THESE ARE TRUE

Five Thousand Facts About Canada, the Young Nation.

Canada's western wheat contains 10 per cent. more albuminoids than the best European varieties.

One hundred pounds of Canadian flour makes more bread of high quality than the same weight of any wheat imported into Britain.

Lord Strathcona asserts that in ten years Canada can produce all the grain needed by Great Britain.

Great Britain imports annually nearly 200 million bushels of wheat. Of this, Canada sold her (1906) only 36 million bushels, worth 30 millions.

Western wheat elevators, 1,200; capacity 51 1/2 million bushels.

22,850 harvest hands helped to gather the 1906 grain in the west.

Western Canada has 3 times as much wheat land available as is now cultivated in the U. S.—Wm. Whyte, C. P. R.

Average price to farmer of western wheat crop of 1904 was 72c. per bushel; 1905 crop, 63c., 1906, 60c., calculating all grades.

Average cost of production and shipment, 35c. per bushel, average net profit, 30c. per bushel, or 98 per cent.

Best U. S. farms yield owners $5 or less per acre.

Estimated intrinsic value of western Canadian farm lands now, $100 per acre.

Value of western Canada's wheat crop, 1904, $40,900,810; of 1905 as 1906, $53,000,000 each.

Wheat growth in U. S. of 600 million bushels has approximately equalled its height.

Best U. S. wheat lands are either cropped or gradually becoming uncultivated.

U. S. was once Britain's chief wheat provider.

Annual increased wheat consumption in U. S. is 8 million bushels.

Drop in U. S. wheat exports to 700,000, 45 million bushels.

Minnesota millers are buying Canadian wheat mixed with U. S. wheat and they recover their high grade flour for export.

The half-a-billion people in China and Japan are prospective buyers of Canada's surplus wheat.

In a single year 50.7 per cent. of all the wheat of Canada inspected in Winnipeg grade "Manitoba Hard," and 50.6 per cent. "No. 1 Northern," making 81.2 per cent. fall within the two highest wheat grades.

During the same time practically only 1 per cent. of the receipts at Minneapolis grade No. 1 Hard and 2 per cent. No. 1 Northern, a difference of nearly four to one in favor of Canadian wheat.

WATER POWERS

Canada surpasses the world in its possession of water powers.

The minimum Niagara flow represents 3 million h. p., one-tenth more than Victoria Falls, Africa.

Niagara power in sight when developed will aggregate 700,000 h. p. 400,000 h. p. is in process of development on the Canadian side.

20,000 h. p. will be transmitted to Toronto.

Ontario restricts export of Niagara horse power to 50 per cent.

Canada will hereafter place an export duty on Niagara power.

11 million h. p. can be developed from Lake Superior on Canadian side.

Equalling total amount of power now in use in U. S. for manufacturing.

Over 1 million h. p. exists within 50 mile radius from Ottawa.

Quebec Government has sold 50 powers in 8 years, aggregating 1 1/4 million h. p.

FARMER'S TEAM RAN AWAY

Leaped Over Buggy and Injured Man Who Tried to Stop Them.

Evening Post, Oct. 21.

A heavy farm team, owned by Mr. T. Hogan, of East Ops, became frightened from some unknown cause while standing in the yard of the Royal hotel on Saturday afternoon. They turned quickly, tearing away the scapting to which they were tied. A buggy standing in their way was seized in their headlong career and badly broken.

Putting the big wagon behind them, the horses tore down Lindsay at across the bridge, and headed up Queen-st. for home. Near McWatters' bakery Mr. Joe Bell attempted to stop them, but was knocked down and the wagon passed over him, leaving him badly hurt, lying on the road. They were finally stopped by Mr. Thos. Teevin, in Ops. The horses were not badly injured, but the buggy they ran over was a total wreck.

THE WOLF BOUNTIES.

Over Seven Thousand Dollars Paid Out So Far This Year.

Up to the end of September the Provincial Treasurer had paid out $7,380 in wolf bounties, for which the appropriation made at the last session of the Legislature was $8,500. Last year the total paid for the wolf twelve months was $8,367. The Government pays $15 for every wolf killed in the unorganized districts, and $6 of the $15 which is paid by counties for wolves killed in the organized sections of the Province.

Young Boys Made Example of in Police Court Tuesday.

Evening Post of Oct. 22.

Railway property has to be respected. Such is the law, and Police Magistrate Jackson is bound to enforce it. In police court this morning Arthur Moore and Ralph Trevor were charged with trespassing on the property of the G. T. R., and fined $4.95 each. They had been in the habit of frequenting the box cars near Flavell's elevator on Sundays and in the evenings, to enjoy a quiet smoke and chat, and kept it up until the minion of the law invaded their rendezvous.

The Magistrate propounded the clause in the statutes relating to their offence, and informed the youngsters that a fine not exceeding $50 could be imposed.

Mr. R. G. McCraw, local agent of the G. T. R., was strong in his denunciation of offences of this nature, and spoke of the danger of fire from smoking and lighting matches.

Mr. J. D. Flavell said a number of boys had been intolerable nuisances around the elevator, and the firm had serious thoughts of putting on a special policeman to get rid of them.

Chief Vincent cited a case, reported to him by the C. P. R. agent, of a young lad who had hurled a stone through a train window. Fortunately no passengers happened to be in the way, or they would have been injured.

Messrs. W. Hiskson, of Bobcaygeon, and Bruce Hamilton, of Copp & Clark Co., Toronto, took a trip up the north lakes, as far as Lake Katchewan last week for a trout fish and partridge hunt. They got partridge and trout, as they found no coonies, just old birds in twos and threes. It is supposed that the cold, wet weather in May and June killed off all the chickens. The trout were plentiful and they had some nice catches. As an evidence of their luck they brought home a fine string of beauties.

THE ABSENT-MINDED AUTHOR.

(With Apologies to Mr. Rudyard Kipling.)

He's an absent-minded author, and he's coming out to see

The oldest British colony of all;

He's a decent sort of fellow, full of oddity and glee—

And we'll all be glad to see him in the fall.

Dukes' sons, cooks' sons, sons of Japs and Chinks,

Have come across the sea to us—though some of them we don't need—

But welcome, Rudyard Kipling, for you helped to forge the links

That bind together the empire's sons, sprung from one Aryan seed!

He's bringing his wife just casual, and we'll lift our hats to her, and we hope she'll not forget the Maple Leaf;

There's respect for her in the heart of every blooming Britisher—

May she never know discouragement or grief!

Earls' sons, ehur's' sons, every mother's son, will greet

This absent-minded author—and do as much for his wife—

They'll give him a cheer in Toronto as he passes along Yonge-st.,

And to speak in Yankee tingo, he'll have the time of his life!

Though he may not equal Shakespeare, or please George Bernard Shaw,

His "Recessional" still lingers in our ears—

And though his Private Mulvaney is not amenable to law,

His tales move us to laughter on to tears,

Queen's sons, mean sons, sons in and out of jail,

Are thrilled by Kipling's magic, and feel that he's a "brick";

Every Tommy Atkins in Canada will give him an "All Hall!"

For his fame is not a rocket that comes down a blooming stick!

WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1871, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until to-day Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of woman's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With woman assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

THE PRACTICAL SHOE MAN, Directly Opposite the Post Office.

On the Other Hand

The preacher was offering his felicitations to the newly married couple.

"Young man," he said, "you have gained one of the fairest maids in the community; and you, young lady, have won a stalwart partner, whose good right arm will level every obstacle that stands in the way of your success in life."

"Left, Mr. Goodman, left," corrected the bride, with a proud look at the sinewy athlete by her side, "George is a southpaw, you know."

Worth the Money.

Fenelon Falls Gazette: Two years ago more or less, Mr. Andrew Egan gave Mr. E. G. Brock $45 for a practically thorough-bred Jersey cow, coming three years old, and a few days ago he sold her to Rev. Fr. O'Leary, of Galway, for $75. This seems a big price, but she is worth every cent of it; for she has given no less than 18 lbs. of butter in a week, and would no doubt do better on first class grass. Mr. Brock bought her somewhere near Cambridge, but only a few months old; she was taken to her new home near Swamp Lake on Wednesday, by Mr. Scott.
