HAS LINDSAY CHEAP POWER?

The following remarks of The Globe, with a few necessary alterations, will be interesting to the people of Lindsay at the present time, when our citizens are striving to attract new industries:

The Mayor of Orillia has made an interesting and important contribution to the power problem discussion. If the town of Orillia, with all the drawbacks and difficulties said to attach to municipal ownership and operation, can install a power plant on a comparatively small scale, transmit the current a distance of twenty miles, and sell it at $16 per horse power a year, the public are justified in demanding proportionate rates in the vicinity of other sources of electric energy. The Orillia rate is for a continuous service of twenty-four hours per day, and it pays not only all charges and expenses, but yields a material profit to the municipality.

With this demonstration before the public other municipalities are in a position to determine what their rights are in regard to power services and have the best possible grounds for demanding that their rights be respected.

The price of power is the vital issue, and it is of paramount importance to all municipalities that must grow by industrial development. Power is an element that enters into an important extent into the cost of every industrial process. Cheap power is sufficient to turn the delicately adjusted commercial balance in favor of any municipality, any district, province or nation.

In the keenness of industrial and commercial competition, both local and national, no municipality can afford to relinquish the advantage that cheap power confers. The relative claims of public and private ownership become important only as they affect the vital issue of price. The more conservative elements in the community naturally support private operation and distribution, offering the many political temptations that would come into existence with the assumption of such extensive duties and works by the Provincial Government.

It is generally regarded as fortunate that the Hydro-electric power commission is not inclined to develop power or expropriate existing plants, unless it be found impossible to persuade or coerce the existing corporations into supplying power at reasonable rates. Expropriation is a means that should be used only as a last resort, and the knowledge that it is an ever-present possibility will obviate the necessity of resorting to it. The present and pressing necessity is the reduction of the rates to reasonable proportions. With the evidence of Orillia before the public and the valuable statistics collected by the commission readily available there is no excuse for delay in establishing fair and reasonable rates for electric power. People look to Hydro-electric Power Commission and to the Ontario Government for prompt and efficient action.

LOCAL OPTION IN ELGIN COUNTY.

Much has appeared in the provincial press during the past couple of weeks concerning the alleged immorality practised in the local option hotels in Elgin County. The charge was lodged by a local magistrate with great emphasis, but the proofs advanced would not weigh heavily with an unprejudiced reader. The impression sought to be created, apparently, was that the disorders reported in these places was a result of their being unlicensed houses. It will be admitted by all fair-minded men that the conditions alluded to are possible—aye, probable—in any rural or village community where there is lax oversight of the hotels. Everything goes to show that in the Elgin instance cited the conditions, if as bad as described, were the result of local circumstances.

Rev. W. P. Beekie, of Sparta, Ont., under date of Oct. 9th, deals in a letter with Police Magistrate Hunt's charge against the local option workers of Yarmouth. He says:

These houses spoken of are bad, no doubt, yet some of us wonder why what means he is able to see thirty rigs tied around them or where those rigs have gone when other people rise. Moreover, these are the houses, and these are the keepers that were trusted with license before local option, and would doubtless again receive license and be certified as respectable if the temperance people would only fall in line with the license advocates. And did he forget that the scandal he was then investigating took place under his praised license system? Local option did not produce the immorality of these places. It was there before local option, and is there still, only because the temperance people, who have no responsibility in regard to law enforcement, have found it impossible to get the officers of the law to act. I, myself, laid an information of illegal liquor selling before a magistrate who consented to issue warrants to raid three of these places, and sent word to the license inspector to that effect. Yet he would not act. We made complaint to the government, but our communication was not even acknowledged. We have repeatedly sought to have the places raided, and unless the worthy magistrate expects us to don white caps and go at them, he cannot find way to blame us, that they still break the law.

WORST KIND OF BRIBERY.

Truly, as the Telegram remarks, "the ideals, even the instincts, of Ontario Conservatism should rise in revolt against the teaching of the Mail and Empire," on the land deals, and what is that teaching? That "any man can buy a block of land from the Canadian Pacific or the Canadian Northern. The thing is done every day."

Such an explanation is not acceptable to any honest-minded man. What is it that our contemporary seeks to justify? A party of Conservative politicians made a trip across the continent for political purposes. Mr. Borden and those who accompanied him desired to arouse the people in favor of their cause. Their mission was supposed to be a purely patriotic one. The tourists had no object to serve but the public interest. At least that was the supposition. As Mr. Pope, Mr. Fowler and others looked over the land, however, and contemplated its richness they conceived the idea of acquiring large tracts of it and by trading and bartering, becoming wealthy.

Mr. Fowler tells in the letter which he wrote something of what followed. They succeeded beyond their wildest anticipations. Mr. Mann gave them secret information with regard to the route of the Canadian Northern, and Sir Thomas Shaughnessy gave them the assurance of land at the proper price. In other words these railway men, keen and quick-witted at all times, saw the chance of making themselves solid with a party of parliamentarians and secured them at once. Every man who accepted the favors became their servants, bought with a price and robbed forever of their independence.

And it is this fact that the Mail conveniently ignores. Any man can buy land from the railways. To be sure he can. But any man cannot get access to the secrets of Daniel Mann, and to the generosity of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy. The parliamentarian, of the venal kind, is the special mark of the man who waxes favors in parliament and know so well how to acquire them.

The Telegram puts it in other words thus:

"What is the difference between taking from a railway company an opportunity that can be turned into big money, and taking a bribe that is already big money?"

"Is the Conservative party to have a future of honor to itself or of usefulness to the country? Then its membership must disown the infamies of the organ which dares to preach the atrocious doctrine that it is either right or excusable for members of parliament to place themselves under obligations to private interests whose greed is frequently and necessarily at war with the country good."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is said that Sir Mackenzie Bowell is vastly interested in the revelation of "Fostered Finance", and that so intense is his sympathy with Hon. Geo. E. Foster that every tear he sheds over him would poison a food.

At Hochheide, in Germany, 1,020 school children had their teeth examined, with the result that 20 per cent. of all the teeth were found to be defective. Only thirty-five of the children had sound sets of teeth and in 396 children a poor bodily condition was directly due to poor teeth.

In their agreement to give Mr. Foster the worst of it the Laurier newspapers showed great recklessness. They pressed the case so strongly against him as to suggest that the funds of the Independent Order of Foresters were impaired as a result of the transactions inquired into. As a matter of fact the order's money was much increased.—Mail and Empire.

To this the Hamilton Times makes the apt retort:

We had not noticed that any paper, Grit, Tory or "jackal," had made such a suggestion. It has been pointed out that the risk was taken with the Foresters' money. Would the Mail approve of a bank employee taking the bank's money to bet on races, if he happened to put it on a lucky winner?

LOCAL CURLIERS PREPARING LOCAL BANKING SITUATION

ANNUAL MEETING OF LINDSAY CLUB LAST FRIDAY.

Skips and Officers for 1906-7—Big Bonspiel Next Year.

Evening Post of Oct. 13.

The approach of cold weather has revived interest in the noble game of curling, and there was a goodly attendance of veteran and youthful enthusiasts at the annual meeting of Victoria Curling Club last evening, held at the rink, where the atmosphere was most suggestive of the sport.

Dr. Walters, president for 1905-6, occupied the chair, and Secretary J. C. Harstone looked after a mass of correspondence, part of which related to the annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association in Toronto on the 16th inst.

A notice of motion proposed by Secretary Harstone at the semi-annual meeting and aiming at a change in the method of electing club skips, was discussed at some length. Mr. Harstone proposed, instead of having 24 skips elected annually by vote of the Club, to permit any four players to form a rink, choose their own skip, and enter in one of two competitions or classes. The mover thought his plan would promote membership and give more satisfaction than the present system, although it might work a hardship in case of some of the older players.

Mr. J. D. Flavelle disapproved of the proposed change which only promised relief in the few instances where a player found himself attached to an uncongenial rink. The winning of games was not the main object of the Club—the important thing to foster the building up of a higher manhood. There were difficulties connected with the most perfect system yet devised; while a few rinks had broken up, the present system had given good satisfaction, and the Club had been successful. It was the largest, or one of the largest in Ontario, outside of some city rinks.

Mr. J. M. Knowlson and Dr. Wood thought it would be a serious mistake to make the proposed change, believing it would be at the expense of harmony and good will.

Mr. J. W. Anderson—"The mingling of old and young men is beneficial."

Mr. Harstone—"The old men would be keen to get the younger players on their rinks."

A vote was then taken and the motion was snuffed under.

PROPOSED CHANGES.

The election of officers and skips was next proceeded with, and resulted as follows:

OTHER BUSINESS.

The following new members were balloted for and declared elected:

Mr. J. M. Knowlson presented a verbal report from the committee appointed last season to interview players and citizens relative to the wisdom of arranging for the holding of a big bonspiel, open to the Dominion, during the coming winter. The majority of these consulted seemed to be of the opinion that it would be inadvisable to attempt the undertaking before season, but plans should at once be prepared. On motion the same committee was continued in office.

Half an hour or more was devoted to the consideration of changes in the rules governing local matches, and Mr. J. W. Flavelle, who will attend the meeting of the Ontario Association, was advised as to the course to follow when certain questions come up to be dealt with. Lindsay will enter both the Tankard and District Cup competitions.

It was announced, amidst cheers, that a Cup would be put up for competition this season—between Lindsay and Fenelon Falls, the donors being Messrs. F. B. A. McDiarmid and Geo. McFadden.

A cordial vote of thanks was tendered Dr. Walters in recognition of the deep interest he had displayed in the welfare of the Club while filling the position of president.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

Mr. J. D. Flavelle alluded in feeling terms to the sudden death of an old and highly respected member of the Club, Mr. John McSweeney, several of whose sons had also been associated with them in the past. His demise meant a loss to the Club, at large, and to the community, and Dr. Wood moved, seconded by Dr. Wood, that a suitable memorial address, expressive of the regret felt by all members, be prepared and presented on behalf of the Club, to the bereaved widow and family.

The motion was carried by a standing vote, and the curlers then dispersed.

MR. H. J. LYTLE JOINS STAFF OF BANK OF MONTREAL.

Record Opening of Bank of Commerce Branch in Lindsay.

Evening Post of Oct. 13.

There was a great demand last night on the part of our citizens for copies of the Toronto News and Evening Telegram, in which appeared an announcement to the effect that the Ontario Bank was in serious financial difficulties, and that there was a probability of the Bank of Montreal assuming control of its affairs, negotiations to that end being under way.

This morning the news spread rapidly, and at 10 o'clock, when the doors of the local bank were thrown open, something resembling a ruin developed, and in a number of cases there were frenzied demands for the payment of sums to the credit of depositors, which were complied with by the staff with all the celerity possible.

Some minutes later Mr. A. Montzambert, manager of the Bank of Montreal, received a telegram from headquarters authorizing him to honor all demands made by the Ontario Bank depositors, and this was done both by the Bank of Montreal and the Dominion Bank until the hour for closing. The available cash on hand at the first named bank was carried over to the Ontario Bank by accountants' plunkett for the payment of small depositors, holders of larger amounts receiving certified cheques. Very few of the larger depositors demanded cash, being content to hand over their cheques for safe keeping.

Manager H. J. Lytle, of the Ontario Bank, bore himself well and firmly throughout the unusual and trying ordeal, and was courteous and attentive to all questioners. The confidence shown in him and the bank by several citizens, who deposited large amounts as soon as they heard of the trouble, must have been very cheering under the circumstances.

Although it is not yet a certainty that the Bank of Montreal's offer for the Ontario Bank's stock will be accepted, depositors may rely upon it that they will be absolutely safe from loss.
