Things in General

By "THE STROLLER." We have not heard so much recent ly about the working of the Lord Day Act as two did at thirst, but whee their this is a sign that it is working all right on not is hard to say. Occassionally an item appears showing that there are those who are dotermired to run counter to the Act, The worst that appears against it are the thinly veiled jibes that some newspaper men are continually throwing at those who wish for a quiet Sabbath. Of all men in the world, one would imagine that newspaper men would be the last to kick against the Act, but it only goes to prove that things go loy contraries. For instance, we have seen an item in some papers, evidently copied with great glee by others, stating how a minister of the gospel at Grimsoy, jumped into fifteen feet of water, and saved a young lady's life, and suggested that that was more in consonance with his calding than hunt ing around for people who soid a few icents' worth of peanuts on Sunday. Now there is one great mistake that the opponents of Sunday rest make, and that is, in thinking that the leaders in the movement are oigots, and that they are laying awake at nights working out schemes to tie cople up, and make them he good. As a matter of fact, there are no more sensible men, nor diberal men, either religiously or judging from any other standpoint than these same men. They realize the fact, however, -- the very serious fact-that if we de not have a proper rest day, not for a part of the people only, four for the whole of the people, that our nation will not progress as it should. No doubt they can stand the jibes and even the untruths, that are uttered about them. It would not matter if they stopped there, but untruths

do harm. Some time ago one J. Enoch toff so-called narrowness, likely with other cass than even our lowest tions, so that the different wings can the idea of hurting the cause. The same condition of things exists in Canada, although not to the same extent. No doubt many of these sort of people are themselves to blame for this condition of things, but even so, fancy anyone going to bed continually hungry-never fully satisfied. If there are any num-ber of this class of people in our midst it can well be imagined that school books would be as far from their wants as gold watches, and they would only be loought at the point of the law, and then at the expense of a meal or other necessary of life. It does not seem right that train up good citizens we must get hold of them at school age and do all we can to belp them along. Free text books would be a good beginning, and free meals to the hungry would be a good second.

Henri Bourassa is getting lots of sympathy these days from the Tories on account of the stone throwing at Quebec. The Grit papers are also going out of their way to seek to show that, even if it did happen in Sir Wilfrid's constituency, he (Sir Wilfrid) had nothing to do with it an entirely superfluous apology.
