins taking first and Geo. Ryeboon second place.

Ladies' Tandem—1st. Miss Armstrong and Miss Warner; 2nd. Miss Knowlson and Miss Clara Flavell.

Four in Canoe—1st. Bruce Wilson, Bruce Hopkins, R. Fort and W. Knowlson; 2nd. Messrs. Davidson, Ryeboon, Frostland Ryeboon; 3rd. Messrs. Simpson, Mullett and Dickson Bros.

An Advertising Painter.

If ninety per cent of the letters you send out of your office were so illegibly addressed that they never reached their destinations, would you conclude that letter writing didn't pay? Or would you take measures to see that in future your correspondence should be dispatched with greater care? Here and there a business man is to be found who has read them, and that "ad" wags so content because his nobody cares to be interested, or because he inserted them in mediums which didn't carry their message to the people he wanted to reach. Misdirected advertisements are as useless as misdirected letters.
