London, Sept. 4 .- The first sitting of the Alaskan Boundary Commisdon was held yesterday morning in the conference room of the Foreign ofice. At a private conference prior to the formal session the Commisdoners selected Reginald T. Tower, of the British diplomatic service. formerly attached to the legation at Washington, to be secretary of the commission. J. R. Carter, second secretary of the U. S. Embassy, and Joseph Pope, deputy secretary of State, Ottawa, were appointed assistant secretaries.

Lord Chief Justice Alverstone was chosen chairman, and it was aunounced that oral arguments would commence Sept. 15. Lord Alverstone expressed the hope that they would be finished by Oct. 9. Canadian Counsel First.

The Canadian counsel, who were the first to arrive, were followed by John W. Foster, former Secretary of State, and his assistants, accompanied by Ambassador Choate. The Commissioners came in a few minutes later and immediately began a private conference, which resulted in the selection of the officers, and at which they exchanged credentials and took the oath required by the treaty. A few minutes after 11 o'clock the Commissioners took their seats. Senstor Turner, on the extreme right, then Professor Sir Louis Jette, Slihu Root, Lord Alverstone, Senstor Lodge, A. B. Aylesworth, Mr. Foster and Hon. Clifford Sifton. The agents of the respective Governments sat at desks on the extreme ght and left of the Commission. tile counsel and the stenographers supied desks facing the Commis-

The Commission decided to sit five lays per week, commencing Sept. and excluding Saturdays, and ganted permission to admit a limited representation of the press. Arrangements of Argument.

It has been arranged that three of counsel for each Government shall present argument, the British opening and being followed alternately by Americans and British, the forms securing the advantage of delivering the closing argument.

The senior counsel for Great Britain are: Sir Robert Finlay, K. C .; Sir Edward Carson, K. C.; Christopher Robinson, K.C.; junior counsel, C. Wade, K.C.; Lyman Duff, K. A. Geoffrion, K.C., and Mr. Rowatt. K.C. The British Attorney-General will open, the American ounsel will follow, and then Mr. Christopher Robinson, K.C. The Commission removed the inunction of secrecy on all documents litherto exchanged, and the sitting was adjourned.

Danger in Compromise. Referring to the conference The Globe says: "Compromise is the essuce of diplomacy, but there is only 1 too common tendency to exercise it to the detriment of some third party and Canada is justified in slopting the attitude of watchfulness ad even suspicion. Canada is prepred to accept any decision the evience warrants, but the Canadian Mess warn us that an unfair triumph of the United States might prove a staggering blow to British connection. The existence of this sentiment. logsther with a feeling, not altopther justified, that the Mother Country was slow to act in the past. inders it important that the matter a sattled once for all on the broad Ottawa, Sept. 4.—Yesterday was the big day at the D. R. A. for both shooting and social functions. In the shooting the attraction was the first stage of the Governor-General's match, which is the chief prize for which all the riflemen contend. The Governor-General's is a military match. The first series of the match, 200 and 500 yards, was begun under a cloudy sky, the air being still and rain threatening. A steady light prevailed.

Capt. A. C. King, of the 46th, won the Governor-General's medal with a score of 101.

Grand Trunk Pacific Bailway Expenditures to Be Provided For in This Way -In the House of Commons-Mr. E. B. Osler's Statement - Unqualified Denial of Mr. Scott's Charge.

Toronto, Sept. 4.-Globe special.-Ottawa, Sept. 8.—Before the close of the present session legislation will be introduced whereby a fund will be created from the sale Dominion lands for the purpose of satisfying all the obligations of the Government in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific line. The intention is to permit settlers who take up homesteads to purchase an additional 160 acres adjoining their locations at $3 or $5 per acre, or whatever the price may be. The lands in the Northwest are rapidly rising in value, and the influx of settlers continues to increase. Before very long the fund will have reached a handsome figure. Thus, instead of the policy that prevailed under the old regime, of giving the lands to railway corporations without benefit to the country, the lands will hereafter be disposed of and the proceeds turned into the public trea-

Mr. Osler's Statement.

The whole of the morning and the sion of the House yesterday, was consumed in an animated and somewhat acrimonious debate, which arose upon a question of privilege raised by Mr. E. B. Osler. The member for West Toronto, took exception to statements made by Mr. Walter Scott, the representative from Western Assiniboia, who had on Monday evening made some caustic comments upon Mr. Osler's connection. with the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake Saskatchewan, and the Calgary Edmonton Railway Companies. asserted that the statement that and his associates had a margin of some $15,000,000 upon the financial transactions in connection with these companies. was absolutely without loungation, and maisted that every pound raised by the sale of the bonds and the land grant went into the roads. Moreover, he took credit for himself and his firm for having made a most successful flotation of the companies. He had nothing to be ashamed of in regard to the affairs. Mr. Scott, after a protracted debate, accepted Mr. Osler's denial, but pointed out that the obligations of the company were considerably in excess of the actual cost of constructing the roads, the excess being augmented by the land grants and cash subsidies given by the Government, until it reached the very large sum of $16,000,000. Somebody had derived benefit to that extent out of the construction of those railways, and therefore he insisted that his comparison of the results of railway. legislation by the Conservative Government with the railway legislation submitted by the Liberal Government, and now under consideration, was justified. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, replying to a question by Mr. Monk, intimated that the Government knew its duty better than to abandon any part of the project for another transcontinental railway. When the House at last got down to a consideration of the Government measure no progress was made, the members of the Opposition pursuing a course of obstruction which was apparent.

COAST AND OCEAN THE SAME

No Support For the American Contention That the Negotiations Between Russia and the United States For the Treaty Contemplated the Erection of a Barrier Between Russian and British Possessions,

New York, Sept. 5 .- The Sun's London correspondent thus expresses the British argument in the Alaskan Boundary: The British argument makes a volume of 187 folio pages, which deal exhaustively with the seven questions under consideration In reference to the question as to what channel is the Portland Canal Great Britain contends that it that which Vancouver named on entering the ocean between Tongas Island and Kannaghunt Island, and leaving Sitks and Frince of Wales Islands to the south and east, it extends northerly eighty-two miles to its head. The contention of the United States that Observatory Inlet was meant is absolutely denied.

Great Britain contends on the oth er hand, that if there must be a departure from Capt. Vancouver's map then the line must run up Clarence Strait and Ernest Sound, or up Behm Canal on one or the other side of Bevillagigedo Island.

The British contention on the third question is that the inlet must follow the shortest course and that the text of the treaty supports the English view. In reference to the parallel of 50 deg. 40 min. being the southern boundary Great Britain discards the letters of Nesselrode as being of no weight as against the terms of the treaty.

The Fortland Channel. The fourth contention is that the line from the head of Portland Channel to the fifty-sixth parallel of latitude should be the shortest possible to the point on that parallel which the tribunal decides is the starting point of the eastern boundary of the

The principal efforts of the British argument are directed at the fifth question, to which some forty pages of the argument are devoted. Great Britain understands this question to mean that the tribunal is to decide Whether it was an essential characteristic of the lisiere or strip that it should not be traversed by inlets, in other words whether the eastern boundary should necessarily run around the heads of all inlets, the definition of which is almost vital to the entire

The words "coast" and "ocean, Great Britain contends, refer to the same thing. The windings of coast are those of a coast which limits the

The "Tidal Water" Contention. The American contention of "tidal water' is dismissed as out of the gusstion. The Thames, at Richmond, is unquestionably under tidal influences. So is New Orleans, on the Mississippi-But, according to the British argument, one could not by any stretch of imagination call these two points parts of the ocean. It is pointed out that the provisions of Article VII. strongly support the contention that the Alaskan treaty contemplated the possibility that some part of the inlets might be British. It is asserted that there is no support for the American contention that the negotiations between Russia and the United States and Russian posessions thruout the The tribunal, it is argued, should draw a boundary line along coast the summits of the mountains parallel to the coast of the ocean. It is urged that when Russia proposed to discard references to the mountains and take a ten-league distance as a rule Great Britain refused to consent.

Wants Some Inlets.

for the treaty contemplated the erection of a barrier between the British

Great Britain repudiates the argument of the United States that England is entitled to none of the inlets. She insists that she ought to obtain the heads of all important inlets. In dealing with the sixth question Great Britain contends that the width of the listere should be measured from the line of the general trend of the coast of the ocean, strictly socalled, along a line perpendicular to such general trend, reproducing such widenings of the coast as fairly modify the general frend and are of such dimensions as admit of being reproduced by a line drawn ten marine leagues inland. As contemplated by the treaty, where inlets occur that form part of the territorial water of power owning the shores on either side, the width of the listere should be ascertained from the course which a line giving effect to the general trend of the mainland coast would follow in crossing the inlet.
